CONGRESS GETS MONETARY BILL BY TOMORROW

Invoke Special Rule to Speed Passage.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—[Special.]—The administration's money bill, carrying legislative authority for the prosecution of President Roosevelt's dollar devaluation and gold seizure program, will start through congress on Saturday.

Urged into haste by the President and Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., Democratic leaders in the house today brought out a special rule to speed the measure's passage. Without more than brief and hurried hearings, the bill will be called up on the house floor day after tomorrow, it was announced.

The administration's strenuous efforts to push the dollar devaluation bill through congress as soon as possible found Gov. E. R. Black of the federal reserve board still opposed to the seizure of all federal reserve gold by the treasury. Appearing before the senate banking and currency committee, the federal reserve head declared that while he felt the profit on the gold stocks accruing from devaluation of the dollar should rightly go to the government he regarded the transfer of title to the gold as unjustified.

Urges Amendment.

"I have felt," he told the committee, "that these profits arose from a purely monetary policy of the government and arising from such purely monetary policy should and could go to the government independently of and irrespective of the question of where the title to the reserve system's gold was vested. The profits could be allocated to the government by a simple amendment to the Thomas amendment providing that in the event of devaluation such profit should go to the government through one of the legal expedients necessary to that end."

In even more vigorous support of his position, Gov. Black pointed out to the committee that federal seizure of the reserve system's gold has the result of taking from the reserve banks the gold stocks held by them as the backing for billions of dollars of federal reserve notes.

Security for Notes.

"In reference to this gold," he said, "I will simply state that at present it is pledged under the law as security for $3,238,810,000 of federal reserve notes issued by the twelve banks, and constitutes the reserves required by law upon notes issued by the reserve banks and upon deposits made with the reserve banks."

"The gold coin and the gold bullion held by the reserve banks speak for themselves," he declared.

Gov. Black's position was reëchoed at the other end of the capitol where James P. Warburg, former administration financial adviser, appeared as the first witness of the house coinage committee's curtailed hearings on the money bill. Mr. Warburg said he regarded the transfer of title to the gold an unnecessary move and one which easily might lead to the issuance of greenbacks.

Morgenthau Before Committee.

Earlier in the day, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau appeared before the house committee in a closed session to explain the purposes of the legislation and to request a number of "technical" changes. These administration amendments to the bill originally sent to the capitol, were incorporated in the measure before it was formally reported to the house by the committee.

Meanwhile, the total amount of gold which America bought abroad through the Reconstruction Finance corporation was revealed tonight for the first time by Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the RFC.

Mr. Jones said that 3,335,360 ounces of foreign gold had been bought between the end of October and January 15 at a total cost of more than 108 million dollars, making the average price more than $32 an ounce whereas the gold standard price was $20.67.

In addition to these foreign purchases, the RFC bought 695,027 ounces of domestic newly mined gold at a cost of more than 23 million dollars, making the total amount bought 4,030,387 ounces and the total cost almost 132 million dollars.

The RFC ceased buying gold when the dollar devalution program was announced, Jan. 15. Since that time the treasury has been buying gold itself, through the New York Federal Reserve bank.

Gold purchases are now being made in an effort to keep the dollar down. It was stronger today in foreign exchanges and, Secretary Morgenthau admitted that the government was watching the recovery of the dollar carefully.

BANKER IS HELD BY ABDUCTORS; $200,000 ASKED

St. Paul Man Seized on Way to Work.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 18.—[Special.]—Following out the orders of kidnapers who yesterday seized Edward G. Bremer, wealthy president of the Commercial State bank, and are holding him for $200,000 ransom, members of the Bremer family today inserted in the Minneapolis Tribune a two line advertisement. It read:

"We are ready. Alive."

Although the relatives of the captive and the police declined to discuss the message, it was understood that the printing of the advertisement was a necessary preliminary to further negotiations for the banker's release and that the method was suggested to Walter Magee, his close friend, to whom the ransom demand was made.

Late tonight the banker's aged father pleaded with authorities to drop their efforts to free his son for fear their action might endanger the son's life.

Member of Wealthy Family.

Bremer, who belongs to one of St. Paul's wealthiest families, was seized by the kidnapers yesterday as he was returning from the school to which he had taken his 8 year old daughter. He is the son of Adolph Bremer, part owner of the Jacob Schmidt Brewing company, and a nephew of Otto Bremer, chairman of the American National bank and Minnesota manager of the Home Owners' Loan corporation. It is believed the family is prepared to meet the ransom demands.

Efforts of the family to pay the ransom had been unsuccessful by early tonight, according to reports.

The kidnaping was the second in St. Paul in seven months. Last June William Hamm Jr., president of the Hamm Brewing company, was seized and held until $100,000 ransom was paid. The Roger Touhy gang, four of whom are now on trial in Chicago for the kidnaping of John Factor, were tried and acquitted of the Hamm kidnaping here last November.

Seized on Way to Bank.

Bremer was seized some time between 8:15 and 10 a. m. yesterday. He took his daughter to Summit school, as was his custom, on his way to the bank. The child arrived safely at the school. Mr. Bremer's failure to arrive at the bank caused little anxiety, as associates assumed he had stopped on some business call.

Near noon Walter Magee, prominent St. Paul contractor and a close friend of the kidnaped man, received the first word from the abductors, according to reports. Magee said he knew nothing of the affair. All information came from outside sources.

Threats Over Telephone.

Answering the telephone in his office, according to information, Magee was told that his friend, Bremer, had been kidnaped. He was warned, it was reported, that any attempt to communicate with police or newspapers would result in the immediate death of Bremer. He was also told that a note would be found on the steps at the rear entrance to his office. Efforts to trace the mysterious call proved fruitless.

Under a mat on the back steps of the office was found a typewritten note signed by Edward Bremer. The note apparently had been written and then folded and Bremer forced to sign it without knowing its contents.

Note Demands $200,000.

The note, it is reported, said Bremer had been taken captive by the kidnap gang and that he was held in a safe place and unharmed. A demand for $200,000 for his safe return was made. Again a threat of death for their victim was made unless the demands were met or in case police and newspapers were notified. The demand was that the money be in $5, $10, and $20 bills of used currency and not of consecutive numbers.

In the telephone call to Magee his mysterious informant said that Bremer's automobile would be found in a certain spot near the Highland Park water tower. It was not found there, however, but was discovered about a mile away.

Since the finding of the automobile federal agents and police have been attempting to track down the kidnapers. Leaving lanes open to effect Bremer's release, they withheld news of the abduction until early this afternoon.

F. L. MANDEL'S WIDOW DIES OF HEART ATTACK

Mrs. Blanche Rosenbaum Mandel, widow of Frederick Leon Mandel, who was chairman of the board of Mandel Bros.' store, died suddenly in her apartment at 20 Cedar street last night. She was 54 years old.

A heart attack, described medically as coronary thrombosis, caused her death. She was in a loop theater with her son, Frederick L. Mandel Jr., when she was stricken. Mr. Mandel rushed her home and then called Dr. L. Benno Bernheimer, 53 East Division street. He administered emergency restoratives, but she died soon afterward.

Word of Mrs. Mandel's death was immediately sent to her other son, Leon Mandel II., who is in Guatemala. Funeral arrangements may possibly be delayed until his return. It was indicated he may fly back.

Mrs. Mandel was born in Chicago, as was her late husband. He died in Paris, France, Sept. 20, 1930. Mrs. Mandel was at his side. He was the eldest son of Leon Mandel, pioneer Chicago merchant, and one of the founders of Mandel Bros. in 1855.

Britain Asks Sterilization of 300,000

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 18.—A law to permit the sterilization of mentally defective persons and some physically ailing was recommended tonight in the report of a government committee. Such a law would affect 300,000 persons.

In contrast to the German sterilization law which became effective Jan. 1 and affected 400,000 persons, the British measure would not be coercive. Here the approval of the health minister would be required to validate the application of two medical practitioners, one preferably the patient's family doctor and the other a practitioner on a list approved by the health ministry.

The Committee's Report.

The committee's report said in part:

"We were impressed by the dead weight of social inefficiency and individual misery which are entailed by the existence of more than 300,000 mental defectives in the country and of a far larger number of mentally subnormal persons. This mass of defectives and subnormals is being steadily recruited.

"Contraception is no remedy, since we are dealing with people most of whom cannot be expected to exercise sufficient care. Also, it is idle to expect that people least capable of self-control will succeed in restraining one of the strongest impulses of mankind.

"Without some measure of sterilization these unhappy people will continue to bring into the world unwanted children, many of whom will be doomed from birth to misery."

Bill Proposed.

The committee, appointed in June, 1932, to study the problem, offered a bill which goes farther than the one rejected by parliament in 1931. The class of physically ailing persons to be deprived of their reproductive powers would include those shown to be carriers of transmissible disabilities.

Sterilized defectives would be given proper supervision and aid after the operation. Where possible, the sterilization would be authorized on the patient's declaration of willingness to undergo the operation. If married, however, the applicants would be required to notify their mates of the contemplated action.

The committee's report asserted that experience in other countries, particularly the United States, showed that sterilization does not produce the harmful results prophesied by its opponents.

URGES STERILITY FIRST FOR THE TOO-INTELLIGENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 18.—Prof. W. F. Tait, head of the department of psychology of McGill university, today contributed a new angle to the controversy over the merits of sterilization.

"If you wish to cure the ills of society by sterilization," he said, "you should start with the overintelligent. The worst crimes, the most widespread blights, are not caused by subnormal or mental defectives, but by intelligent people.

"Child labor, sweatshops, religious, political and racial persecution, stock manipulation, bank delinquencies, graft at the expense of the country, intrigues and high grade murder, war and its horrors, are not caused by the morons but by the intelligent."

TAMMANY BOOS WHEN AL SMITH DUCKS BANQUET

New York, Jan. 18.—(AP)—The name of Alfred E. Smith, long an idol of Tammany Hall, was booed and hissed tonight at a banquet of the Tammany Hall speakers' bureau.

In years past the former governor and 1928 presidential nominee of the Democrats had been the principal guest of honor at these functions.

Tonight he sent a letter of regret. After it was read catcalls, boos, and hisses filled the banquet room at the Hotel Commodore for several minutes.

Action Taken After Slash in Cost at Farm

BY PAUL POTTER.

The retail price of milk in Chicago will be dropped from 11 cents a quart to 10 cents this morning. Milk has been selling at 11 cents a quart since Nov. 3, except in cut rate milk stations.

Cream prices also will be reduced this morning. Half pints of coffee cream will be cut from 15 to 13 cents, and half pints of whipping cream from 20 to 18 cents. The price of pint bottles of milk will remain unchanged at 7 cents.

The reductions are made possible by a lowering of the price paid to farmers for their milk under the terms fixed by Mayor Kelly's arbitration board. These terms became effective Wednesday morning. Under this award the farmers are to receive $1.85 a hundred pounds [3.98 cents per quart] for milk sold as fluid milk in Chicago and suburbs, and $1.07½ cents a hundred pounds [2.3 cents a quart] for the milk from which table cream is extracted.

Surprise Move by Dairies.

The cut in retail price of milk and cream was announced yesterday as a surprise move by the larger milk companies, although it had been predicted for several days. The Borden Farm Products Company of Illinois was the first to make the reduction. Its subsidiary, the Wieland Dairy company, made a similar announcement, followed shortly by the announcements of Bowman Dairy company, Sidney Wanzer's Sons company, Western Dairy, International Dairy, and the majority of the members of the Chicago Milk Dealers' association.

Result of U. S. Failure.

It was said that all companies which have been charging 11 cents a quart would cut to 10 cents. Meanwhile some of the cut rate, cash and carry milk depots announced that they might cut their prices as low as 7 cents a quart.

Lowering of the retail price of milk and cream to the new prices is said to be the result indirectly of failure of the federal government, through a trade agreement sponsored by the agricultural adjustment administration, to maintain the high price level set up last November.

Events Leading to It.

At that time the 18,000 farmers belonging to the Pure Milk association were given the entire benefit of a boost from 10 to 11 cents a quart in the retail price, but consumption fell off and increased sales of milk at 8 and 9 cents a quart by cut rate dairies made it impossible to maintain the high prices. The strike of the farmers and the arbitration followed.

The reduction in the farm price accounts for about a half cent of the one cent drop in retail quart prices. The remainder is made up by milk companies partly because of a reduction in the wholesale cream prices and partly due to the fact that not all milk is sold in bottles, much of the city's supply being sold at bulk prices to hotels, restaurants, hospitals, etc.

"Squeeze" Move Is Charged.

Charges were being made yesterday that the retail price drop was a move on the part of large companies to "squeeze" the smaller companies, already reported to be operating at a loss. Several small dealers said that a larger volume of business plus the capital reserve to tide the large companies over periods of losses enabled the larger dealers to make this move. To meet this situation it is expected that the smaller companies will appeal to their employes, members of the milk wagon drivers' union, to accept a wage reduction.

Officials of the independent or cut rate dairies said last night they had not considered a price reduction for "cash and carry" milk, but would meet today to determine their price changes, if any.

INTRODUCE NEW 'CONFESSION' IN SURPRISE MOVE

Physician Collapses in Courtroom.

BY WALTER FITZMAURICE.

A confession in one sentence—the only credible one which, the state contends, Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop ever offered for the killing of her daughter-in-law, Rheta—was introduced in evidence by surprise yesterday at the physician's murder trial.

That confession, which Dr. Wynekoop allegedly uttered in an unguarded moment of exhaustion after signing a statement that Rheta died by accident, was repeated on the witness stand by the fellow physician to whom she had confided it. The witness was Dr. Harry R. Hoffman, alienist and dean of the Criminal court behavior clinic.

Quotes the Defendant.

"I did it to save the poor dear," the alienist quoted Dr. Alice's alleged words—apparently meaning the dead Rheta. The words were spoken in solemn tones to an attentive jury.

Eight words only. But their import was such that, if the jury finds she uttered them, the mitigating element of her famous "first confession," on which the state relies to prove the physical act of killing, would be nullified.

Judge David had earlier ruled the signed statement admissible as evidence, upholding the state's contention that of itself it was no more than an admission of involuntary manslaughter. "It's an exculpatory statement," the judge ruled, "and among my instructions to the jury will be one on involuntary manslaughter."

Sees Her Sign Confession.

Before coming to the climax of the "second confession," Dr. Hoffman testified he had heard her make the first and saw her sign it when police stenographers reduced it to writing. In the three yellow pages of typing, corrected by her own pen, Dr. Alice averred that she was examining Rheta, gave her chloroform to ease the pain, and, perceiving her dead from an overdose, fired a shot into the body to cover her mistake.

But a few minutes after signing, as physician to physician, Dr. Hoffman testified he asked Dr. Wynekoop:

"Doctor, why was it really that you did this thing?"

And that she answered:

"I did it to save the poor dear."

Save her from what?

Questions Her Again.

This question came to the alienist's mind the moment Dr. Alice had spoken, he later revealed outside the courtroom. There was no doubt, he explained, that the "poor dear" was Rheta herself, and not Dr. Alice's philandering son, Earle, to whom Rheta was married. But he could not understand what peril Rheta might be in that Dr. Alice should wish to kill her. And so, quite naturally, he asked her.

"I got no answer," Dr. Hoffman said. "I could only conclude that Dr. Alice wished to save the girl unhappiness."

Aware of the importance of the eight words, indicating a killing by design instead of by accident, Prosecutor Charles S. Dougherty had saved it for the last moment of Dr. Hoffman's direct examination. The effect on the jury seemed profound. The twelve men turned as one to gaze at the frail elderly woman huddled in the defendant's chair.

Defendant Is Disturbed.

Dr. Alice and her faithful daughter, Dr. Catherine Wynekoop, could not conceal their deep disturbance. Dr. Alice passed her large white hand across her quivering mouth as if in an agony of surprise that a fellow physician should bare her secret at her trial. Dr. Catherine, who was once Dr. Hoffman's most brilliant pupil at Rush Medical college, shot a hard glance at her former instructor.

Twenty minutes later, as court adjourned, Dr. Alice was in the throes of the severest heart attack she has suffered since Rheta's death Nov. 21. With her daughter pressing her fingers anxiously to her mother's pulse, Dr. Alice slumped in her chair in utter collapse.

The courtroom crowd, already surfeited by the afternoon's sensations, pressed close for a view of the stricken doctor. Her daughter, hastening to prepare a dose of digitalis for the faltering heart, was rudely jostled. Women crowded close upon the frail shoulders of the defendant and bailiffs fought to push them back.

"Stand back—give her air," yelled

Defense Attorneys Milton Smith and Frank Tyrrell. Windows banged open and the throng around the doctor gave a little at the charging of the bailiffs.

A photographer clambered on a chair to make a speed flash of the turmoil. The enraged Tyrrell seized a three pound law book and hurled it at the photographer's head. The aim was true—a flash bulb burst and the cameraman scrambled from his perch, rubbing a reddened forehead.

"Never mind, child," the reviving Dr. Alice soothed her angered daughter. "We've been harassed and nervous this afternoon. Take me away now, please."

The now placid defendant was lifted to her wheel chair and rolled away to her cot in the county jail. Later the assistant jail physician, Dr. Constantine Theodore, issued a bulletin that her pulse was 103 and her strength still failing. Sedatives were administered which, Dr. Theodore reported, brought the pulse down to 86, "fairly normal for a woman of 62 years."

Most Effective Witness.

It was Dr. Hoffman's story that wrought the havoc, both state and defense agreed. A handsome man of 40 years, trimly dressed in blue serge, with steel blue eyes that swept the jurymen, he was pronounced the most effective witness the state has yet produced.

Police Captain John Stege, another witness of Dr. Alice's signed statement, preceded Dr. Hoffman on the stand. A battle had arisen over the question of summoning either witness, with both judge and lawyers showing frayed tempers.

"Your honor's repeated interruptions make us all nervous," Defense Attorney Milton Smith complained.

Trying to lead Capt. Stege into channels apart from the confession, Attorney Smith asked about John Van Pelt, the Wynekoop handyman, against whom the defense had previously uttered dark insinuations. Also he asked about Van Pelt's friend, James Simmons, the supposed sinister figure, whom Dr. Wynekoop barred from the Wynekoop home, but who turned up yesterday with an iron clad alibi.

Judge Storms at Defense.

"You're not going to put every Tom, Dick, and Harry the police may have questioned on trial in this case," the judge stormed. "What has his arrest to do with this lawsuit?"

"Did Van Pelt ever confess killing Rheta?" Milton Smith persisted. The judge turned purple.

"Any attorney who would put such a question is either ignorant of the law or deliberately committing an impropriety," the judge roared. "Shut up. That will do."

"But he never confessed," Capt. Stege replied, with a laugh in which the court joined.

"Object to the court laughing," shouted Attorney Smith; while amidst the hilarity the defendant pressed a hand to her pulsing throat and her daughter whispered excitedly.

Insists It Is Laughable.

"But it is laughable," the court insisted.

"Laughable?" bellowed Smith. "Talk about confessions! Earle confessed, did he not?"

"Well, you can bring him in and he can confess again," the judge replied, serious now. "He can come on this stand and say, 'I killed Rheta.' That would be admissible."

Earle, whom the police once booked as his mother's accomplice and who "reenacted" the crime as well as confessing, will be a defense witness, Attorney Smith indicated. For the present he is hiding, and will not reappear until the state's case closes, it was learned.

Attorney Assails Court Rulings.

The Van Pelt issue during recess was transferred to the corridor. To reporters there Attorney Smith proclaimed that the rulings of the court were "raw." The defense had uncovered evidence, Smith declared, that Van Pelt was in custody of police during the eleven days of his mysterious disappearance a month ago and that while in custody he had confessed "firing a shot at Rheta."

On the issue of the admitting of the doctor's signed statement, the prosecution and defense assumed the reverse of the normal positions. Attorney Smith maintained the statement was in fact a "confession," which entitled him to show the stress under which it had been given. Prosecutor Dougherty maintained it was an alibi and as such was admissible under any circumstances.

Rules Statement Admissible.

On the theory that it was an exculpatory statement, the judge then ruled it was admissible. Thereupon Capt. Stege and Dr. Hoffman were called to testify. Both went thoroughly into the manner in which it was obtained and its content. Both were present when she made it verbally in Fillmore street police station, and both saw her sign it when reduced to writing.

Both denied Attorney Smith's suggestion in his argument against admitting it that Assistant State's Attorney John Long had beguiled the doctor into signing it by shedding tears, by confronting the doctor with her married son, Earle, and by pleading that he [Long] was also a favorite son. The statement came quite voluntarily at a time the doctor was cool and self-possessed, Hoffman and Stege maintained.

"She put her hand in mine," said Dr. Hoffman.

"She laid her hand on Dr. Hoffman's knee," was Stege's version.

That was the only essential difference in their versions. In crisp sentences each successively related what the doctor told them, and each confirmed that the doctor had signed, after penning a few minor corrections, in her own hand.

"She said, 'Capt. Stege, what would happen if I were to tell you my story?'" was Dr. Hoffman's version. "Capt. Stege said, 'I don't want your story; I want the truth.' Then Dr. Wynekoop said she would begin and I shut the door.

Suggests an Examination.

"'Well, Rheta was going downstairs,' she began. 'She wasn't feeling well—had abdominal pains. I suggested it would be a good time for a pelvic examination. She got on the table and I asked if it was hurting her. She suggested I better give her chloroform to deaden the pain. After a while I talked to Rheta and she didn't answer. . . .'"

The alleged author of the witness' narrative shrank down in her chair. Dr. Hoffman was getting to the point of Rheta's being shot. Dr. Catherine was watching her mother's pulse, and Dr. Alice's face seemed a little more gray.

"'Rheta didn't answer,'" Dr. Hoffman repeated the defendant's alleged words. "'I took her pulse, then felt for a heart action through a stethoscope and couldn't get any pulse. I didn't know what to do. The suggestion of a revolver came to my mind. I held the gun six or seven inches from the body and fired a shot.'"

Dr. Harry Hoffman Describes Scenes Leading Up to Dr. Wynekoop's Signed Confession

Dr. Harry R. Hoffman, director of the Criminal court behavior clinic, was the last witness at yesterday's session of the Wynekoop trial.

Questioned by Assistant State's Attorney Dougherty, Dr. Hoffman said that he lived at 540 Briar place, that he was a physician, and that he had been director of the behavior clinic since April, 1931. He explained that he had gone to the Fillmore street police station when Dr. Wynekoop was being questioned at the request of Grover Neimeyer, who then was first assistant state's attorney.

He said that Dr. Wynekoop was questioned in the police station by Assistant State's Attorney John M. Long while he observed her reactions. The questioning began about 1:15 p. m. on Nov. 23 and continued for an hour and fifteen minutes, he said. Afterward Dr. Wynekoop was taken to another room in the station and ultimately to the women's quarters in the Racine avenue station.

Outlines Doctor's Actions.

Prosecutor Dougherty asked the witness to outline in detail the actions of Dr. Wynekoop when Capt. Stege walked into the questioning room at 10 o'clock on the following morning last Nov. 24. Dr. Hoffman began:

"When Capt. Stege arrived he asked her if she wanted anything to eat or drink. She said that she wanted no breakfast, but that she would drink some coffee. The captain sent Officer Reynolds of the state's attorney's office to get the coffee.

"About 10:30 o'clock Dr. Wynekoop asked the captain what would happen if she told her story. He told her that he wanted just the truth and not any story. Then she said, 'Close the door and don't let any one in'."

Prosecutor Dougherty asked if that was all she said.

Holds Doctor's Wrist.

"It was, for the moment. I was standing by the only window and the captain sat in a swivel chair. Dr. Wynekoop was lying on the couch, with an overcoat over her. I sat down beside her and she grasped my arm. I held her wrist while she talked.

"She said that Rheta [on the day of the murder] was going downtown to get some sheet music. She [Rheta] had complained of abdominal pains and the doctor said she had said that now would be an ideal time to have a pelvic examination. The doctor said that Rheta disrobed and got on the operating table complaining of pain. She [the doctor] said the pain would be relieved with a whiff of chloroform. She said she handed Rheta the bottle and Rheta kept using the chloroform.

"Pretty soon," the doctor said, "she noticed that Rheta wasn't breathing. She said that she saw that Rheta's pupils were dilated. Using a stethoscope, the doctor said she got no heart or pulse action.

Tells of Firing Pistol.

"She said she took the gun from the desk and turned the girl so she lay on her left side. She said she fired from a distance of six inches, then covered the body with a blanket. She said she herself got dressed and went out the basement door. She said she walked down Madison street and bought some stamps in one place. That was about the substance of her statement.

Q. [By Dougherty to Hoffman on the stand]—Did you have any further conversation with the defendant soon after she had made the statement? A.—Yes.

Q.—What did she say, and what did you say? A.—I asked her why she had done this thing, and she replied: "I did it to save the poor dear."

During his earlier testimony Dr. Hoffman had said that he had known Catherine, the defendant's daughter, when she was a pupil in one of his classes in Rush Medical school, where he was an instructor. There was no recognition in the hard glance which Catherine shot in his direction at that moment, however.

While the courtroom was still quiet from the shock of Dr. Hoffman's statement the prosecutor withdrew, announcing that the defense might cross-examine.

Tries to Show Grilling.

Defense Attorney W. W. Smith took a chair at the end of the jury box and began asking a series of questions designed to show that Dr. Wynekoop had been "grilled" for a long period of time on the morning she made her statement and her eight word "confession."

Among other queries he addressed to Dr. Hoffman were these:

Q.—Did you make a medical examination of the defendant? A.—I felt her pulse.

Q.—Didn't you make any further examination? A.—No, it was not my duty.

Q.—Who was the first man who questioned Dr. Wynekoop at the police station? A.—State's Attorney Long.

Q.—How long did he continue to question her? A.—From 11:15 until about 12:15.

Q.—Did any one get any water for the defendant or did she complain of fatigue? A.—No, but finally at midnight she said she had a headache. I got an aspirin tablet for her.

Q.—Did she have a pallor? A.—No, I'd say that she didn't have a pallor.

Q.—Did you hear Long say: "For God's sake why don't you tell what happened in the operating room"? A.—I did not.

Q.—Did you hear him say to Dr. Wynekoop: "You know that you seized the chloroform bottle and she [Rheta] struggled, and that you gave her an overdose by accident and then shot her? A.—I did not.

Q.—Would you say this was not said? A.—It was not said in my presence.

Q.—But you weren't there all the time? A.—I was there all the time when Dr. Wynekoop was questioned.

Q.—Did you tell her that it would be better for her if she made some sort of a statement? A.—I certainly never did say that.

Q.—Did you tell her that her son Earle had confessed the murder? A.—No, I didn't.

Defendant Is Animated.

Dr. Wynekoop was as animated as she has been at any time during the trial. She occasionally bent her head toward Catherine to whisper. The cross-examination continued.

Q.—[To Dr. Hoffman]—Did you say to her that Earle wanted her to confess? A.—I did not.

Q.—Were you there when Earle was brought into the jail? A.—Yes.

Q.—Was his hair disheveled? A.—I'd say no.

Q.—Were his eyes bloodshot? A.—I don't think—no, they weren't.

Q.—Did you see Dr. Wynekoop hold Earle's head in her hands and say to him: "You know, boy, that I've got nothing to confess?" A.—No, I don't remember that any such scene occurred.

Q.—Were you there when the lie detector was brought in? A.—Yes.

Q.—Didn't Mr. Wilson, the man who operates the machine, refuse to use it on Dr. Wynekoop because he said that she'd drop dead if he did. A.—No, I didn't hear that, and he used it.

Queried on Blood Pressure.

Q.—Didn't you hear him say that her blood pressure was around 270? A.—No; he took her pressure and it was 225.

Q.—What would be normal? A.—About 180.

Q.—Well you know that if it were about 270 it will be fatal? A.—No, I don't know that.

Judge David interrupted to announce that the attorney could spend no more time on "this lie detector business." He said that no testimony concerning the lie detector would be admissible because the machine was not considered as sure enough in its findings for consideration by the courts. He asked Dr. Hoffman to describe the machine, and the physician said that it tested the pulse, breathing, heart action, and blood pressure of those who undergo the test.

Wrangle Over Detector.

A wrangle developed between Judge David and the defense lawyers during which both sides began shouting. Judge David asserted that the attorneys could ask no more questions about the detector, but reversed his ruling to allow Attorney W. W. Smith to put another query to Dr. Hoffman.

Q.—Didn't Wilson tell you that the test couldn't be made because of the physical condition of the defendant? A.—No.

Q.—Didn't Wilson tell you that the lady had been without sleep for 70 hours and that the test would not be good until she had been rested? A.—No.

Q.—Didn't you see Catherine and Walker Wynekoop the day after their mother made her statement to the police, and didn't you then tell them that she had told you the statement was false? A.—I met them and I told them something, but I didn't tell them that.

TELL OF EFFORTS BY DR. WYNEKOOP TO INSURE RHETA

Three Agents Testify at Day's Hearing.

When the Wynekoop trial was resumed yesterday morning the state continued its offering of evidence to show the efforts of Dr. Alice Wynekoop to obtain insurance upon the life of her daughter-in-law, Rheta. The first witness of the morning session was Miss Ester English, solicitor for the Commercial Life Insurance company.

Miss English testified she had gone to the Wynekoop home and met Rheta.

"I told her who I was and what I had come for and then Dr. Wynekoop stepped forward and told me that she would talk to me," the witness said. "Rheta left the room and I got the information which I put in the application from Dr. Wynekoop."

Rheta in Another Room.

Prosecutor Dougherty asked her who had signed the application and the witness explained that Dr. Wynekoop took the application to another room, where presumably Rheta had signed it.

Miss English said that at no time had she been told that any other insurance company had rejected an application for insurance on Rheta's life. The policy which her company had accepted was for $1,000, with a double indemnity clause. The beneficiary was Earle Wynekoop, with Dr. Catherine secondary beneficiary.

Hyman G. Brown, 317 South Kostner avenue, solicitor for the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, was summoned by the state. He testified that he had known Dr. Wynekoop for more than a year because he had visited the home while collecting premiums on insurance he had written for John Van Pelt, the Wynekoop janitor.

Asks About $10,000 Policy.

When first approached by Dr. Wynekoop, the witness said she had asked him for the rates on a $10,000 policy for a woman 28 years old. Later she told him the policy was to be for Rheta and finally he visited the home to make out the policy.

Brown said he had discussed the beneficiary for the policy only with Dr. Wynekoop who directed that she be named. He said the application was made out by him on information supplied by the defendant and added that he did not see Rheta at all. Dr. Wynekoop, he said, took the application to Rheta, who signed it. Brown said he did not see Rheta sign it.

Through this witness the state was able to show that Dr. Wynekoop at first had offered to pay for the policy in annual installments but later because of lack of funds said she wanted to pay the premium in quarterly installments.

There was no cross-examination and the third witness of the day, Morgan E. Hickey, agent for the Mutual Life Insurance company, was called to the stand. He spoke in a heavy voice, telling that Dr. Wynekoop had talked to him about a $10,000 double indemnity policy on the life of Rheta. The beneficiary was to have been Earle.

STEGE RELATES QUESTIONING OF ALICE WYNEKOOP

Lawyers Battle Over Two Confessions.

Police Captain John P. Stege yesterday repeated the two stories Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop told of the death of her daughter-in-law, Rheta. First came the statement that she had found the body on her operating table, apparently the victim of a marauder; then her dramatic "confession" that the slender girl died under an anesthetic while the doctor was examining her.

Capt. Stege told both stories twice in the courtroom of Judge Joseph B. David, once in the morning outside the presence of the jury and again in the afternoon with the jury intent in the box. Defense counsel tried to keep "the confession" from the jury, but after arguments which were continued following the noon recess the court ruled that the jury had the right to hear all statements made by the defendant.

Not a "Confession" Says Judge.

"No one with legal knowledge could say that statement was a confession," the judge said. "That's her statement of explanation of the death. If the jury found it was true the jurors could do one of two things—either find her not guilty or find her guilty of involuntary manslaughter. I can't see why the defense should object to an exculpatory statement of this kind."

Defense Attorney Smith opened the afternoon session by arguing "the confession" was wrung from the elderly physician by subterfuge and guile. He declared that it had been "suggested" to her and that in telling it she was only repeating what had been drummed into her brain as the easiest way out. Smith even contended that Assistant State's Attorney John M. Long told her "If you tell that story, I'll resign and defend you."

"That was a very foolish thing to say," Judge David commented. A moment later, Smith's objections were overruled with a brusque command from the court to "Bring in the jury."

Judge Gives Illustration.

"It is up to the jury to decide whether the statement that Rheta died accidentally while under chloroform is true," Judge David had told reporters during the noon adjournment. "If they decide the 'confession' is true, then Dr. Wynekoop is innocent."

"Suppose a man is found dead and he has six bullet wounds in his body," the judge said in illustration. "Another man is arrested and he makes a statement in which he says the victim suddenly asked to borrow his gun. And then suppose the statement says that the victim took the gun and shot himself six times.

"Now then, if the jury chooses to believe that statement, the man is innocent because his friend committed suicide. But if the prosecution can bring in a witness who might say that he looked in the window and saw the defendant shoot the victim, then that disproves the statement. It is up to the jury to decide if the statement is true."

STEGE'S EXAMINATION

Capt. Stege's examination, which began at 2:03 p. m., was as follows:

Q.—Captain, directing your attention to Nov. 22, 1933 [the day after the murder], did you go to the home of the defendant? A.—Yes.

Q.—You went with her to the Fillmore street police station? A.—I did.

Q.—Who came with her? A.—Miss Enid Hennessey, the Rev. Dr. Hopkins [the Rev. John Henry Hopkins, the defendant's spiritual adviser], Dr. Catherine Wynekoop and several others. There was a lawyer, a Mr. Gubbins.

Q.—Before you questioned Dr. Wynekoop, did you advise her about her rights? A.—I did, and after conferring with Dr. Hopkins and Mr. Gubbins she agreed to answer any questions I asked.

Asks About Earle.

Q.—Tell us what she said. A.—I asked her first about her son, Earle. She said he was out west on a photographic expedition. He had left Nov. 12, she told me. I inquired the date of his marriage and the circumstances of his and Rheta's life in Dr. Wynekoop's home. Then I asked about John Van Pelt [the Wynekoops' handy man], who had worked there until several weeks before. Then I asked her to relate her actions the day of the murder.

"After lunch on Nov. 21," Stege continued, "Dr. Wynekoop told me she left the house to shop on Madison street. She looked in several hardware stores and entered one whose proprietor she knew. He was not there, so she went out and, after walking more, arrived home about 4:30 o'clock.

Miss Hennessey Comes In.

"She went downstairs to her office, she said, removed coat and hat, and came up to prepare dinner. Miss Hennessey came in about 6 o'clock and they had dinner. Later the doctor sent Miss Hennessey to a drug store at Madison and Kedzie. Returning, Miss Hennessey noticed Rheta's hat, coat, and purse on a chair. [Rheta had failed to return for supper.] She called that to Dr. Wynekoop's attention. The doctor told me she answered that Rheta had another coat and hat upstairs and had probably worn that.

"Dr. Wynekoop and Miss Hennessey then sat and talked about an ailment which was troubling Miss Hennessey. About 8:30 o'clock the doctor went downstairs, she said, and switched on a light in her operating room. She saw Rheta lying on her side on the operating table. She called Dr. Catherine and asked her to come home; that 'something has happened to Rheta.' Catherine came."

Then Stege said his examination ran as follows:

STEGE—Didn't you pull the blanket off Rheta? A.—I couldn't touch her.

Q.—How did you know that she was shot? A.—I saw the gun and presumed that she was shot.

Concludes First Story.

This concluded the first story. The jury sat back as Mr. Dougherty asked questions leading up to the second statement, the "confession." This story was told at the Fillmore street station on the morning of Nov. 24.

Stege and Dr. Harry R. Hoffman were the only persons with the doctor.

"She was lying down in the captain's office when I came in," Stege related. "I asked her if she had had breakfast. She hadn't, she said. I ordered coffee.

"Dr. Wynekoop said, 'Captain, what would happen if I were to tell my story?' I told her I didn't want any story. I wanted the truth.

"'I will tell it if you will shut the door,' she said: so I closed the door.

Tells of Rheta's Illness.

"We sat together, the three of us, and Dr. Wynekoop put her hand on Dr. Hoffman's knee and he put his hand on her hand. She told us that Rheta had not been well, that she had been suffering from some abdominal ailment, and because that was the right time of the month to make an examination she told Rheta to come downstairs.

"Rheta weighed herself and then the doctor placed her on the table and made an examination.

"It was painful, so Dr. Wynekoop said she suggested giving Rheta chloroform to deaden the pain."

Q.—By Mr. Dougherty—How was it administered? A.—On a sponge.

Talks with Rheta.

Stege continued: "The doctor talked with Rheta while examining her and after a time she said that no answers came. She took the girl's pulse but could detect none. Then she took her stethoscope and placed it over Rheta's heart. There was no response."

"Dr. Wynekoop said that the thought of a revolver in her desk came to her and she took the weapon and holding it within 6 inches of Rheta's back fired one shot. Then she took the blanket and wrapped it about the body and walked out of her office. This was about 4:30 p. m.

"I asked the doctor if this was her true and voluntary statement and she said that it was. I asked her if she would sign it if it was reduced to writing and she agreed. She repeated it before Police Lieutenant Blaul, Lieut. Duffy, Assistant State's Attorney Long, Dr. Hoffman, and me, and signed it after making a few minor corrections."

MR. DOUGHERTY—That's all, captain. Cross-examine.

Defense Attorney W. W. Smith began his questions.

Q.—Was Nov. 22 the first time you saw the defendant? A.—Yes.

Q.—Who were in her home when you came there? A.—Many people. Some friends of Dr. Wynekoop from Joliet were there; there was Miss Hennessey, Dr. Catherine and others, and the house was full of reporters.

Q.—Did the members of the Wynekoop household tell you that John Van Pelt lived in their home? A.—Van Pelt had lived at the home until three weeks before the murder occurred. [The witness stepped down from the witness chair and taking a pointer indicated on the chart of the basement rooms a place where he said Van Pelt had slept on a daybed.].

Q.—Don't you know that Van Pelt was arrested for the murder and held by the police until after Dec. 25?

Before the witness could answer Judge David jumped to his feet and demanded:

"What's the meaning of this question? What is its bearing upon this lawsuit?"

Held in Custody.

Attorney Smith stepped in front of the bench and announced: "This man was held in custody for the murder of Rheta. He was charged with the murder at one time."

"What do you mean?" shouted the judge. "Do you mean that there were formal charges placed against him?"

The lawyer explained that he meant that, although Van Pelt was never charged in the courts with the murder, he had been questioned and held in custody for a long period. Judge David pondered and then allowed him to ask another question.

Q.—Did John Van Pelt ever confess the murder? A.—No.

Capt. Stege was excused from the stand and Judge David ordered both defense and state attorneys to bring into court today all witnesses who were present when Dr. Wynekoop made her statement to the police in Fillmore street station. The hearing was then adjourned.

NOTES OF THE WYNEKOOP MURDER TRIAL

After the morning session Judge David was talking to reporters in chambers when his daughter, who had attended the morning hearing, rushed in. "Dad," she scolded him, "if you keep on like this you'll have apoplexy." Judge David regarded her fondly and said with a smile, "Probably I will, probably I will."

* * *

Police Captain John Stege on the witness stand matched the precision of the school teacher, Miss Enid Hennessey, who testified several days ago, in his choice of English and pronunciation. He pronounced the word "against" as any Oxford man would have done, with the second "a" like the "a" in rain.

* * *

Asked by reporters if the morning had made her mother nervous, Dr. Catherine said brusquely, "Not nervous. Just mad. She's hopping mad. But she'll get a chance to tell her story, and it will be a different story altogether."

* * *

Mrs. Gladys Reeves, 1043 East Sixty-fifth street, one of the women who obtained a seat in the morning by arriving early and waiting in line, was asked who was the most interesting figure in the courtroom. "Why, Judge David," she said without hesitation. "Next comes Dr. Wynekoop, and then her daughter."

* * *

Fred Marsh, 3512 North Keeler avenue, one of the Wynekoop trial jurors, announced yesterday morning that he had such a severe toothache that he really couldn't pass competently on evidence unless the tooth were pulled out. Would it be all right, he asked Judge David through a bailiff, for him to go to his dentist and have the aching tooth extracted.

Although defense attorneys wished to object, Judge David waved aside their protests and ordered Deputy Sheriff Michael Jelinke to accompany Marsh to the office of Dr. Emil A. Melze, 2619 Milwaukee avenue, and to see that no talking about the murder trial was done.

The extraction was accomplished and the juror returned to his task much relieved.

* * *

Dr. Jennie Clark, one of Dr. Wynekoop's fellow trustees in a medical sorority, came to court today with Walker Wynekoop, her son and Dr. Catherine Wynekoop.

* * *

Burdine H. Gardner, father of the slain Rheta, and his wife, of Indianapolis, having been seated obscurely in the rear of the room, were given chairs in the aisle yesterday and had their first clear view of the proceedings.

* * *

During a recess reporters gathered around the counsel table near the defendant and her daughter. "Get away; you can't talk to mother," Dr. Catherine said. She then talked for her mother. Once she interrupted herself to point to the floor under the state's attorney's chair where ink was spilled. "Look" she said with glee, "they spilled their ink. Isn't that swell?"

* * *

The Rev. John Henry Hopkins, Dr. Wynekoop's spiritual adviser, came into court prepared to administer the sacrament of extreme unction in the event the defendant's condition became critical. He carried with him holy oils, blessed by a bishop of the Episcopal church.

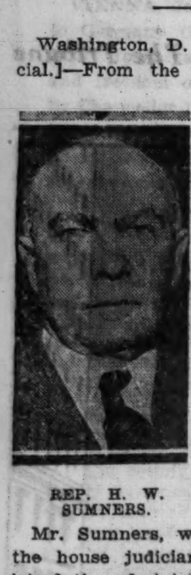
CHICAGO WAR ON CRIME PRAISED IN CONGRESS

City Is Lauded for Its Initiative.



REP. H. W. SUMNERS.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—[Special.]—From the stark necessity of ridding its house of gangsters, racketeers, and grafters, Chicago, said Representative Hatton W. Sumners [Dem., Tex.] in a speech in the house today, has developed the sort of citizenship that will be needed to restore self-reliance and revive local government in this country.

Mr. Sumners, who is chairman of the house judiciary committee, criticized the administration severely for undertaking the prosecution of racketeering in Philadelphia. He said that "if they have racketeers in Philadelphia that is what they need in Philadelphia and they ought to racket and racket" until the Philadelphians can stand it no longer and wake up and do what the Chicagoans did. He learned about Chicago during a judiciary committee investigation there last summer.

Hits Those at Public Trough.

"The country," said Mr. Sumners, "is now operating under war psychology, and the country has given to the President war powers, but the big job that is going to challenge our statesmanship and challenge the governmental capacity of the people will be when we reach the point of weaning away from the public treasury those people now living off of the public treasury and when we come to take the power of this government away from these great federal bureaus and give them back to the people. That is going to require real statesmanship on the part of those who sit here and on the part of the American people.

"The greatest danger that grows out of these things that are now being done comes from relieving the people of their accustomed governmental responsibilities, relieving them of the necessity to struggle with the problems of government. In proportion as people are relieved from the necessity to struggle, to think, and to do, you tend to destroy their ability to do. Nature usually refuses to human beings powers which they do not exercise.

Flays U. S. Interference.

"Here we are, more than 100 million people being made dependent upon a great federal government. The states do not count, apparently. Municipalities are doing almost nothing on their own responsibility. The cry all over the nation is, 'On to Washington.' Now, that is dangerous. We are having to do these dangerous things. I recognize the necessity for doing them now, but I do not underestimate the danger that results from doing them. Not only is there the tendency on the part of the federal government to deal with every economic problem, however local and personal, but I am sorry to say there is developing a tendency on the part of the federal government to enter the field of law enforcement in the various communities."

With the federal government managing the economic life of the country and beginning to take over local police protection, how is it going to be possible, the Texas congressman asked, to preserve the governmental capacity of the states? But Chicago furnished him a ray of hope.

Studied Situation.

"I made it my business to go into the Chicago situation this summer," Mr. Sumners went on. "I think Chicago is making the most magnificent demonstration of the ability of its people to govern themselves to be found on this continent anywhere. Just a little while ago everybody pointed the finger of scorn at Chicago, gangster ridden. They tried to get the federal government to go in and clean up their situation. They could not get that done. Necessity compelled them to get on the job. They are working at it in dead earnest. Of course they have got a big job yet. That is fine. That is what they need. These jobs will never be finished.

"I spent four days in Chicago. I talked with street car conductors, talked with policemen, talked with little merchants, talked with big merchants, lawyers, bankers, with people representing a cross section of the community; and I found in that city an arousing, determined purpose to clean up that community. I do not believe I can be mistaken about it. I know; we have it in the committee judiciary; we have watched the present attitude and purpose as it began to develop.

"It was not long ago—the papers of Chicago would write about these gang captains meeting to divide their territory as they would write of a meeting of the league of nations. At that time the public officers were afraid or bought. When I was there I found those officers vying with each other in putting the rats in the penitentiary. Why do they do it? They do it because they have to do it: public opinion directs and supports them. Necessity developed that opinion and effort developed the capacity of the people."

Applying the fable of the larks and the farmer Mr. Sumners said:

"When they were appealing to their 'friends' to come out and clean up Chicago the gangsters knew they did not have to move yet, but when the people of Chicago said: 'Others have failed us and we are going to clean them up,' then the gangsters knew it was time to be going some place else.

Develops Citizenship.

"What is happening in Chicago is that in their effort to clean up they are developing for that city the sort of citizenship which that city needs generally and which the country must have. Suppose some outside agency had done this job. It would have left just the sort of people, but a little meeker, than when that agency went in.

"In this emergency we are taking away from the American people much of the responsibility which they formerly had. We are taking away from the states responsibilities which they formerly had. We have before us today not the picture of sovereign states but that of governmental vassals appealing at the doors of the federal treasury to borrow back the money that has been paid or must be paid by their own taxpayers. We have the picture of municipalities coming to the federal government to borrow money that has been paid or must be paid into the treasury by their own taxpayers. We have the picture of federal employés going all over this country telling people what to do if they would get part of their own money. That cannot continue, and we must get ready for the day when it must end. The only possible preparation is a citizenship with great capacity for self-government."

CASSIDY, LOCAL NRA "DICTATOR," TAKES UP DUTIES

John E. Cassidy, recently appointed director of the National Emergency council for Illinois, arrived yesterday to take over his new duties, which have been described as being dictatorial over all local phases of the New Deal. He is establishing his office in the local headquarters of the NRA compliance board, room 1706 at 201 North Wells street for the present.

Mr. Cassidy is a resident of Peoria, Ill., where he is known as a young, but well rated lawyer. He is 38 years old, a war veteran, and the father of six children. He is a graduate of the University of Notre Dame law school. Several months ago he was appointed attorney for the Home Owner's Loan corporation.

DIES IN PLUNGE FROM 11TH FLOOR OF LOOP HOTEL

A man about 55 years old, believed to be in the crude oil business, leaped or accidentally fell to his death last night from his room on the 11th floor of the Brevoort hotel, 120 West Madison street.

He had registered at the hotel on Tuesday as Ray Fallon of Milwaukee, and was assigned to room 1136. He paid for his room two days in advance. Last night his body was found in the alley between the hotel and the One North La Salle building.

Detectives Guy Willoughby and Roy Kindt of the central station found his room window open and a chair drawn next to it. Among the victim's personal effects they found a card bearing the name of William H. Green, showing that Green was a distributor for the Kendall Refining company of Bradford, Pa. Other papers were issued to Green by the Pennsylvania Grade Crude Oil association of Oil City. It is believed the victim was Green. His clothes were purchased from Loeben-Hart, Louisville, Ky.

HELD ON BURGLARY CHARGE.

James McDowell, colored, 24 years old, 8916 Green Bay avenue, was held to the grand jury in bond of $2,500 yesterday by Judge William E. Helander on a charge of attempted burglary.

URGES U. S. LAW TO END SALE OF 'POLITICAL DRAG'

Vandenberg Offers Bill in the Senate.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—[Special.]—While Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.] was introducing a bill making it unlawful for officers or employés of national political committees to practice before federal executive agencies, President Roosevelt took further steps today to end the politico-lawyer scandal embarrassing his administration.

The President called in Postmaster General James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman, to consider action to compel additional Democratic national committeemen to resign their party offices or retire from their lobbying activities.

Follows Roosevelt View.

Mr. Roosevelt viewed with satisfaction the shakeup in the Democratic national committee precipitated by his view that national committeemen who have come to Washington to represent clients in business with government officials are tacitly selling reputed access to the back door of the administration.

Following his expression of this view at his press conference yesterday Robert Jackson stated that he had resigned as secretary of the Democratic national committee and national committeeman for New Hampshire. J. Bruce Kremer, another lawyer who migrated to Washington with the Roosevelt régime, said that he had resigned as Democratic national committeeman for Montana on Dec. 30. Max Gardner resigned as Democratic national committeeman for North Carolina before opening his law office here a few months ago and received a letter from the President commending him for such observance of the proprieties.

Consults About Two Others.

What is to be done about three other Democratic national committeemen practicing law here is reported to have been the subject of the conference between the President and Mr. Farley today. They are Arthur Mullen of Nebraska, Orman W. Ewing of Utah, and John F. Costello of the District of Columbia.

Although Mr. Farley communicated the views of the President to him some ago, Mr. Mullen, who is reputed to have made a fortune since March 4 representing clients before governmental departments, virtually has defied the White House. He said he would not resign an office to which he was elected by the people of Nebraska.

Mullen to Have Choice.

The President, however, is determined that Mr. Mullen shall either resign or take down his shingle in Washington and has deputed Chairman Farley to accomplish the result desired. Mr. Farley declined to reveal what steps he would take.

Mr. Costello thought the President's ruling was not intended to apply to him as he is not a carpet bag lawyer, but a lifelong resident where his career has been devoted to the law.

Other Democratic national committeemen who practice before the departments are Dudley Doolittle of Kansas and Herbert Fitzpatrick of West Virginia.

Cloak rooms at the capitol buzzed with the speculation on the possibility that Mr. Farley himself will be impelled to resign, either from the cabinet or from the national chairmanship, because of the growing public conviction of the impropriety of a national chairman dispensing party patronage as postmaster general.

Mr. Farley, however, remained noncommittal on this matter.

The Vandenberg bill provides:

"No officer or member of a national committee of any political party and no employé thereof who is engaged in the collection of political funds, shall be eligible to hold any government position directly or indirectly under the jurisdiction of the treasury department or any of its bureaus.

"No officer, member, or employé of any such national committee shall be permitted to practice before any department, bureau, board, commission, or independent agency of the government, or attempt to influence directly or indirectly any position by any such department, bureau, board, commission, or independent agency."

Michigan Case Cited.

The first paragraph of the bill is the outgrowth of a Michigan incident. Horatio J. Abbott, Democratic national comitteeman for Michigan, was appointed internal revenue collector in that state. Mr. Farley had commissioned Committeeman Abbott to raise $30,000 as Michigan's quota of the Democratic national committee's deficit. It was reported that federal employés in Michigan were being assessed to help raise the fund.

In connection with confirmation of the appointment as internal revenue collector, Senator Vandenberg wired to Mr. Abbott, asking him whether he had any connection with the alleged assessment which would be a violation of the existing campaign fund solicitation law.

Mr. Abbott responded that he had had no connection with raising the fund. Thereupon Senator Vandenberg said he was happy to join in confirmation of an old friend. The senate voted yesterday for confirmation.

Vandenberg Absolves Abbott.

"Any such relationship in the hands of a less scrupulous person than Mr. Abbott could lead to scandals of intimidation and duress," said Senator Vandenberg. "I agree with the President that there should be no possibility of mingling public authority with political revenue, either for private or for party gain.

"I am introducing a bill proposing to divorce all possible relationships between the treasury and the national committee of any party, and also putting the warrant of law behind the President's desire that political comitteemen shall not practice before federal departments."

For months the capital has rocked with stories of the fat plums and other choice favors being garnered from government offices under the Roosevelt régime by the Democratic politico-lawyers whose activities were exposed by THE TRIBUNE on Oct. 5.

WIFE OF PRESIDENT WARMLY GREETED BY DOG NAMED HOOVER

Orange, Va., Jan. 18.—[Special.]—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the President, stopped here for lunch at the Harlow tearoom with a companion, whom she presented as Mrs. Hickok.

At the tearoom, conducted by Mrs. Harlow, they have two prize Boston bulldogs. The name of one of these dogs is Hoover and has been for a long time. Upon taking her seat in the tearoom Hoover ran up to Mrs. Roosevelt, jumped on her lap, and licked her hand. Noticing this and not wishing to have his guests annoyed, Mr. Harlow called out: "Come here, Hoover."

Mrs. Roosevelt seemed to catch the name at once. She was noticed to put one hand over her face as if to hide a smile. Then she patted the dog.

SEIZE HUSBAND AFTER WIFE DIES OF PNEUMONIA

Investigators went to a bleak home at 1142 Chicago avenue yesterday and found Mrs. Agnes Neuman, 45 years old, lying unclothed and unconscious in a blanketless bed and suffering from pneumonia. They found several children scantily clad and weak from hunger.

Mrs. Neuman was taken to the county hospital, where she died a few hours later. The youngsters, Walter Neuman, 11 years old; John, 10, and William, 9, and Agnes McDade, 12, a cousin, were taken to the Juvenile home for shelter.

The investigators, Mrs. Bertha Quctrock, truant officer for the Carpenter school, and Juvenile Officer Frank Kacjewski, caused the arrest of John Neuman, husband of Mrs. Neuman. He will be arraigned in the Court of Domestic Relations today. It was charged that Neuman neglected his family, although he was employed.

BORAH DECLARES NRA IS PERIL TO SMALL BUSINESS

Leads Fight to Restore Anti-Trust Laws.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—From out of the west today a three cornered attack was launched at the Roosevelt NRA program. Democratic ears in the senate heard the key policy of the New Deal berated by Republican assailants as a destroyer of the consumer and the little business man, and the enemy of freedom of speech and of the press.

For once, radical and regular Republicans found common cause, as Senator William E. Borah, the Idaho individualist; Senator Gerald P. Nye, the radical from North Dakota, and Senator Arthur R. Robinson, the old line Republican from Indiana, spoke their minds about iniquitous features of the recovery program.

Will Wipe Out Gains.

Unless the anti-trust laws were restored to force, Senator Borah declared, small business men would be driven to the wall, and rising prices resulting from price fixing agreements among the great industries would wipe out any gains in wages or the farmer's income from his products. Devaluation of the dollar would not help the little man, said the Idaho speaker, unless the abrogation of the anti-trust laws contained in the national industrial recovery act were repealed.

"If the masses are to get the benefit which is contemplated by the monetary legislation in hand, they must necessarily be protected against the power of monopolies, of combines, and of trusts to fixe the prices of products and to establish the rules of the game," said the senator.

"Also it will be proposed shortly that we appropriate another very large sum of money for public works. Who will get the money? If the prices which the laborer must pay for the things he must have in order to live are constantly increased, as they have been increased for the last several months, the increased pay or the increased amount to be expended in the building of public works will be of very little benefit to the laborers of the country."

Prices Are Identical.

Senator Borah cited the steel code with its permission for steel corporation executives to "gather round the table." He recalled that when the federal coördinator of railroads, desiring to further the purchase of steel rails, had called for bids, the prices submitted were "identical to the color of a cent." President Roosevelt called in the bidders and found they had acted according to agreement.

"I have learned lately," Senator Borah continued, "that the methods by which these same interests make bids upon work offered by the government is that they present precisely the same bid, and then when it is allotted upon the basis of a certain price they put their names in small tubes, throw them all into a box, and draw out one, and assign the contract to the one, whoever it may be, whose name is drawn out.

"So the government of the United States, under the codes, can have only one bidder for all the products in the steel line which the government may desire to secure. It is as complete a price fixing, as complete a monopoly with reference to that class of practices, as has prevailed at any time in the history of trusts in the United States.

"It is my contention," he went on, "that millions of lollars are being extorted from the common people of this country in prices which are fixed by trusts and monopolies, notwithstanding the provisions of the code.

"Under the rules which are established by these codes, in a large measure by the big interests, as they must necessarily be, the rules are such as to drive out of business thousands and thousands of small business men. Since last October I have received a little over 9,000 letters from small business men of the country giving instances of how the code was embarrassing them or driving them out of business."

Of what use was farm recovery legislation, demanded the senator, if farm expenditures were to rise faster than farm income.

See Farmer No Better Off.

"When you take into consideration the increased price which the farmer is receiving for his commodities and the increased and extraordinary price which he is paying for the things which he must use, he is no better off than he was before the price raise took place," said Senator Borah.

"Everything, from overalls to gasoline, has gone up, all the way from 67 to 120 per cent, and so long as men have the power to sit about a table and fix prices they will continue to raise those prices to keep a little ahead of the rise in the prices of commodities.

"Cotton towels have risen 87 per cent, children's hosiery 94 per cent, men's socks 67 per cent, union suits 73 per cent, cheap shirts over 72 per cent, overalls over 100 per cent.

Wants Consumer Protected.

"There is no possibility of the farmer meeing his taxes, meeting his interest or meeting his mortgage if the price of the things which he must buy continues to rise in that proportion."

"We have got to do one of two things if we are going to protect the consumers of this country," said Senator Borah. "We must either restore the anti-trust law and enforce it, or the government must go all the way and fix prices itself. There is no other way of which I can conceive by which to protect the consumer."

Concluding, Senator Borah warned that unless the anti-trust laws are restored to full force, a greater concentration of wealth will result.

"If the combines are permitted to collect the prices they fix," he declared, "and drive small men out of business, it will not be long until the concentration of wealth which we have had will not be a circumstance to that which we will have."

Senator Nye pursued the same theme, asserting that unless the NRA changed its codes the consumer would become "a mere slave to the interests of the 'plunderbund.'" He cited numerous instances of small business men forced to "march to their graves" and asserted that the General Electric company, by virtue of the electrical code, had been able to "strengthen its domination over small producers."

More serious than any of these factors, Senator Robinson believed, was the threat of the NRA to freedom of speech and of the press. He spoke of the fight newspapers have made to have a specific free press reservation incorporated in the newspaper code and Gen. Johnson's insistence that the constitution provided a sufficient guarantee.

"In the controversy that has arisen the American people are vitally concerned," said Senator Robinson. "If there is one right on which they have insisted throughout the years, and on which they will continue to insist, it is that of free speech, as guaranteed by the constitution. Free speech is absolutely impossible without a free and untrammeled press. Because of this fact the people refuse to become excited so long as the press remains unmuzzled.

Sees Free Press Periled.

"But when the newspapers evidence concern the people become justly alarmed, for they are aware that one of their most precious rights is seriously imperiled; that the constitution itself is in danger there can be no doubt in unbiased minds. Evidence accumulates on all sides to substantiate this view. Executive dictatorship is well on the way and state lines have well-nigh been obliterated. That the President now exercises too much power for the country's welfare is all too evident. That he is constantly reaching out for new and enlarged authority is also within the knowledge of everybody. Give him now the power to throttle the press, and his dictatorship is complete."

Tribune Wins Its Case.

The senator reviewed the long and continued fight for press freedom and recalled that only lately "the old menace to the press, 'libel on government,' was invoked by the Thompson administration in Chicago. The city administration sued THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE for a great sum for libeling the government. THE TRIBUNE won its case when the Supreme court of Illinois held that a city cannot sue a newspaper for libel."

Then, in conclusion, he stated:

"National emergencies are fraught with dangers, not the least of which is the possibility that some of those temporarily intrusted with power may feel called upon to 'rule or ruin.'

"If obsessed with such an idea they are apt to stop at nothing to attain their ends. That such possibilities exist today there can be no doubt, and the American people should be on their guard. 'Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty.'"

HINT AT FREER HAND IN COMPENSATIONS FOR U. S. WAR VETS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—(AP)—Strong hints were given today by Democratic leaders in congress that the administration was seeking a compromise on liberalizing veterans benefits, in the face of strong pressure for the new American Legion four point program.

The administration was represented in some quarters as being ready to compromise to the extent of liberalizing regulations under which the economy law is operating, or even to accept some legislative modifications of the act.

Senator Robinson, Democratic leader, told newspaper men consideration was being given to the question, but refused to discuss it in detail. The statement was made following a visit to the White House with Senator Byrnes [Dem., S. C.].

Mary Fleury Gets License to Marry Dead Broker

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 18.—[Special.]—Miss Mary Fleury, 25, socially prominent daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Fleury, today took out a marriage license to wed John S. Zeiser, 38, broker and sportsman, also socially prominent, who died here Jan. 5. Miss Fleury's mother said: "My daughter did it as a matter of sentiment. She still loves Mr. Zeiser—or his memory. Some day she will destroy the license, but for the moment it represents something she cannot give up."

JOHNSON HINTS REVOLUTION IF NRA IS SCUTTLED

New York, Jan. 18.—[Special.]—Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator, tonight delivered a defense of the NRA, which was also a challenge to its critics. He hinted at the alternative of revolution if those who would "scuttle" the recovery program are successful. He spoke at the annual dinner of the National Retail Dry Goods association.

Earlier in the day the association adopted a resolution appealing to President Roosevelt to stabilize the dollar as essential to recovery.

Predicting a "distinct movement" in congress to repeal the national recovery act and admitting that a storm was brewing against the whole recovery program, Gen. Johnson charged that "It won't be a forthright and open motion for repeal," but a flank attack by those who would return to what he characterized as the old order.

Denies It Aids Monopolies.

The recovery administrator denied that the NRA oppresses small enterprises and promotes monopoly as charged by its assailants or that it was partial either to labor or capital, he denounced "despicable" attacks upon him as prompted solely by "politics."

"I thank God that the strength of my official position here is that I am without political ambition, and am free to close the window, whistle to the dog and finally walk out the private door of my office any day that this kind of despicable thing becomes too much for my self-respect to bear," the general declared. He admitted that some mistakes have been made in the writing and promulgation of codes, due to the haste to which the work has been done.

"That there are some few such provisions in 200 hastily assembled codes I have no doubt," he said, assailing "hypocritical" critics of the NRA. "For that reason we have already opened up four suspected codes to public hearing.

"We have no secrets. Between the middle and end of February we are going to have a public conference on every approved code and then the world and his brother, anybody who has the slightest grievance, will have his day in court with everything wide open."

Will Raise Wages More.

Replying to those who charge that the NRA has raised wages too high, Gen. Johnson warned that the object of the February conference will be "to raise them still higher and to spread them further."

"If this be treason make the most of it," he said. "If I should be got rid of, now is the time to do it. There are two alternatives—one is to go back to the old system, and God help the country if we do. The other is, put another man in my job. Doubtless there are thousands who could do it better. But if it be a protagonist of some of the ideas I am attacking, this program will collapse."

In conclusion, Gen. Johnson appealed to the retailers to support the Blue Eagle by buying only from manufacturers who observe codes. He also warned the retailers themselves that their code will be taken away from them if they fail to observe it honestly, but expressed confidence that they would stand behind their obligation.

D. F. Kelly of the Fair store, Chicago, was elected a vice president of the association.

AUSTRIA WARNS HITLER TO DROP HOSTILE STAND

Nazis Riot as Mussolini's Aid Reaches Vienna.

VIENNA, Jan. 18.—(AP)—A warning to Germany that "it is not entirely safe" to threaten the "independence and freedom of Austria" was issued by Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss today in a speech marking the arrival of Under-Secretary Fulvio Suvich of Italy for diplomatic discussions.

"Our great neighbor land must finally realize that it is perhaps not an entirely safe game when a country, whose importance in central Europe and, indeed, all Europe is generally understood and recognized, continues to be constitutionally threatened in its independence and freedom by a great power—which unfortunately is also a country inhabited by brother folk," the fighting five-foot chancellor asserted.

Bombs Burst in Vienna.

"The country or state which practically assumes an attitude of might against a small neighbor country runs the risk itself of being outlawed with respect to other states and peoples."

The clattering of hoofs, the bursting of bombs, and the shrieking of police sirens, as well as shouts of "pfui Dollfuss," formed an exciting background, meanwhile, to the discussions between the chancellor and Premier Mussolini's emissary.

Nazis in this way let the Italian statesman know that they have not yet been exterminated by Dollfuss' ruthless campaign against them, their propaganda, and their "terrorism."

Police Disperse Rioters.

Police managed to keep a mob away from Suvich's hotel, but Hitlerites succeeded in turning off street lights in the vicinity.

A Nazi demonstration in the Ringstrasse then began, with occasional bombs and much anti-government shouting. Squadrons of mounted police finally dispersed the rioters, at least until after dinner.

Street car traffic was disorganized for hours. Police had taken special precautions against Hitlerite demonstrations along Suvich's route from Rome.

The purpose of his visit was not exactly disclosed, but was generally regarded as a gesture of encouragement by Premier Mussolini to Chancellor Dollfuss in the latter's fight against Nazism and for a United Austrian "front."

Condemns Nazi "Terrorists."

In his address Dollfuss condemned the recent demonstrations of Hitlerits in Austria as a "wave of terror of an intensity never experienced before in our homeland."

He pointed out, however, that five per cent of the population could organize such a campaign and that "hence this does not indicate that the Nazi movement is popular."

Dollfuss also significantly referred in his speech to recent declarations of the French Foreign Minister Joseph Paul-Boncour and Sir John Simon, the British foreign secretary, saying that "from their statements it is clear that the existence of a free and independent Austria is one of the most important problems of central Europe, indeed of entire European politics."

The government rearrested Count Albrecht Alberti, a prominent lower Austrian Heimwehr leader, and two of his closest collaborators tonight on charges of treasonable activities. Count Alberti was arrested last week for negotiating with the Nazi leader, Alfred E. Frauenfeld but was released at the request of Prince Starhemberg, chief of the Fascist and pro-government Heimwehr [home guard].

Police arrested 940 persons in connection with today's disorders.

France Backs Up Dollfuss.

PARIS, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss' warning to Germany that it was not "safe" to threaten Austrian independence, was characterized tonight by a government spokesman as "timely."

"Austrian independence is the key to order in central Europe," said the spokesman, "and France is baking Dollfuss financially, economically, and morally in his fight against anschluss (Austro-German union).

"On this point we are closely united with Italy."

See Duce as Mediator.

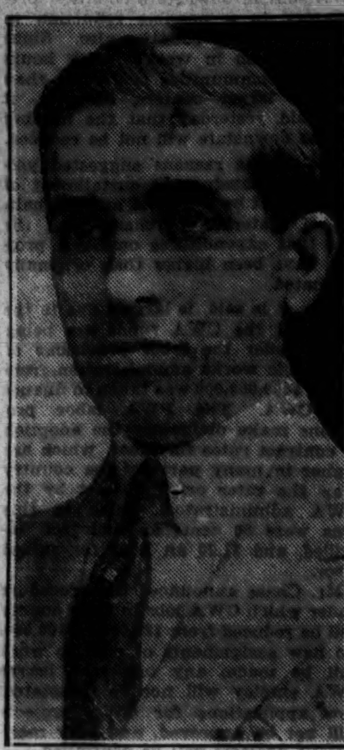
ROME, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Belief that Premier Mussolini may have to adopt the rôle of mediator between the quarreling régimes of Chancellor Dollfuss of Austria and Chancellor Hitler of Germany was expressed tonight in well informed circles by those who read the Austrian chancellor's speech.

Official comment was declined tonight on the ground that events would have to determine the reaction of the Italian régime to Dollfuss' warning to Germany.

Calls Action "Unprecedented."

BERLIN, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Reports of Chancellor Dollfuss' warning to Germany in his address reached Berlin too late for official comment tonight. One newspaper headlined the article on Dollfuss' speech "Unprecedented Attack of Dollfuss on Germany—a Speech Out of Despair."

Ponzi Free Feb. 14



CHARLES PONZI.
[Copyright: Underwood & Underwood.]

Boston, Mass., Jan. 18.—(AP)—Charles Ponzi will be released from the state prison on Feb. 14 and immediately deported to Italy, state and federal officials said today. He will serve the minimum of his 7 to 9 year term for his get-rich-quick swindle. Miss Mary Ward, commissioner of immigration, said agents from her department would arrest him on a deportation warrant as he stepped from the prison.

EX-KAISER PLOTS FOR MONARCHY, NAZI CHIEF AVERS

Hohenzollerns Flayed on Empire's 63d Birthday.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 18.—"We do not want the kaiser back and we will punish monarchists who attempt a plot as severly as we punish communists."

This was the substance of speeches and proclamations with which Nazi leaders today dampened royalist hopes for a Hohenzollern restoration. It was the 63d anniversary of the creation of the German empire by Kaiser Wilhelm I. and Bismarck.

In former years monarchist diehards used this day for celebrations to reawaken the enthusiasm of oldtime followers of the Hohenzollerns, but this year they had little chance to be heard—all official tributes went to Chancellor Adolf Hitler, who, his admirers said, "is completing the work started by Bismarck."

Monarchists Warned.

In Berlin, Arthur Goerlitzer, Prussian state councillor, and Rolf Brandt, a chief of the German secret police, simultaneously issued severe warnings against "trying to undermine the Nazi state and exploint Nazi good nature."

"Several groups of old timers are attempting to sabotage the Nazi government in favor of a reaction. This will not be tolerated," Goerlitzer said. "Somebody at a recent meeting dared cry, 'Hitler achieved much, but now he should bring back the kaiser.' There is no need for the return of the kaiser.

"If, as the kaiser's birthday is approaching [he will be 75 on Jan. 27], oldtimers make speeches and try to collect money for the kaiser's relief fund, we will consider this sabotage of the German nation. We will not tolerate that gentleman in Doorn who dares to write letters suggesting that people agitate for him and enable the monarchy to bring happiness back to Germany. We will treat people engaged in this propaganda that same as we treated followers of Moscow."

Attacks Pastors and Priests.

Rudolf Diels, another leader of the secret police, meanwhile attacked what he described as "the loud gesticulating of Protestant pastors and Catholic priests." This will not be tolerated any longer, he said, especially if "theological controversies are used for malevolent criticism of Naziism."

Paula Siber, Nazi leader of women, appealed to German women today to relinquish their jobs and make a place for men "who were more seriously wronged in the past by being deprived of jobs than women are being wronged today."

In this connection it is pointed out that there are 2,000,000 more women in Germany than men as a result of the war.

Frau Siber assured women that their coöperation is still needed for "propagation of the race, national education, and economics. Motherhood is the first commandant for a Nazi woman."

DROP NEUTRALITY POLICY, FRANCE APPEALS TO U. S.

Premier's Note Wins Senate's Applause.

PARIS, Jan. 18.—(AP)—An American declaration ending the traditional neutrality policy of the United States was urged today by the French government.

"We hope," Premier Camille Chautemps told the senate in commenting on President Roosevelt's "capital message" to the Wilson foundation recently, "That the President will go so far as to say that neutrality in the face of an aggressor can no longer be maintained."

The senate applauded and then gave the government an overwhelming 286 to 3 vote on its disarmament policy as the premier asserted the national defense would not be weakened in the face of "rearmament of another country."

Chautemps described as "a sign of hope" and "of the highest importance" President Roosevelt's willingness to coöperate with the league of nations and his "readiness to surrender certain neutrality rights in order to prevent war."

"We can assure President Roosevelt," the premier added, "that France does not wish an inch of ground belonging to any one else and will never engage in aggressive war."

Chautemps, meanwhile, completed the revised 1934 budget in which proposed expenditures were reduced to the lowest figure in five years, 49,019,000,000 francs, or about three billion dollars. Income estimates will be submitted later. A balanced budget—a detail on which three governments in the last year have had trouble—was promised.

Meanwhile, France informed Germany that "automatic, periodic, and equal supervision" of all arms must be the basis of any disarmament agreement. It was learned that this viewpoint was enunciated in a memorandum sent to Berlin Jan. 1.

Anti-Saloon Chief's Car Collides with Beer Truck

Columbus, O., Jan. 18.—(AP)—S. P. McNaught, superintendent of the Ohio Anti-Saloon league, was in an automobile collision at a downtown street intersection, and was his face red? The superintendent was on his way to work when his car collided with—of all things—a beer truck.

LEAGUE WARNS NAZIS IN DANZIG TO KEEP HANDS OFF THE PRESS

GENEVA, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Nazis in the free city of Danzig were warned by Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, before the council of the league of nations today, that the freedom of the press is inherently safeguarded by the constitution of Danzig.

The league council only yesterday heard fresh charges of alleged illegal activities by Nazis in the Saar basin. Charges of Nazi persecution in Danzig, like the Saar, a league sponsored territory, came before the council today on petition from Danzig editors protesting temporary suspension of their anti-Nazi newspapers.

The newspapers concerned in the protest were supporters of the anti-Nazi Socialist and Centrist parties, and their suspension arose from comment on a reported statement made by the vice president of the Danzig senate that officials who did not definitely accept the Nazi state would never hold any positions in the future.

A TRUE STORY

By A MOTHER

whose physician told her ten years ago how to keep her children well

HERE is a mother, who, with her three children, has been enjoying the blessings of perfect health ever since her doctor told her the secret ten years ago!

She is Mrs. J. A. Sullivan, 180 Sherman Avenue, Meriden, Connecticut, and she sends us her story hoping that those who read it may learn this simple method of health and happiness. With her letter she sends us photographs of herself and her children which certainly bear out all her enthusiastic praise of what her doctor told her ten years ago. Mrs. Sullivan writes as follows:

"We are enthusiastic Nujol users, and have been ever since my oldest boy, who is now ten, was a baby, when my family physician advised me to give him Nujol.

"I have seen all three of them through all the children's diseases, which invariably come with the school age. However, no complications have ever occurred, nor have any bad after-effects developed, and I have always felt that this was due to the regular habits acquired by the systematic use of Nujol. We are all healthy and busily active from morning till night."

Here is another true story by a mother, of how she keeps herself well, and how for the past ten years she has kept her three children in perfect health.

Why don't you follow her example, and see what Nujol will do for you when you take it regularly so that it will make you regular as clockwork?

Bring up your children on it too. It cannot hurt them; it is perfectly pure and absolutely harmless; and it forms no habit. Nujol is just a lubricant and is not absorbed by the body at all. Nujol comes in two forms, plain and Cream of Nujol, which is flavored and is often preferred by children. You can get both forms of Nujol at any drug store.

What is your Nujol story? If you have been using Nujol for ten years or more, if you are bringing up your children on it, tell us. Address Stanco Incorporated, 2 Park Avenue, New York City.

ACT ON CONTROL OF SPECULATION WILL BE SOUGHT

New Deal Aids Drafting Bill for Congress.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—[Special.]—Federal control over speculation on the country's commodity and stock exchanges is to be demanded of congress during the present session.

Definite word that legislation is in process of preparation slipped out today as Secretary of Agriculture Wallace appeared before the senate agricultural committee to testify concerning the progress and the future plans of the AAA, the new deal's farm recovery agency.

An omnibus bill, covering all phases of President Roosevelt's plan for government control of the stock and commodity markets, is being drawn up by John Dickinson, assistant secretary of commerce, it was learned. Preparation of the measure has progressed to the point where it was made the subject of conference of interested officials last Saturday. But when it will be introduced in congress remains to be determined.

Aimed at Speculators.

Secretary Wallace indicated that the bill will be aimed at speculators, with provisions protecting legitimate investment trading and hedging operations such as are habitually practiced on the grain and cotton exchanges.

"When we are dealing with the speculative gentlemen real restrictions are in order," said the secretary in discussing the influence of speculation upon prices received by the farmer.

He said that some form of governmental check might well be applied to margin tradings and to the size of interests held by individuals or single concerns.

At the same time he disappointed some of the senators who expected a more radical opinion from the head of the AAA by pointing out the dangers besetting any limitation upon legitimate futures trading, and by denying that speculation had the bearish influence on farm prices traditionally charged against it. To arouse farmers over the iniquities of the speculator was to do them a "disservice," said Mr. Wallace, by drawing their attention away from the real and fundamental causes of their present dilemma.

July Transactions Cited.

Such gambling sprees as were indulged in last June and July, however, the secretary said, were properly subject to regulation. Even so, he explained, disaster came because of the over-large long—not short—interests acquired by certain traders, and the blow to farmers who held their grain was in part, at least, counterbalanced by the higher prices received by those who sold before the precipitate decline.

It was a confident but not a rosy picture of the progress of the AAA which Mr. Wallace presented to Chairman Ellison D. Smith [Dem., S. C.] and the members of the senate committee. The secretary admitted that there had been mistakes and erasures made in trying to delineate a "unified and balanced agriculture." But the composition was on the heroic scale.

With no further "basic commodities" added to the agricultural adjustment act—and there is a strong movement on to add beef cattle and perhaps beet and cane sugar—the rental and benefit payments to be paid out to American farmers in 1934 will total 761 millions of dollars, Mr. Wallace revealed.

Deplores Farm Product Prices.

He deplored, but claimed not to be dismayed, at the fact that the index of things the farmer must buy had risen a point from 117 in November to 118 in December, while the index of the prices received by the farmer had declined, despite the AAA, from 71 in November to 68 in December.

Secretary Wallace revealed that the corn-hog production control program had back-fired against the farmer. Because of the consumer's refusal to pay higher prices, he admited, the $1 per hundredweight processing tax was being passed back to the farmer in lower prices for his products. The corn and hog farmer, therefore, was having to take out of one pocket the 350 million which the government was putting in the other in benefit payments.

Senator Arthur Capper [Rep., Kas.] read a resolution from hog farmers of Smith County, Kas., asking that the processing tax be removed as "an act of mercy" since it was being passed back to them. Secretary Wallace disclosed that department agents have been investigating the packers to determine whether price fixing was taking place. But asked whether he knew of any way the passing of the tax back to the farmer could be prevented, he replied: "Frankly, I don't just see it yet."

"Do you intend to maintain processing taxes as a permanent policy?" asked Senator Burton K. Wheeler [Dem., Mont.].

"O, no," said Mr. Wallace. "I don't think any one wants to keep this thing up as a permanent proposition."

Present plans are but a means of seeing the country through the period of transition to a long term policy, he said.

Milk Proves Troublesome.

Milk and other dairy products had proved another troublesome category to be brought under governmental control, Secretary Wallace explained. Local price and marketing agreements had to be contended with. Early attempts to bolster up such agreements (as in the case of Chicago) had resulted in higher prices to some producers, but in decreased consumption and a diversion of milk to surplus uses.

Price fixing, it appeared, had had its unforeseen repercussions, for, speaking of the attempts to control milk production, the secretary said:

"One of the undesirable consequences of the earlier policy was the necessity of fixing retail prices, as well as wholesale, with its consequent tendency to raise distribution margins. My interpretation of the agricultural adjustment act is that it is intended to bring farmers' incomes up to satisfactory levels and not to guarantee the profits of distributing agencies or to require the consumer to pay the costs of excessive marketing facilities."

In the case of cotton and wheat, Mr. Wallace said, the processing taxes have been passed on to the consumer. Not only that, he stated, but a little bit has been added—he presumed because of increased processing costs.

Progress Is Described.

In brief form the progress of the AAA which he described was as follows:

Cotton—The signing up of 1,042,000 cotton farmers took 10,400,000 acres out of production last summer, cut the crop from an estimated 17,600,000 bales to 13,177,000, and cut the world carryover of American cotton from 13 million bales in 1932 to 10½ million bales in 1933. The Commodity Credit corporation loaned 54 million dollars to farmers on warehoused cotton at ten cents a pound. Approximately 2,400,000 bales of cotton were optioned to farmers at six cents per pound.

Net collections from processing taxes were 116 millions; from compensatory taxes, 13 to 15 millions. The year's income of the cotton farmer has been raised from the 425 million dollars in 1932 to 857 millions in 1933, the latter figure including $111,768,000 in benefit payments and $48,000,000 in possible profits on options.

Reports on Wheat Situation.

Wheat—Eighty per cent of the country's wheat farmers agreed to a fifteen per cent reduction in acreage seeded. Only four-fifths of the expected reduction in major winter wheat states has resulted, chiefly because of increased plantings by noncoöperating farmers. Supplementary plans to take additional acres out of production are under consideration. Last spring's carryover of 390 million bushels probably will be cut to 250 million bushels by the end of the current crop year. An international wheat agreement limiting production in the major producing countries was achieved. Checks representing the first 20 cent payment on the 28 cents a bushel benefit are going to farmers who have signed up. To date $28,000,000 has been paid out, the first installment to total $70,000,000, the second $32,000,000, or 102 million dollars in all. The 30 cents per bushel processing tax is to raise 108 millions.

With wheat and cotton the rosier side of the planned economy picture was finished. Live stock and dairy products have not reacted so successfully. The secretary explained that among other elements was the fact that while consumers must and do buy bread and clothes in the face of higher prices, they will and do go without meat and milk and butter when prices rise beyond a certain level.

2,000 CWA WORKERS PLANTING TREES AND TRIMMING SHRUBBERY

A survey yesterday revealed that approximately 2,000 civil works administration workers are now engaged in Cook county on the planting and trimming of trees and shrubbery. This project, suggested only a few weeks ago, is accomplishing an improvement and beautification of city and suburban streets which has gained the enthusiastic indorsement of civil and official groups interested in making Chicago a more sightly place.

More than half of the workers are busy at the improvement of parkways, streets and small neighborhood parks within the city limits. The other men have been placed at work in suburbs. It was found that the suburbs needed the tree workers as well as the city proper because many trees have been dying due to a lack of proper care and the attentions of a tree surgeon.

HOW WOMEN CAN WIN MEN AND MEN WIN

The Favor of Other Men

Unless two pints of bile juice flow daily from your liver into your bowels, your food decays in your bowels. This poisons your whole body. Movements get hard and constipated. You get yellow tongue, yellow skin, pimples, dull eyes, bad breath, bad taste, gas, dizziness, headache. You have become an ugly-looking, foul-smelling, sour-thinking person. You have lost your personal charm. Everybody wants to run from you.

But don't take salts, mineral waters, oils, laxative pills, laxative candies or chewing gums and expect them to get rid of this poison that destroys your personal charm. They can't do it, for they only move out the tail end of your bowels and that doesn't take away enough of the decayed poison. Cosmetics won't help at all.

Only a free flow of your bile juice will stop this decay poison in your bowels. The one mild vegetable medicine which starts a free flow of your bile juice is Carter's Little Liver Pills. No calomel (mercury) in Carter's. Only fine, mild vegetable extracts. If you would bring back your personal charm to win men, start taking Carter's Little Liver Pills according to directions today. 25c at drug stores.

CWA CUTS WORK, HALTS BUYING TO STAY IN BUDGET

20% Pay Cut for Workers in the Cities.

Frank D. Chase, Illinois director for the Civil Works administration, yesterday received orders from Harry L. Hopkins, federal civil works administrator, to stop all purchases of materials and to cut maximum weekly work hours from 30 to 24 in cities of 2,500 population and over and to 15 in smaller towns and rural districts. Similar orders were issued for all the states.

Both orders went into effect immediately. The reduction in hours means a wage reduction of 20 per cent for CWA workers employed in larger communities, and of 50 per cent for those working in smaller towns and rural areas. Both steps were taken in order to keep the CWA within its budget between now and Feb. 15, the date set for the termination of all CWA projects.

Yesterday's orders followed by two days the receipt of an order from Washington that Cook county must reduce its quota of CWA jobs from 123,000 to 100,000. At the same time orders were given for a survey of CWA jobs in downstate counties, preparatory to a possible reduction in quotas in those counties also. Since the reduction in weekly work hours in rural communities is greater than that in larger centers, however, it was said yesterday that the number of jobs downstate will not be reduced.

One of the reasons suggested yesterday as causing the curtailment of employment by the CWA and the halting of materials purchases was the fact that expenditures on CWA projects have been higher than originally estimated.

This, it is said, is largely due to the fact that the CWA funds are being spent under the labor provisions of the public works administration, from which $400,000,000 was taken to finance the CWA. The PWA labor provisions make obligatory the adoption of contract rates for labor, which are higher in many parts of the country than the rates originally set by the CWA administrator, which in this area were 50 cents an hour for unskilled, and $1.20 an hour for skilled labor.

Mr. Chase announced the procedure under which CWA jobs in Cook county will be reduced from 123,000 to 100,000. No new assignments of men to work will be made; any one who leaves CWA employ will not be reinstated; new applications for CWA projects will not be approved, and only meritorious projects will be continued.

BIRTH CONTROL BACKED AS KEY IN THE NEW DEAL

Mrs. Sanger and Coughlin Stage House Debate.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—[Special.]—Margaret Sanger, who for 20 years has fought for birth control, and Father Charles E. Coughlin, who says he'll fight against it forever, staged a daring debate today. They appeared before the house committee considering a bill to make the giving of contraceptive advice and device the legal job of the medical profession, through consultation, clinic, or prescription.

The fight is an old one. Today's argument was new. Economics shoved sentiment out of the picture. Instead of the traditional talk about the mother and her child, there was the more modern anxiety over the taxpayer and his money.

The proponents of the bill declared again and again that "without scientific birth control, the New Deal will be a fizzle." They pointed to the millions on relief; agreed that many had a "right to relief"; but insisted that the "taxpayer, too, has his rights." Foremost in the taxpayer's rights, one after the other speakers maintained, is the right to protect his pocketbook against the demands of the jobless who goes on producing more and more children who go, inevitably, to swell the relief rolls.

Coughlin Sees No Danger.

Father Coughlin, Detroit's radio priest, also buttressed his arguments with economic props.

"It is ridiculous," he spouted, "for the ladies to say we have too many children, when, as it is, we haven't enough hungry mouths to consume the surplus in this country."

Some of the women burst into scornful laughter. Some groaned. A few laughed hysterically. One cried out: "You're ridiculous."

Representative Hatton Sumners [Dem., Tex.], chairman of the committee, and a bachelor, beat the table for order.

Picks Out Mrs. Sanger.

The priest looked around the crowded room; focused his eyes on Mrs. Sanger, and Mrs. Thomas Hepburn, mother of six children [one is actress Katherine] and continued:

"They don't understand that you can't eradicate poverty by getting birth control; you can eradicate poverty only by getting rid of the birth control of money. That's a bet these ladies have quite overlooked."

More groans; another soprano "ridiculous."

The priest persisted above the babel: "The problem of this congress is to prevent the concentration of billions in the hands of a few men, and to put at least a few thousands in the hands of the farmers and the workers of this country."

Applause and Disapproval.

There was a clapping of hands from some. And a mutter of disapproval from others.

After an impassioned resume of his radio talks against the federal reserve bank, Father Coughlin swung into a realistic discussion of the obligations of marriage—so realistic that little murmurs of surprise and embarrassment ran about the room.

His theme was that there are still millions of followers of "God's fundamental command, 'Increase and multiply,' not 'Control and destroy.'" Still "enough intelligence in married people for them not to consider marriage merely legalized prostitution."

Seek to Change Code.

The bill, which is really an amendment to nullify the section of the criminal code which now forbids, under penalty of a $5,000 fine and a five year jail sentence, the transportation through the mails of any contraceptive information or devices. It provides that such advice or device may be given by any legally licensed physician, or by prescription at his direction.

When Father Coughlin read that part of the bill, he threw up his hands, shouted:

"My good Lord, the doctor can give it to the clerk in his office. That phrase is enough to damn the bill."

Where he argued that the present drug store bootlegging in contraceptives proved that the birth control fight had "debauched youth," Mrs. Sanger used the same bootleg conditions to prove that the legalization of it was necessary.

Representative Walter Pierce [Dem., Ore.], sponsor of the bill, who, by the way, carefully characterized himself as the father of six and grandfather of seven, surveyed the committee [every member was present] and said: "There is hardly a high school boy or girl who doesn't, I dare say, know more about this subject than you gentlemen."

But that was before the hearing had opened. When it had closed for the day much information, revealed usually in the physician's office, had been tossed out across the table.

Mrs. Hepburn said that the charge that birth control would cause race suicide was merely "academic nonsense." The maternal instinct, present she believes in nearly every woman, will take care of that argument.

"Almost all women," she declared, "want to have children if they can possibly afford them."

TELLS OF SUICIDE

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Charles Bilek, 40 years old, couldn't find any writing paper last night in his room in the Mills hotel, 817 West Monroe street, so he unfolded a cleanly starched bedsheet and on it addressed a message to Miss Alice Trillet, 18, of 737 Madison street.

The message, scrawled in large letters, read: "I will jump into the river because I love you."

Fifteen minutes later half a dozen pedestrians walking across the Madison street bridge saw a man take off his hat and coat, climb on the south railing of the bridge and dive into the river. He sank at Monroe street. In his coat police found a key to Bilek's room, Miss Trillet, said Bilek had sent her many love letters.

FRANCE SEEKS TO TIE UP WITH U. S. IN TRADE DEAL

Paris Formally Denounces Pact with Germany.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 18.—The virtual trade war that was declared yesterday between France and Germany offers a chance for the United States to capture an important share of the market formerly enjoyed by Germany, it was intimated today in circles close to the ministry of commerce.

While negotiations still are going on with Berlin to prevent a complete rupture, it is considered here that no matter what the outcome may be France will transfer a large part of the orders she has given to Germany to some other country.

Graduate Reduction of Quotas.

There will be a gradual reduction of German quotas during the next three months during which the trade treaty remains in force. Then, if a compromise has not been reached, there will be a drastic slash in German imports, with Berlin probably retaliating with maximum tariffs. This, it was believed, would result in virtual suspension of trade between the two countries.

The French recently have developed a keen interest in bettering trade relations with America. They would consider it advantageous to have the United States supplant Germany in the home market, providing the United States offers sufficient inducements. Foremost among such inducements is increasing the wine quota.

The French government today denounced the commercial treaty with Germany in a formal notification sent to Ambassador Andre Francois-Poncet. He will present it to the German government tomorrow.

Meanwhile the Paris government announced the lowering of German quotas to the extent of 300,000,000 francs [about $19,000,000] effective tomorrow in an attempt to cut Germany's favorable trade balance, which amounts to 1,300,000,000 francs [about $81,900,000]. Germany recently reduced French quotas.

Cuts Tariff on U. S. Fruit.

PARIS, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Refusal of buyers to purchase American apples and pears because of the heavy tax on them compelled the government today to reduce by more than 60 per cent its duties on fruits from the United States.

The reduction was a direct result of recent bargaining on wine import quotas with Washington. A new high tax was recently imposed when America's pear-apple quota was increased in return for wine quota increases and French importers immediately raised their prices.

This resulted in such decreased sales, they said, that not a single order has been placed with the United States since the taxes were announced. The government which had assured the United States of a full 22,000 ton fruit quota consequently faced a flood of unmarketable fruit or else a collapse of its wine quotas.

In consequence the taxes will be reduced from 125 francs (about $8) to 40 francs (approximately $2.55) for a quintal of 220 pounds of apples. For pears the tax will be reduced from 175 francs (currently $11.15) to 60 francs (about $3.72) per quintal.

WAR PREDICTION SCOFFED AT BY JAP DIPLOMAT

Boston, Mass., Jan. 18.—[Special.]—Recent predictions of a war with the United States attributed to the admiral of the Japanese fleet were characterized as "wild and violent statements" by Iyemassa Tokugawa, Japanese minister to Canada, in an interview at the statehouse today.

"No sensible Japanese would believe such a statement," he said. "It is very unfortunate that such a statement could have been made even in Japan. I shall add that when I left Japan high ranking military and naval men almost authorized me to say that there was no possibility of a war with the United States."

Mr. Tokugawa was speaking in behalf of his father, Prince Iyesato Tokugawa, former president of the Japanese house of peers, who arrived here last night on a "good will" tour of the world. The interview followed a formal call on Gov. Ely, who was later their host at a luncheon at the Copley Plaza.

The elder Tokugawa opened the interview by reading a statement of his belief that friendly traditions will be maintained between the two countries.

"I have seen the friendly relations between Japan and Great Britain and Canada," he said, "and I have very clearly seen that very cordial relations exist between the United States and the British empire. I believe that these facts, coupled with the friendship between your country and Japan, will be at all times a strong guaranty of the peace of the world."

THIS TIME JIM GETS A WOODEN LEG TO FIT HIM

William H. Swinburn, owner of an artificial limb store at 7 South Sangamon street, reported to the police on Wednesday that his front window had been smashed and a wooden leg, designed to be worn by a woman, stolen.

Detectives John Hannon and Patrick McNamara a little later discovered the leg. It was being worn by James Morrow, 22 years old, 949 West Madison street, to replace a left leg he lost years ago.

Yesterday in the Felony court the thief wept.

"It was a terrible thing to do," he said. "Mr. Swinburn gave me a leg three years ago, but it wore out and I couldn't get another one except by stealing it. He had befriended me and I am willing to pay any penalty that fits the crime."

While Judge Harold P. O'Connell pondered how to measure justice and mercy Swinburn stepped forward.

"Morrow's had a hard time," he said, "and I'm willing to give him another chance. I'll make him a leg that fits him and he won't have to pay for it, either. I don't want him punished."

There the matter rested.

Attorney Elias Mayer Is Granted Divorce

Judge Joseph Sabath in the Superior court yesterday granted Elias Mayer, an attorney living at the Hotel Ambassador West, 1300 State parkway, a divorce on charges of desertion from Mrs. Lucille Mayer, who now lives in New York. Mayer testified that the couple was married in 1909, and that his wife left him Sept. 7, 1932.

MOVIELAND'S GREAT SHOWN TO HAVE BEEN MDIVANI INVESTORS

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 18.—(AP)—The romantic former princes David and Serge Mdivani persuaded many of movieland's great to invest in the oil company which they formed and are said to have looted of $30,000, a roster disclosed at the grand theft trial of the brothers here today.

The roster of investors in the now Pacific Shore Oil company, read by Miss Rose Adler, attractive brunette who joined the firm as bookkeeper-secretary and soon became a director, disclosed the following names:

Lowell Sherman, Lilyan Tashman, Mae Murray, who wedded and divorced David; Duncan Renaldo, Edwina Booth, Pat O'Malley, Alice Renaldo, Jack Clark and Bert Levy.

Previously Miss Adler testified the brothers made "paper contributions of several thousand dollars to the company, but in reality invested only a few hundred dollars of their own money."

Ship Laden with Supplies Is Stolen from Harbor

MANAOS, Brazil, Jan. 18.—(AP)—A ship laden with supplies for Colombian troops has been stolen, Manaos police said today. The vessel disappeared from the harbor here.

GIVES A FRIEND HER ADDRESS AND CAUSES 5 ARRESTS

Geraldine Denisty, 18 years old, 3543 Rokeby street, wrote her address on a cigaret package several weeks ago and presented it to a youth whom she met in a dance hall. As a consequence five robbers have been captured by the Oak Park detective bureau.

The cigaret wrapped with the address—Geraldine then lived at 1149 Center street—was found on Jan. 12 in the home of Mrs. Mildred Corkell, 710 North Austin boulevard, Oak Park, which had been looted of property valued at $1,000. The clew was traced and it was found the Denisty family had moved to Rokeby street. In their home was found the loot of several robberies and Geraldine's brother, John, 27 years old, and Arnold Powell, 24 years old, were arrested there. They have confessed holding up several gasoline stations.

The girl told the policemen she had given the address to Leo Olszanski, 3315 North Monticello avenue, a news dealer. At his home the police arrested Ivan Hill, 37 years old; Frank Olszanski, 23 years old, and Truman Powell, 30 years old, and discovered some of Mrs. Corkell's property. Leo was freed when he convinced the investigators that his brother, Frank, had borrowed his overcoat, in one of the pockets of which he had put Geraldine's address. Frank and his two companions confessed three burglaries.

2D TOUHY JUROR ADMITS PERJURY; COURT SHOCKED

State Investigates All Veniremen.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

An "unparalleled situation" in the selection of a Criminal court jury—the expression is that of the presiding judge—was presented yesterday at the trial of four Touhy gangsters for the kidnaping of John Factor when a second juror admitted having committed perjury in order to gain a place on the jury.

This disclosure amazed the state's attorney's office, shocked Judge Michael Feinberg into assertions that most severe penalties would be imposed on the offending jurors and put every one of the scores of policemen and deputies in the courtroom on edge. The occurrence recalled to all those in the case the frequently repeated predictions that the gangsters would not hesitate to take the most desperate measures in order to gain their freedom.

Prosecutor's Force in Action.

The entire force of the state's attorney's office was ordered into action by State's Attorney Courtney to investigate all veniremen called for jury service in the case.

"We are going to have honest jurors if it takes every man in my command to investigate their background," Mr. Courtney declared. "This dreadful practice of perjury by jurors must be destroyed."

Just as the first juror, Russell H. Brownell, was immediately dismissed from the jury and arrested for perjury and contempt of court on Wednesday, so the second juror, Francis B. Hayes, 42 years old, 2649 Flournoy street, was expelled from the jury and ordered held on $5,000 bonds on similar charges.

Brownell had concealed a police record from the court. Hayes was revealed as having a son and two brothers in penitentiaries, all on charges of robbery, after he had testified under oath that no members of his family had ever been arrested or accused of a crime.

"Almost Unbelievable"—Feinberg.

"This is almost unbelievable," burst out Judge Feinberg after ordering the detention of Hayes. "I can't recall that such an outrageous display of contempt for the solemnity of the oath has ever been disclosed in a criminal court of law before. Within 24 hours two jurors, accepted and sworn for service, have admitted falsehoods under oath. Such brazen effrontery deserves the most severe penalties."

After the arrest of Hayes, Attorney William Scott Stewart, representing the defendants, moved to withdraw a juror from the seven already accepted and to declare a mistrial. He asserted that he and his clients were innocent of any implication in the perjury of the two jurors and insisted that the arrests would probably become known to the other jurors and prejudice them against the defendants. The motion was denied by the judge.

No More Jurors Selected.

The Hayes incident made both sides proceed so cautiously that not a single juror was accepted at the afternoon session. A man accepted by the defense was invariably challenged by the state and vice versa.

Both jurors under arrest would presumably have been inimical to the interests of the state, which is demanding the death penalty for the four defendants—Roger Touhy, Edward McFadden, Gustav Schaefer, alias Stevens, and Albert Kator.

To guard against the acceptance of any more jurors of this type a corps of investigators were busy examining the records of every veniremen on the list. Roy Arnold, investigator for the state's attorney and known for years as an expert on the selection of juries, also was drafted.

Irked by the snail-like progress, Judge Feinberg suggested that he be allowed to question the veniremen in order to speed the selection of the jury. Attorney Stewart refused, announcing that nobody was going to pick his juries for him.

Only seven jurors remained as accepted when court was adjourned until this morning. Judge Feinberg ordered a special panel of 100 venire men to appear on Saturday morning and a second 100 to appear Tuesday morning.

The discovery that a second juror had perjured himself in order to gain a place on the jury came shortly before the noon recess. As in the case of Brownell, the first juror detected, the facts concerning Hayes' falsehoods under oath were brought to Prosecutor Crowley's attention by Chief Investigator Daniel Gilbert of the state's attorney's office. Crowley immediately asked for a conference with Judge Feinberg in the latter's chambers.

There was a noticeable tension in the courtroom as the judge and the lawyers filed into chambers. The four defendants were obviously concerned. Whether they knew what was to be revealed could hardly be determined from their countenances, but they glanced at each other meaningly. Attorney Stewart lost none of his jaunty bearing as he joined the procession.

Juror's Testimony Read.

Assistant State's Attorney Crowley first asked that Hayes' testimony in the jury box be read by the stenographer. She was allowed to read the transcript of the long examination of the juror without interruption until she came to that part of the transcript where Hayes was asked:

"Have you or any member of your family ever been arrested or accused of any crime?"

"No," was the answer.

"Now, as to that, your honor," Crowley said, "we have just discovered that Hayes has a son in Pontiac serving a term for robbery with a gun and he has also two brothers in penitentiaries, one at Marquette, Mich., one at Joliet, both sentenced for robbery."

Ordered Into Court.

"If this is true, the situation is becoming unbearable," said the judge, sternly. "Bring in the juror, Hayes, for questioning."

Hayes, a stocky, sandy haired man with small blue eyes, was taken out of the room where he had been secluded with the seven other accepted jurors, and sat in the jury box alone. He calmly admitted having lied in his testimony about members of his family never having been arrested.

"Yes, I've got a son in Pontiac and two brothers also in prison," he said.

Judge Feinberg addressed him:

"Why did you testify falsely before?" he asked.

"It would have been embarrassing," the juror remarked, easily.

Attorney Stewart approached the bench.

"I want the record to show that I had no knowledge of the family connections of this man," he said. "I have just consulted my clients and they also say they knew nothing about him."

Case Arouses Judge.

"Why, this is unparallelled," said the judge, angrily. "Two jurors in two days admitting perjury. What kind of juror do you think you'd have made?" he asked Hayes.

"I'd have given a death verdict if the evidence was there," Hayes replied in an argumentative tone.

"Dismiss this man from the jury," ordered the judge. "Take him into custody and hold him under $5,000 bond for perjury and contempt of court. He will get a hearing Jan. 31 when the other one is arraigned.

"I've never heard of such a situation. The court would be derelict in its duty if this situation were to go unnoticed. This man will be dealt with most sternly."

When State's Attorney Courtney was informed of this latest development, he issued a statement which said:

"The situation of jurors swearing falsely under oath in order to qualify is most reprehensible. I am astonished to find confronting us the perjury that has manifested itself in the selection of the Touhy jury. I propose to urge Judge Feinberg to deal severely with these offenders and to destroy forever this dreadful practice. My prosecutions cannot succeed without honest juries and I am going to have honest jurors if it takes every man in my command to investigate their background."

FARMER OBTAINS $350,000 FOR 4TH LARGEST DIAMOND

JOHANNESBURG, Union of South Africa, Jan. 18.—(AP)—The 726 carat diamond discovered at Elandsfontein has been sold to Sir Ernest Oppenheimer, chairman of the Anglo-American Corporation of South Africa and of two diamond mining companies, for nearly 70,000 pounds [approximately $350,000], it was learned today. The diamond is the fourth largest ever to be found.

The discoverer, Jacobus Jonkher, plans to return to farming on a large scale—but first he will buy a silk hat and a frock coat, he said.

A native boy, Johannes, who participated in the discovery will be installed on the farm with his family and with liberty to do what he pleases.

DEFENSE TO RAISE NEW LEGAL POINT IN HACKETT CASE

Will Try to Put Wife of Defendant on Stand.

Attorney James M. Burke, representing Gail Swolley and Frank Souder in their trial for the kidnaping of James J. Hackett, Blue Island gambler, plans to raise a point of law never before tested in an Illinois court when the case is resumed today before Judge Thomas J. Lynch.

The defense attorney is prepared, it was learned yesterday, to put Maud Souder, wife of Souder, on the stand as a witness for her husband. Burke contends that under a recent ruling of the United States Supreme court a wife is no longer disqualified from appearing in behalf of her husband in criminal trials.

Case in Supreme Court Test.

The case on which the Supreme court ruled was that of John S. Funk of Rockingham, N. C., found guilty in a federal court of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law. Funk was twice tried and at each trial his wife was excluded from testifying in his behalf on the ground of incompetency. The high court reversed the decision and ruled that the wife was a competent witness.

"The rules of the common law, which disqualified as witnesses persons having an interest, long since in the main have been abolished both in England and in this country," said the Supreme court opinion, "and what was once regarded a sufficient ground for excluding the testimony of such persons altogether has come to be uniformly and more sensibly regarded as affecting the credit of the witness only.

"Whatever was the danger that an interested witness would not speak the truth—and the danger never was as great as claimed—its effect has been minimized almost to the vanishing point by the test of cross-examination, the increased intelligence of jurors, and perhaps other circumstances."

Long Argument Expected.

Assistant State's Attorney Mal Coghlan announced yesterday that he would oppose the attempt to place Mrs. Souder on the stand. The point is expected to precipitate a long legal argument, with the decision resting with Judge Lynch.

It is not believed that the state will complete its case in time to allow the defense to raise the new legal point today. The trial, which was recessed over yesterday to allow Attorney Burke to attend the funeral of his brother, Edward, will be resumed this morning, with Julius Augustus [Babe] Jones, member of the alleged kidnaping gang, who turned state's evidence, on the stand in redirect examination.

Prosecutor Crowley announced that he would question Jones in an effort to clear up some of the points raised in the cross-examination by Attorney Burke.

The state will complete its case with the testimony of the arresting policemen, Lieut. Frank Johnson and Capt. Daniel Gilbert, who were present during the questioning of the prisoners, and Pat Roche, former chief investigator for the state's attorney's office and now a private detective, who solved the kidnaping.

PLAN FETE FOR DR. HAROLD DODD, PRINCETON HEAD

Dr. Harold Willis Dodd, president of Princeton university, will be the guest of more than 800 Princeton alumni here next Wednesday night at a reception and dinner in the Drake hotel. It will be Dr. Dodd's first visit to Chicago since he assumed the presidency last June, succeeding the late John Grier Hibben. He is the youngest president of the university in 175 years.

Preceding the dinner a reception will be held by James F. Oates, president of the Princeton club of Chicago, and Mrs. Oates, Mr. and Mrs. John Stuart, Mr. and Mrs. Howard C. Phillips, and Mr. and Mrs. William B. McIlvaine.

SHOW NEBRASKA PWA PROJECT IS BLOW AT LABOR

Will Destroy More Jobs than It Creates.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Protests that some types of PWA projects will tend to intensify unemployment instead of relieving it and act as a drag on industrial recovery took form yesterday with the Loup river power project at Columbus, Neb., as the first target.

An allotment of $7,800,000 for the project, which is 95 per cent power, has been made at Washington. Mine owners and mine workers, railway workers and heads of the American Federation of Labor have joined in a protest that the power project if carried out would mean displacement of permanent labor in mines and on railroads, and that the development would work contrariwise to the purpose of the National Recovery Act. One of the arguments is that it would destroy more jobs than it would create.

Ask for a Hearing.

Announcement was made by the coal operators' groups last night that they had just received word from Washington that the national industrial board, set up under the NRA, had adopted a resolution asking President Roosevelt to use his good offices in getting a hearing on the Loup river project before the public works administration. The protestants say they were not given an ear before the project was let.

The first note of opposition to the Loup river proposal as inimical to permanent employment was raised some weeks ago by the coal operators' associations of Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, and Missouri. They urged it would be a step toward destruction of present markets for their bituminous output, and would lead the way to a substantial displacement of mine labor in the five states. They asked for a hearing.

John Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, joined in the application for a hearing, as did William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and representatives of the railway brotherhoods. If the case is reopened and the hearing held it is expected to produce a significant discussion of some types of public works, especially those of water power and what they may mean in displacement of permanent labor and in disorganization of existing private enterprise through the entrance of government into competition with private business.

Utilities Turn It Down.

As set forth in the brief protesting against the Loup river project as originally prepared by the coal interests of the five states affected, and filed at Washington, the proposal is an old one, which was surveyed by the public utilities twenty years or so ago and turned down by them on the ground that they could generate electrical current more cheaply by coal than by hydro development.

The brief declares that the territory tributary to the Loup river project is now adequately served by municipally and privately owned power systems with ample capacity. The project, it points out, if executed, is almost entirely one of water power, with irrigation and reclamation playing a negligible part. The sole effect would be the supplanting of existing facilities.

Says the brief:

"The purpose of the administration in proceeding with these projects is to furnish temporary employment to the men necessary to erect the plants. This purpose is defeated because such plants will create more unemployment, which unemployment will be permanent, than it creates temporary employment.

Eliminates Use of Coal.

"The direct effect of producing electrical energy in hydro-electric plants instead of steam plants is to eliminate the use of coal. Generally speaking, it takes one ton of coal to produce 1,000 kilowatt hours of electrical energy.

"The Loup river project alone would eliminate the consumption of 210,000 tons of coal a year. Other projects now under contemplation for Nebraska would eliminate a further 280,000 tons of coal a year. One thousand miners are employed to produce 200,000 tons of steam coal a year.

"The result of this elimination of coal is that a large number of men now engaged in producing coal in the states that furnish coal to the Nebraska electrical plants would be forced out of employment.

"Coal used in the Nebraska electric plants must all undergo substantial transportation by railroad to reach those plants. The elimination of one-half million tons of freight from the railroads serving Nebraska is a large and serious loss. It is a curtailment of traffic that would inevitably result in laying off a substantial number of railroad employés now engaged in transportation of that coal.

Other Types of Works.

"Elimination of the use of half a million tons of coal will result in increasing the unit cost of other traffic hauled by the railroads now hauling coal to Nebraska. There are many types of public works that will furnish immediate employment that will ultimately benefit the country, and it is to that kind of work the country looks. But the permanent destruction of the purchasing power of miners and of rail employés is contrary to the act.

"The building of duplicate facilities in the form of such projects as that of the Loup river destroys more than it creates, because, in addition to destroying physical plants by making them useless, it destroys an important part of the business of the miners and the railroads and permanently destroys the opportunity of thousands of men to earn a livelihood."

The coal associations of the five states point to the method by which Nebraska shook easy PWA money off the Christmas tree. An act was passed by the Nebraska legislature last April authorizing the creation of public power and irrigation districts. It provided that such districts should have no power of taxation and no governmental authority, should have power to levy or collect taxes to pay off any indebtedness of any such district.

Another section stipulated that every indebtedness, liability or obligation of any such district should be payable from revenues and profits or by sale of warrants or debentures by the district. The state of Nebraska, it was stipulated should never pledge its credit or funds to pay off any debts of any power district. Nobody is to be liable except Uncle Sam.

Create Power District.

The bill went through without trouble. At Columbus a power district for the Loup river project was formed on petition of 15 per cent of the voters in the district, and the project was advanced before the Public Works Administration. Arthur Mullen, Democratic committeeman from Nebraska, is said by the opposition to have represented the district as counsel at Washington.

Besides the Loup river project, the objectors point out, other Nebraska proposals under consideration include the Platte valley project, the central Nebraska and the Middle Loup and North Loup projects—all involving potential production of 500 million kilowatt hours of electricity a year, which it is argued would be capable of supplying the total annual demand for electric engery in Nebraska.

In addition, Senator George Norris has introduced a bill in the senate to create a Missouri Valley authority, similar to the Tennessee valley authority, at a cost of $260,000,000.

Call Parley of Executive Council in Capital Jan. 31

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—(AP)—State directors of the national executive council have been called to Washington for a meeting Jan. 31. The call was made by Frank C. Walker, director, after a talk today with President Roosevelt.

POLITICAL PULL CALLED KEY TO AIR MAIL FAVOR

Two Robertsons Tell of Their Troubles.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—(AP)—The story of an independent air line that couldn't get a mail contract, even though it agreed to consolidation, said to have been suggested by former Postmaster General Walter F. Brown, was unfolded today before the senate air mail investigating committee.

William Sacks, a former member of the Republican national committee from Missouri, said he interceded with Brown to assist the Robertson Air lines, but denied the implication that he was employed because of his political connections. The line was seeking a contract to carry mail from St. Louis to New Orleans. Along that route Frank Robertson said it started the first regular service.

Letter Hints at Favor.

Read into the records was a letter from Frank Robertson to his brother, W. B. Robertson, informing him that Frank understood the postoffice department wanted to do Sacks a favor to insure his support of Herbert Hoover in the 1932 Republican convention.

Chairman Black [Dem., Ala] developed that Sacks had been a member of the Missouri delgation that had voted for Frank O. Lowden of Illinois at the convention in 1928.

The Robertsons asserted Sacks did not represent them, but claimed to be in close touch with Brown and able to get the contract by telephone, if they would agree to pay him a fee of 5 per cent of the first year's governmental receipts, estimated at $175,000.

Brown's Name Drawn In.

W. B. Robertson testified that it was "very clear" that Brown wanted to provide for Harry Williams of Wedell-Williams company, the New Orleans-Dallas line, and insisted on a consolidation. Frank Robertson testified that Sacks represented himself as "trying to work out things" for the postoffice department. He said James Wedell told him Sacks could arrange so that no other companies would bid on the route "except Cord," who could be eliminated on a technicality.

"It was made very clear to us that we wouldn't get anything unless we dealt through Sacks," he added.

More Huge Profits.

The golden thread of millions made in United Aircraft and Transport stock from small investments in the Pratt and Whitney Aircraft company, makers of airplane engines, was spun further. George J. Mead, one of the organizers, testified he got nearly $8,000,000 cash from an investment of $207, and still had 25,000 shares of United Aircraft stock quoted around $35 a share.

The admission of Charles W. Deeds, son of Col. E. A. Deeds, into Pratt and Whitney in 1926 was explained by Mead as arising from its need of a "financial man."

Mead said Deeds was "a very young man with little business experience," but had graduated from a school of business administration. Pratt and Whitney's first large contract to supply the government with airplane engines came about the time Deeds was taken into the corporation, Mead said.

TROOPS GATHER 'WITHOUT ORDER' IN NEW ORLEANS

Military Guard for State Records.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 18.—[Special.]—New Orleans tonight has the sensation of sitting on the edge of a volcano. Gov. O. K. Allen today ordered Adjt. Gen. Raymond H. Fleming, Louisiana National Guard, to take charge of the records of all state offices, boards and agencies maintained in New Orleans. The threatened trouble is due to the political split between Mayor Walmsley and United States Senator Huey Long. There will be a city election Tuesday.

Individual members of the state guard were guarding state offices and others were gathering in small detachments, though the governor said he had not called out any state troops. City officials promptly charged state officials are bringing in state troops by subterfuge without any formal call for them and without declaring martial law.

Charges Jobs Are Bribes.

Eugene Stanley, district attorney and anti-Long partisan, yesterday opened an investigation of alleged pay roll padding in the state offices, charging that hundreds and possibly thousands of workers were being given jobs of a few days each just before election, to control their votes.

The prosecutor indicated his investigation would show the expenditure of huge sums of public money to aid the campaign of the city ticket backed by Senator Huey P. Long against that headed by T. Semmes Walmsley, seeking reëlection as mayor.

Gov. Allen warned Walmsley today "not to tamper with state records in New Orleans," under threat of prompt arrest. Also, Gen. Fleming warned the mayor to refrain from "inflammatory" speeches.

Long Directs the Fight.

From his personal suite in the Roosevelt hotel Senator Long is directing the campaign for his ticket. The warning to Mayor Walmsley was issued just after Gen. Fleming and Senator Long had conferred. The mayor replied he considered Gov. Allen's decree illegal. Late today perjury charges, alleging fraud in registration, were filed against some of Senator Long's most active city leaders, in addition to about 100 voters.

SMILE AT WOMAN DRIVER.

Lyons [Kas.] people on the streets looked on smilingly as a woman drove a car across to the wrong side of the traffic lane and parked neatly at a 45-degree angle the wrong way while she went into a store to shop. And she got away with it.

NEW WAR OVER STATE LIQUOR CONTROL LOOMS

G. O. P. Rebels Plan Own Bill Tuesday.

BY PARKE BROWN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 18.—[Special.]—New hostilities today threatened the Horner administration's plan for a state liquor control law. Republican house rebels said with emphasis that they will introduce an entirely new bill next Tuesday, one limiting the sale of intoxicants except beer to package stores.

This statement came from Leroy M. Green [Rep., Rockford], a leader of the hostile forces on the floor of the house and one of the most active belligerents in the day's deliberations of the joint conference committee. The committee today terminated its activities for the week.

Adopts 60 Changes.

Technically it did not complete its job. It had adopted sixty changes in the bill as it left the senate, but several members refused to sign a final report, saying they first must see the bill in its remodeled form.

It was arranged that proof copies will be mailed to each of the eighteen members tomorrow so that they may sign up before the two houses reconvene Monday afternoon. Then each house will have to have its own copies printed. Therefore it will be Tuesday before actual business is resumed.

Representative Green refused to say who was with him in the proposal for a package store bill, but said there are several. He also said it would be a bill much more suited to the need of Illinois than the copy of the Ontario law introduced early in the special session by Representative Sol P. Handy [Dem., Marshall].

Permits 4 Per Cent Beer.

"The bill," he said, "would permit the sale of beer of 4 per cent alcohol by weight which is about what we are getting now. It would be a definite aid in the promotion of temperance." Some members of the house have been saying all week that there would be no difficulty in obtaining a mere majority vote for such a bill, a vote that would not put it into effect until July 1. To pass the big 53 page bill now pending, so as to make it effective immediately, requires a two-thirds vote of each house, and during the conference several house members declared that such an accomplishment in their chamber is impossible.

It has been known for some time that Gov. Horner and Mayor Kelly, particularly the latter, have been opposed to the "beer only" saloon because of their belief that many beer tavern proprietors would "cheat" by selling stronger beverages.

One of the final acts of the committee was the formal adoption of the Powers amendment which was agreed upon yesterday. This requires that the word "imitation" appear on the label of any whisky which does not contain at least 75 per cent of pure whisky aged for four years. This proposal has been fought bitterly by the distillers.

BUCK LONG WITHSTANDS BULLETS.

A 200 pound nine point buck had many a close shave before Forrest Burbank finally bagged it near Alfred, Me. One antler had been shot off, there was a bullet hole through one ear, and one of the forelegs had been shot off at the knee.

RECEIVER COSTS OF STATE BANKS DROP $623,398

Barrett Cites Savings from Consolidation.

The cost of all the receiverships of closed state banks in Cook county decreased $623,398 in the last six months of 1933, as compared with the same period for 1932, according to figures released yesterday by State Auditor Edward J. Barrett.

All receivership administration costs for the six months ending Dec. 31, 1933, when there were 148 closed banks, totaled $1,598,286, while the total for the six months ending Dec. 31, 1932, with 140 closed banks, was $2,221,684.

"A large part of this saving, which amounted to approximately 28 per cent, was brought about by the consolidation of receiverships under William L. O'Connell, the general receiver," Auditor Barrett said.

Cut Miscellaneous Expenses.

The tabulated figures show that the largest reduction was in miscellaneous expenses. The decrease in this item totaled $212,065. There was a reduction of $155,583 in receivers' salaries and a saving of $114,531 in attorneys' fees, according to Mr. Barrett's figures.

Of the 148 closed state banks in Cook county, 112 are now under O'Connell's supervision. Auditor Barrett said that others were being added as rapidly as the physical work of taking them over can be accomplished.

Tabulated figures on the comparative receivership costs follow:

	1932.	1933.
Receivers' salary	$ 292,020	$ 136,437
Receivers' expenses	7,458	1,055
Attorneys' fees	758,731	644,190
Legal expenses	78,177	52,649
Clerical expenses	624,415	515,138
Miscellaneous	460,870	248,805
Total	$2,221,684	$1,598,286

The salaries of the deputy receivers under Mr. O'Connell are included in the item of clerical expenses for the six months of 1933.

How Economies Are Made.

As an example of how economies were effected through the consolidation of receiverships Mr. Barrett cited a saving of $1,749 a month in the administration of eleven closed banks in the western suburbs. They are: The Melrose Park State, the Maywood State, the Cicero Trust and Savings, the Pinkert State, the Citizens' State of Melrose Park, the Lyons State, the Twelfth Street State, the State Bank of River Grove, the People's State of Maywood, the Berwyn State, and the State Bank of River Grove.

Prior to the consolidation these banks had nine receivers. Mr. O'Connell is now receiver for all of them and they are administered by one deputy receiver. The former receivers' salaries totaled $2,250 a month. Mr. O'Connell's salary for the eleven banks is $200.83 a month, and the deputy in charge receives $625 a month.

Figures on Savings.

Figures on the savings in this consolidation follow:

	Under former receivers.	Under O'Connell.
Receivers' salaries	$2,250	$ 825
Pay roll	2,030	1,765
Administrative expense	1,665	1,605
Totals	$5,945	$4,195

Complete reports showing all receivers' and attorneys' fees and other costs of administrating the 148 closed banks to date will be made public next week, Auditor Barrett said.

GRAND JURY FAILS TO INDICT SAN JOSE LYNCHING SUSPECTS

San Jose, Cal., Jan. 18.—(AP)—Because of "inadequate" evidence the Santa Clara county grand jury indicted no one for the lynching of two accused kidnap slayers of Brooke L. Hart.

In a resolution adopted at the conclusion of its investigation the grand jury said evidence presented was "totally inadequate to justify indictments against any person." The resolution said, however, the jury was ready to hear "any definite" evidence which may be presented in the future.

District Attorney Fred Thomas said the jury's failure to indict did not mean he will ask for dismissal of charges against 17 year old Anthony Cataldi, alleged leader of the mob which hanged John M. Holmes and Thomas H. Thurmond Nov. 26. Cataldi will be given a preliminary hearing Friday.

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday were $268,454, making a total of $101,843,114 collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began on April 28, 1933. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for four years follow:

The day's collections of 1931 personal property taxes totaled $701.

County Treasurer McDonough has sent to some 25 justices of the peace in Cook county townships outside the city of Chicago about 30,000 delinquent personal property tax bills for 1930, on which the justices will institute suits for collection.

They are given no delinquent bills exceeding $500. Formerly the justice got a percentage of his collections, but this year he is allowed only a $2 court fee on the bills which he collects.

Delinquent 1930 personal property tax bills in the city of Chicago are collected by the state's attorney's office, through suits filed in the Municipal, Circuit, or Superior courts. These courts also handle country town suits for $500 or more. Whereas in the past it was not customary to sue on an unpaid personal property bill under $25, this year suit will be entered on all bills over $2.

The county board yesterday sent a letter to Chief Justice Joseph Sabath of the Superior court requesting him to appoint one of the judges of the court to hear the county's suits for the collection of delinquent 1931 personal property taxes. At the same time the board asked State's Attorney Courtney to discontinue filing tax suits in the Circuit court and to begin filing them in the Superior court after Chief Justice Dennis J. Normoyle of the Circuit court had failed to promise that he would assign a judge to hear the suits.

Bandits Wreck Train in Manchukuo; Eight Killed

HARBIN, Manchukuo, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Bandits struck again today at the trans-Siberian express on the Chinese Eastern railway. Removing rails, an outlaw band wrecked the west bound express, derailing five cars. Four passengers were burned to death in the flaming wreckage. Twenty-nine were injured. There were no Americans aboard.

Y. M. C. A. TO FIGHT MOVE TO TAX IT, LEADER ASSERTS

Assails Assessor's Plan at Annual Meeting.

A fight against the effort to tax properties used for hotel purposes by the Young Men's Christian association of Chicago will be waged by the organization. George B. McKibbin president of the association so asserted last night in an address before 500 workers in that annual meeting in the Union League club.

Mr. McKibbin reiterated that the association is adhering strictly to its charter, which provides that its enterprises be used for religious and benevolent purposes and free libraries. County Assessor J. L. Jacobs last August ordered the Lawson Y. M. C. A. hotel at 30 West Chicago avenue and the Y. M. C. A. hotel at 826 South Wabash avenue placed on the tax rolls after various Chicago hotel managements had protested over the failure to include them among the taxable properties.

Resist Taxation Move.

"If, after mature deliberation, legislatures and courts should decide that exemption from taxation of all educational, religious, and philanthropic institutions is against the public interest, the association will adjust itself as best it can, but until that time we shall resist the special attack which is now directed against us," Mr. McKibbin declared.

"We maintain, however, that in all our enterprises, including our housing features, we are adhering strictly to our charter."

Mr. McKibbin said that if the tax exemption is cut off much of the work of the association will have to be curtailed. It would end 80 per cent of the work among boys under 18 years of age, 18,000 of whom were admitted to membership in the last year.

Explaining the association's policy since repeal of the 18th amendment, Mr. McKibbin said that while the association is not a crusading organization, it will not permit liquor on Y. M. C. A. premises, and will renew its educational program showing the effect of alcohol on the nervous system.

Discusses Task of Y. M. C. A.

Another speaker was Dr. Albert W. Palmer, president of the Chicago Theological seminary. In his speech, which was broadcast over W-G-N, THE TRIBUNE radio station, he pointed out the part of the Y. M. C. A. as a character building organization in relation to the new social order.

In the financial report it was disclosed that the net assets of the Chicago Y. M. C. A., including $9,000,000 in buildings, now total $14,281,441. More than 5,000,000 persons used the facilities of the Y. M. C. A. last year.

Mr. McKibbin was reëlected president. Other officers reëlected were John S. Broeksmit and Vernon R. Loucks, vice presidents; John Nuveen, secretary, and Newton C. Farr, treasurer.

ADMITS BOOKS TO EVIDENCE IN H. O. STONE TRIAL

The government won a point yesterday in the trial of five officials of H. O. Stone & Co., defunct real estate investment concern, when Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan ruled that 97 books, tracing the company's business from 1923 until it failed in 1930, would be admitted into evidence. The defendants are charged with using the mails to defraud.

Defense attorneys held that the books had not been properly identified and contended that entries had been made in them before and after the defendants had control of the company. The defense also held that every item in the books should be identified before they were admitted into evidence.

After Judge Sullivan had overruled the defense motion, Fred O. Prescott, the first of 145 witnesses to be called by the government, took the witness stand. Prescott, formerly clerk in charge of the Stone books, identified the exhibits as they were offered by the government.

DRESSED IN A "Jiffy"
No Pins—No Tapes—No Buttons

Field's Is the First to Introduce Carter's "JIFFY" NEVABIND SHIRT AND BAND

Your baby's comfort was the thought behind months of research before this absolutely new style shirt and band were designed. They slip on easily over baby's head and still fit the neckline snugly and comfortably. That's the marvelous thing about "Jiffies"—they're so simple and so practical.

The "Jiffy Nevabind" Shirt also features the Nevabind sleeve which prevents under-arm binding and chafing. The "Jiffy Nevaslip" Band prevents the irritation of slipping shoulder straps.

Both styles are made of fine cotton fabric in infants' to 2 years sizes. The shirt is 65c; the band, 45c.

CUBANS SALUTE NEW PRESIDENT BY FIRING PISTOLS

10 Wounded by Bullets as Throng Cheers Mendieta.

BY GUSTAVO RENO.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Jan. 18.—Cuba after months of strife today went wild with joy because an old time political favorite was installed as provisional president of the 32 year old republic. Col. Carlos Mendieta, 60 year old physician and veteran revolutionary leader, was acclaimed by thousands at his inauguration. He succeeds Carlos Hevia, 33 year old secretary of agriculture under Grau San Martin. Hevia held the presidency only two days.

Taking his oath of office before the Supreme court, Col. Mendieta pledged to uphold "the program of the revolution"—revolution which forced Gerardo Machado out of office last summer.

Three hours before the inauguration, the gates of the palace were thrown open to the public, thousands swept through to shake hands with Mendieta, who was cheered as "the savior of Cuba."

Appears on Palace Balcony.

A huge crowd gathered around the palace. Mendieta, the choice of Col. Fulgencio Batista, Cuban army chief, for the presidency, appeared on a balcony. The throng shouted "Viva el ABC" [the secret revolutionary organization], "Viva Mendieto," and "Down with Batista!" They danced, laughed and fired revolvers into the air. Ten persons were wounded by the flying bullets. Many of the demonstrators danced about with Cuban, Spanish, or American flags draped around them.

The judges of the Supreme court were jostled right and left as they pushed their way through the crowd into the palace. Some merrymakers pinned paper monkey tails on two of them.

Sends Message to U. S.

The new president did not forget, in the excitement of his welcome, to send a message to the United States.

"I send the American people my government's and my own most cordial and affectionate greeting, hoping that Cuba may soon achieve an order of reason and justice."

After the inauguration President Mendieta left for his home in the suburb of Velado to pick his cabinet. The crowds then proceeded to the United States embassy, firm in their belief that recognition by the United States is forthcoming soon, the Cubans shouted:

"Viva Roosevelt!" "Viva the United States!"

Jefferson Caffery, President Roosevelt's personal representative, received a delegation in his office and thanked the crowd, but withheld any comment on recognition.

Strike in Havana.

Although Mendieta was Cuba's "man of the hour" today, it was not all roses for the new president. Leftist labor groups under Dr. Antonio Guiteras, secretary of war and interior under Grau, formed a strike organization that crippled Havana's power and water service for twelve hours. The strikers agreed to return to their jobs tonight for forty-eight hours to give Mendieta a chance to deal with their demands.

MILLION FRANC WINNER REACHES U. S.; SEEKS FRENCH WINE ORDERS

New York, Jan. 18.—[Special.]—The man who won a million francs—in real life, not in a novel—arrived here today aboard the French liner Champlain. He is Roy J. Poff, general manager of the Intercontinental Commercial company, which represents ninety French wine and liquor concerns.

Mr. Poff held a winning ticket in the French government lottery, drawn on Dec. 5 last. He bought it, he said, from Octave Maas, the proprietor of a café on the Avenue Wagram, because Maas, in the course of a luncheon conversation one day understood him to say he wanted one.

Mr. Poff said he had merely told Maas that perhaps he'd buy a ticket, but after Maas had gone to the trouble of getting him one he felt obliged to take it.

It cost 120 francs—about $8 at the current rate of exchange. A million francs is about $60,000. He gave Pershing hall, headquarters of the American Legion in Paris, $2,500 of his prize and hired an orchestra to play there for a month. He is an American.

FRENCH MINISTER CHALLENGES FOE TO A PISTOL DUEL

Bond Scandal Stirs Up Row in Chamber.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

PARIS, Jan. 18.—The $60,000,000 Bayonne pawnshop scandal led to a furious word battle this evening in the lobby of the chamber of deputies between a minister and a deputy. In the opinion of most bystanders the altercation involved a challenge to a duel.

The cabinet member, who supposedly wants to say it with sixshooters, is Minister of Education Anatole de Monzie. The deputy is Phillippe Henriot. The best legal minds of the French parliament tonight were trying to decide whether the minister's remarks to the deputy constituted a challenge to meet on the field of honor.

Decide If Honor Is at Stake.

Witnesses have been appointed by both sides, according to ritual to determine whether or not any honor is at stake. Henriot has not officially accepted the challenge, if any.

The trouble originated during an interpellation by Henriot concerning the government's alleged smothering of the bond fraud investigation. The deputy declared two members of the present government called on Mme. Stavisky, widow of Serge Stavisky, the founder of the failed Bayonne pawnshop, when she was ill in a prison infirmary in 1926. Henriot added that at the moment Mme. Stavinsky was under indictment on a charge of burglary.

Meets Enemy in Lobby.

Members of the majority indignantly challenged Henriot to name the ministers in question. He gave such explicit indications that every one recognized Foreign Minister Joseph Paul-Boncour and de Monzie. The foreign minister was in Geneva and de Monzie was absent.

De Monzie was notified of the charge. After the session he met Henriot in the chamber lobbies. The two almost came to blows. The challenge followed.

STATE ST. SEES RECORD DOLLAR DAY SALES TODAY

Last Bargains Based on the 100 Cent $1.

With fair weather promised, State street is expecting the greatest Dollar day in its history today.

Of special importance in attracting throngs of shoppers to the famed business thoroughfare is the probability that this will be the last time that bargain values will be based on the 100 cent dollar. This has been made possible by a longer period of stock buying for the event—four months.

Announcement from the treasury that gold will continue to be redeemed at face value until further notice has brought a change in policy by the merchants which is consistent with their "last chance for 100 cents on the dollar" theme. Contrary to previous intentions, gold coins will be accepted in payment of purchases. Further than that, the merchants are urging shoppers to make this an occasion to dispose of what gold they may have before depreciation becomes a fact.

120 Stores Join in Event.

Greater variety is promised than in any previous Dollar day. This is made possible by the fact that 120 stores, more than ever before, are participating in the offering of unusual values. Another reason for this, the State Street council asserted, is that merchants are making greater efforts to assemble dollar combinations of small, inexpensive articles.

"People can be assured of actually receiving more than a dollar's worth, even on the 100 cent basis," declared Walter L. Gregory, president of the council. "This is a new deal for those who want the most for their money in excellent merchandise. Under these conditions, State street can confidently expect a banner day—and the merchants are prepared."

Banners Proclaim Dollar Day.

Bunting and banners, bearing huge dollar signs, flapped over State street yesterday proclaiming the sale event. Behind the scenes employés and executives alike were busy attending to final details long after the stores closed. Both large and small stores between Congress and Lake streets will participate.

Transportation officials promised increased facilities to handle the crowds of shoppers today.

HUNT INCENDIARY CLEWS IN FIRE AT GRANADA CAFE

Investigators for Fire Attorney Thomas J. Sheehan spent yesterday digging in the ruins of the Granada café, 6800 Cottage Grove avenue, for evidence that incendiaries had started the early morning fire which destroyed the night club with an estimated loss of $100,000.

Al Quodbach, owner of the café, charged that the fire was the work of incendiaries. His insurance expired four months ago, he said. Attorney Sheehan said that if his investigators report any suspicious discoveries to him today he will launch a further investigation at once.

STREET CAR BOND INTEREST HINGES ON MERGER PLAN

Judge Warns Negotiators to Settle Disputes.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson declared yesterday that he would not authorize the payment of $2,000,000 in interest to holders of the surface lines' first mortgage bonds unless the financial negotiators of the surface and elevated lines settle by Monday morning their remaining differences over the proposed merger of the two transit systems into one operating concern.

The bond interest is due on Feb. 1. The judge has jurisdiction over the payment and the merger plans as well, because all the companies are in receivership in his court.

Judge Wilkerson delivered his ultimatum to representatives of the surface lines receivers after Attorney Walter L. Fisher, transit expert, told the court that payment of the interest should be held up. Fisher charged that the conferees acting for the bondholders of the surface and elevated lines in the merger negotiations were again procrastinating on a final agreement.

Fisher Gives Warning.

"It has happened again as in the past," said Mr. Fisher. "The minute the pressure was taken off certain of these gentlemen started horse trading with each other and shadow boxing. Each side is waiting for the other to take the initiative, hoping for some concession to be offered which it will seize and then demand more.

"The minute those concerned get their bond interest, that minute they will cease to have any interest in the situation. Time is of essence here. We must require all promptness and not have any hurdles in the way if this merger plan is to go through in the time to be given the companies by the city council for acceptance of the city ordinance which provides for the consolidation."

Interest Money on Hand.

Attorneys James M. Sheean and Harry P. Weber, counsel for the surface lines receivers, informed the court that sufficient funds were on hand to pay the February interest. The reports they presented to the court indicated that if the interest were paid there would still be left in the surface lines treasury $6,200,000 of cash to help finance the transit merger.

During the hearing it was indicated definitely by Judge Wilkerson that establishment of a universal transfer system between the surface and elevated lines could not be considered until the city council grants the time extension requested by the companies for acceptance of the consolidation ordinance.

The companies have asked that the council give them until July 31, an extension of six months from the original deadline of Jan. 31. Last Tuesday the council deferred action on this request but granted a temporary extension to March 3, so that public hearings might be held to determine the public's attitude on the transit problem. The first of these hearings, before the council's local transportation committee, has been set for Tuesday morning.

BISHOP ROWE PLANNING 11TH ALASKAN FLIGHT

Alaska's Episcopal bishop, the Rt. Rev. Peter Trimble Rowe was at the Stevens hotel yesterday en route to Cincinnati and other eastern points where he will attend Episcopal church meetings.

Upon his return to Alaska Bishop Rowe will make his eleventh good will airplane flight over that territory. Prior to the coming of the airplane Bishop Rowe made his long trips to Eskimo villages and mining camps by dog sled. Bishop Rowe said yesterday that his trip next spring will take him along the Mackenzie river and the shores of the Arctic ocean.

MELLON'S TAX QUIZ COMPLETED, ASSERTS ATTORNEY GENERAL

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—[Special.]—Attorney General Cummings tonight announced that the department of justice inquiry into the income tax case of Andrew Mellon had been virtually completed. He did not indicate what had been found or what action, if any, would be taken.

At the same time Mr. Cummings answered rumors that in the Mellon matter there was friction between the attorney general and the treasury department. Ordinarily the treasury handles income tax investigations. In this case, Mr. Cummings said, the department of justice handled the matter because Senator Wheeler [Radical Dem., Mont.] and others in congress had demanded an inquiry by the attorney general into the personal income case of Mr. Mellon. Accordingly, with the approval of the treasury, the department of justice had handled this particular inquiry. What procedure would follow he would not indicate.

SANITARY BOARD OPENS ITS FIRST BIDS IN 2 YEARS

Prepares to Start on West Side Sewer.

Bids for the first contract on sanitary district construction work in more than two years were opened yesterday at a meeting of the district's board of trustees. The project is section 5 of the west side sewer system, extending under Jefferson street between Fulton and Taylor streets.

Philip Harrington, chief engineer for the district, said that tunneling would probably start in a week or ten days with approximately 400 men employed. The new sewer will be 15 feet in diameter and will be lined with concrete.

D'Esposito to Inspect Bids.

Before the contract is let the contractors' bids will be examined by Joshua D'Esposito, chief engineer for the public works administration in Illinois. The sewer project and others to follow will be financed by the $42,000,000 grant of PWA funds.

The meeting room in the district's offices at 910 South Michigan avenue was packed with contractors, sub-contractors and their representatives yesterday as the bids were presented. In the order of their opening the bids were:

S. A. Healy	$ 975,275
Ready Coal and Construction Co.	1,078,060
Michael Pontarelli, Inc.	1,134,650
Paschen Brothers' Construction Co.	1,753,460
Tully-Costello Co.	1,402,700
Underground Construction Co.	1,461,837
Nash Brothers	1,391,783
A. J. Forschner Construction Co.	1,297,700

Bids will arrive on Feb. 1 for section 6 of the sewer system and bids on each of four more sections will be in about two weeks apart.

Reports on Canal Sale Plan.

Harrington's engineering report on the proposed sale to the federal government of the main drainage and Calumet-Sag channels, the south branch of the Chicago river, and a portion of the Little Calumet river was given to the trustees. The report estimates that it would cost $96,000,000 to reproduce the four channels.

Lawrence Fenlon, senior assistant attorney for the district, said that the drafting of proper congressional legislation that would clear the way for the sale of the channels would be completed in two weeks.

The trustees have proposed the sale plan in order to provide cash for completion of the costly sewage disposal program ordered by the United States Supreme court.

Policeman Is Found Slain in N. Y. Station House

New York, Jan. 18.—[Special.]—The body of Patrolman Lawrence Powers, 38, with a bullet wound through the head, was found early today on the pistol range in the basement of the East 126th street station house. Assistant Medical Examiner Casassa declared after an examination that the wound was self-inflicted. He declined to express an opinion as to whether Powers committed suicide or shot himself accidentally.

INSULL MAKES FINAL PLEA TODAY FOR GREEK HAVEN

Appeals Order Expelling Him Jan. 31.

BY EUGENE SPECK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Jan. 18.—Samuel Insull, fugitive Chicago utilities promoter, tomorrow makes his appeal for the right of further refuge in Greece.

The 74 year old ex-magnate, wanted in Cook county on charges of embezzlement, larceny, larceny by bailee, and violation of federal bankruptcy laws, has placed his final plea against expulsion from Greece before the state council, which in certain cases has the power to reverse acts of the government. In this case Insull is seeking to have set aside an order by Home Minister Moundjourides to leave Greece by Jan. 31.

One of Nine Cases.

Insull's is one of nine cases down for hearing. It is understood that by request of the council his is set last. The proceedings will begin around 10 a. m. and it is hoped his plea against the expulsion order will be completed by noon.

The court consists of ten members under President Constantine Ractivand. Documents in the case were turned over to George Angellopoulos, a member of the council, immediately after Insull's appeal was filed, Dec. 23.

Basis of Plea.

The appeal, it was reported today, admits that the minister of interior has the right to deport aliens, but contends that he can terminate a foreigner's permit to remain in Greece only if the alien is the subject of prosecution like any other person under Greek law or under certain other special circumstances, on all of which Insull will claim a clean bill.

The case hinges on the council's decision as to its competence to deal with the matter. It is possible that Insull will not be present, since no law compels him to attend.

The council will adjourn as soon as the Insull appeal is heard. A decision is expected in three or four days.

CWA EMPLOYE DIES AT WORK.

John Luczak, 45 years old, 140 156th street, Calumet City, a CWA worker, collapsed and died yesterday, apparently of heart disease, while at work clearing Thorn creek on the outskirts of Chicago Heights.

BYRD REACHES LITTLE AMERICA; "IT'S ALL THERE!"

Polar Explorers Back "Home" After 4 Years.

LITTLE AMERICA, Antarctica, Jan. 18.—(AP)—[Via Mackay Radio.]—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd returned to his "home" in these frozen wastes with members of his second antarctic expedition today and found that "it's all there."

After a three months' cruise from Boston and an absence of about four years, the commander and his men happily surveyed the old base and at once prepared to dig in again, preliminary to further explorations.

"It's All There!"

"It's all there," Admiral Byrd shouted when a landing party found the three 60-foot wireless towers of the camp intact and the buildings covered with snow. "The administration building you can see, the three ventilators sticking up and the chimney. There's the radio shack to the left. It's all there under the snow!"

The flagship lay within the glistening barrier walls of the Bay of Whales, scarcely two miles away, where it arrived yesterday morning.

Six dog teams with camping supplies were disembarked and, after so long a confinement aboard ship the animals swung into line with a will over the ridge to Little America.

Bergs 50 Feet High.

From East cape to West cape, whose high sheer walls form the portals of the Bay of Whales, the bottle necked entrance of the bay was blocked by great masses of broken ice two miles deep and icebergs fifty feet high.

For a time it had seemed that no safe passage could be found through that debris. Commodore Gjertsen, however, took the ship cautiously along the edge of the ice and found an open passage just short of East cape.

Fully five miles of solid ice had broken off since the Ellsworth expedition had entered the bay last week. It had changed so much that Admiral Byrd and members of the first expedition for a time failed to recognize the surroundings.

Woman Is Found Drowned in Bathtub in Her Home

Mrs. Ruth Lee, 36 years old, who had been a sufferer from infantile paralysis for the last twelve years, was found drowned last night in the bathtub at her home, 2174 Leland avenue. From members of the household the police learned that Mrs. Lee had been despondent not only over her affliction, but also because her husband deserted her some months ago.

THE NEW DEAL AND THE OLD BOYS.

President Roosevelt's announced disapproval of the Washington activities of some of the friends of the political family brings to light in its wake the fact that there have been some resignations from the Democratic national committee. Others are looked for. The President takes the position that it is unethical for a man of influential connections in the Democratic national organization, as an officer or committeeman, to open an office in Washington and undertake legal or other business having directly to do with government affairs. The inference is that such a person can get many large favors for his clients. It wouldn't be stretching the probabilities to say that this was true or at least that it was intended to be true.

Even Mr. Farley, the postmaster general, has found the ethics of his connections criticized by the waspish Senator Norris of Nebraska. Mr. Norris finds it highly undesirable that Mr. Farley, who, as chairman of the Democratic national committee, is number one boy in the field of political patronage, should be also postmaster general in charge of the largest political plum tree. There may be persons who would say that it was just as well for Mr. Farley to tell himself what to do as for him to tell somebody else. But a point is made against it and Mr. Farley may resign from one post or the other.

Robert Jackson, who was secretary of the national committee and also practicing law in Washington, has resigned from the political organization. That wasn't known until Mr. Roosevelt made his statement regarding Washington operations of prominent Democratic politicians.

The President has tried to guard his New Deal from the familiar operations of the old dealers. The Democratic politicians who ran the campaign of '32 are not the administrators of the New Deal. One set of men conducted the campaign and another set was put in charge of the codes and the new activities of federal government. Here and there is an administrator with a touch of political experience, but most of them are from the academic cloisters. They may be experts in other various specialties, but most of them are amateurs in the political game. The rules of political action are not the work of a few designing politicians but are pretty well written into the fundamentals of democratic politics.

It is unescapable that the more the government extends its field, particularly when vast expenditures are involved, the more political influence will be attracted by the possibilities of so rich a harvest. Tammany would not have had so long a life if its house had not been built upon foundations of proved strength and durability. What Tammany could do to the New Deal would be something considerably more than nobody's business. It would be Tammany's particular business.

For a short stretch it may be possible to hold the boys of direct political action down, but they'll always be found watching the scene with much shrewder eyes than anybody else, and it is to be feared ultimately they will be found smarter than anybody else. If they weren't smart, they wouldn't be where they are politically. They often make the scandals but they also make the money, not only for themselves but for persons whose friendship is important for the party, and they get the votes. In the long run no such federal budgets as those of the present day United States can be made up over any considerable period of time without encountering the politicians. The best politician gets the best percentage for his political area, his constituents, his political friends, and for himself.

A HALF CENTURY OF PROGRESS.

The Illinois Children's Home and Aid society is celebrating this week the fiftieth anniversary of its founding. The society is one of the oldest as it is also one of the most useful of all our philanthropic agencies. Its history offers evidence that progress in the last half century has not been confined, by any means, to advances in technology.

Only fifty years ago, when the society was born, children for whom no other home was available were shipped to the county poor farms. There they lived in squalor, mingling with the feebleminded, the insane, the helpless aged, and the diseased. Mere physical survival under these circumstances was an achievement.

The improvement in the care of dependent children instituted by the Rev. Martin Van Arsdale, founder of the society, is fully comparable to the improvement which has taken place in transportation or communications. In the intervening years the society has been instrumental in the creation of the first Juvenile court and in pioneering for home care of dependent children. At present the society operates three institutions, including the receiving homes in Evanston and Duquoin and the training school for girls at Potomac, and is caring for nearly 1,900 children in its family homes and institutions. Impressive as the figures are, they give only an inadequate idea of the services of the society in devising improved methods for child care which have been adopted all over the country.

IN THE WAKE OF THE CRIMINAL.

Raymond Hamilton, a ripe Texas scoundrel with a record as long as his arm, was serving a sentence of 263 years on a prison farm for crimes which included murder. The sentence of nearly a half dozen lifetimes may have been a bit of legal sternness on the playful side, but the idea he would serve a moiety of one life was unduly optimistic. His notorious gunman pal, Clyde Barrow, with a few other bad men raided the convict farm gang, shot the guards, and took away not only Hamilton but four other prisoners. If Hamilton had been put away at the end of a rope for murder his book would have been closed. Now no one knows what will yet be written in it.

What the future entries can be are indicated by the career of John Dillinger, who engineered the escape of ten convicts from the badly guarded Indiana state penitentiary at Michigan City. From that leak has flowed a stream of murder and robbery, lives sacrificed, and property lost just because the penitentiary did not hold the criminals sent to it. These are direct and accusing consequences. They accuse persons of weak sentiment who see the criminal only as a victim of society. They accuse the professional sentimentalist who works to defeat the aims of justice by saving the criminal from his deserts. They accuse the politician who favors disorderly classes for profit or votes and the politician whose mismanagement of institutions gives the convicts liberty again.

The lives of brave and useful officers of the law, the lives and property of citizens are sacrificed because silly or unscrupulous persons have acted to the injury of innocent people and for the benefit of the enemies of these people.

THE TENNESSEE KANGAROO.

People who have been waiting for the appearance in the United States of some apocalyptic equivalent of the Loch Ness sea monster may be gratified to learn from an Associated Press dispatch that a great, terrifying and unknown beastie has appeared in the Tennessee hills. The report comes from South Pittsburg, Tenn. It is a land and not a sea apparition.

The persons who have seen it say that it is fashioned somewhat like a great kangaroo, is carniverous, and runs like lightning. It has been eating German police dogs, a dietry item which might indicate an anti-Nazi protest against Hitler. Some of the alarmed residents tracked it up a hillside, but did not venture into the cave in which it may have its lair. The countryside is reported in a great state of alarm, and even a citizenry accustomed to arms is terrified.

It had been expected that when such visitations came to the United States they would appear in the sea off Provincetown, Sandy Hook, Cape Hatteras, Pensacola, or Catalina island, but there are probably some very good reasons for the appearance in Tennessee. It has been noted before that the sea serpent and other strange monsters invariably come in periods so peaceful and undisturbed that news is slack and the telegraph editor has become lackadaisical. The appearances at this season have been regarded as omens that quiet, peaceful, and contented times were really just around the corner and that the wise monsters knew it.

Naturally, then, the first American apparition would be seen in Tennessee, where the Tennessee Valley authority is measurably on its way back to Eden. It might be, although this idea will appear only to be rejected, that the kangaroo beastie which runs like lightning is only a Tennessee mountaineer, scared out of his wits by electric curlers, toasters, egg boilers, waffle irons, hair clippers, facial vibrators, shoe polishers, and other gadgets which Uncle Sam is pressing upon him in order that he may consume the electricity which is to generate him back into modern, top notch civilization.

If one of these sturdy mountaineers, accustomed to the simple ways of life, ever got an electric curler in his hair, his subsequent movements might very easily be mistaken, even by his neighbors and associates, for those of a kangaroo. Then it is also very possible that one or several of the prospective inhabitants of the proposed Eden may have been slightly touched in the head by the observation of so much money coming down the hillsides, or that whole communities are going around with a strange glitter in their eyes and are seeing things. It is also to be noted for whatever it is worth that Mrs. Arthur Morgan, wife of the head of the Valley authority, has been feeding the Tennesseeans carrots to make them grow. That may mean anything or nothing.

So many delusions are bounding around that it would be unfair not to allow the territory of the Tennessee Valley authority its gigantic, swift, and terrible kangaroo.

Editorial of the Day

THE COST OF RECOVERY.

[Dowagiac, Mich., News.]

Seven billions of deficit in one year is the message of the New Deal to the American people.

That is the cost of the attempts now being made to defeat the depression by governmental spending. Even if it works, who is going to pay the bill, and how? It points the way to confiscation.

While it is indicated that the government can finance the ten billions needed between now and July 1 without difficulty, and that the national debt is as yet no higher than it was at the peak of the war and consequently can be borne, yet we feel that never in all the history of the republic have such cataclysmic headlines appeared in the newspapers as those of this deficit.

If this is recovery, and we say it with deepest of feeling, it shakes us to the core of our being.

How soon and where are the voices going to ring out in protest against this abandonment of all that is safe and sound before we are wrecked as individuals, swallowed up in the maw of government, and our freedom and property made subject to centralized control?

Is the victory over depression worth the surrender of everything we have hitherto held close and dear as individuals? Is this people atrophied? Are we numb, inarticulate, destined to always be the blind followers of a leadership which, although we set it up, we cannot direct or control?

Personally we have not lost faith, although we admit we are sadly shaken. But we believe the time is at hand when these proposals must be submitted to the coldest scrutiny and justified beyond all doubt before they are allowed to pass unchallenged. It is now a time for speaking.

YESSIR, AN AMERICAN VILLAGE! That's what we ought to have at the World's Fair next summer. All this arranging for a Swedish village, an Irish village, a Spanish village, a Dutch village and a Swiss village is all very well, but what could be more interesting and picturesque than an American village? There would be four or five gas stations, six hot dog stands, a couple of barbecue stands, a speed trap and a justice shop; a murder trial in the courthouse and a band concert in the courthouse square. Gangs of CCC's, WRA'ers and AAA's could be standing around on the roads and untilled farms where they've plowed under the wheat and corn and buried the little hoggies. And it could all be inclosed with billboards covered with soap and tooth wash ads and the whole village covered by a mortgage. Oh, by all means, let us have an American village. Our simple American home life is so quaint!

IT'S TIME.

Instead of fanning each small flame,
Oh, I should blow it out
With one long breath compounded of Experience and doubt.

Oh, I should snuff it at the start
And count the act of saving
Instead of holding hope aloft,
A scarlet banner waving,

For I have seen a hundred dreams,
Each lovely in its turn,
Become a hundred heartbreaks and
It's time I ought to learn!

WINTER.

Loud the lament when seasons change
And winter comes, as if these months were but an interval
'Twixt times of Beauty;
As if the fields were naked of the fresh laid snow
And hilltops bare of black traced trees,
As if the grasses and the crowding leaves
And all that lush enveloping growth
That summer boasts
Were all there were of Loveliness
And winter winds but blew to sing her dirge.

When Passion dies is Beauty gone
Or is she but the fairer still
Who claims the spirit for her own
And leaves the flesh to have who will?

TWENTY—just twenty people in these U. S. of A. had incomes of over a million dollars in 1933. But in 1929 there were 513. In 1936 there's going to be an awful fight between the circus people and the museums as to whether to put the one that's left into the side show or a glass case.

CORRESPONDENTS DOWN IN TENNESSEE are in an awful ferment over a terrible beast that appears at night, eats police dogs and cows at one gulp, is as fast as lightning, and leaps like a kangaroo over houses and trees. Of course, it would be difficult until more facts are known to say what the visitation might be, but it sounds very much from the facts already printed like it is Senator Huey P. Long.

HALITOSIS.

THE great majority of the cases of halitosis are due to absorption of odoriferous gases from the digestive tract. The gases absorbed there are carried by the blood to the great organ for the excretion of waste gases—the lungs. To a limited extent the skin helps the lungs to rid the blood of odoriferous substances. Most of the substances possessed of odors are found in the breath, or expired air. A small proportion of them is found in the liquid and more or less solid excretions of some of the skin glands.

When we speak of halitosis we have in mind the odors borne by the breath. These are due to chemical products absorbed almost wholly from a few feet of the digestive tract, beginning about the ileocecal valve located near the appendix and ending in the vicinity of the sigmoid flexure.

This sector of the digestive tract includes the cæcum, the hepatic flexure, the splenic flexure, the ascending and transverse colon, and the descending colon as far as the sigmoid. This sigmoid is located on the left side between the hip and the navel region. The chemical changes that take place beyond the sigmoid are principally bacterial and they result in a different set of odors. Those that take place above the appendix region are not apt to be absorbed in amounts sufficient to give odors to the breath.

If we are to prevent the most frequent forms of halitosis the effort must be to change somewhat the chemistry of the contents of this part of the digestive tract.

The odors of the gases responsible for halitosis belong to a group that is loosely called ethereal or aromatic. The odor is sweetish, something like that of chloroform, but quite different—something like that of the breath in acidosis, but, again, quite different from it.

To some the odor is pleasant; to others quite unpleasant. The odor of the most prized perfumes is quite closely akin to odors that are very offensive. In fact, our likes and dislikes in odors are largely a matter of custom, social law, recollection of past experiences, and personal preferences.

In the production of these odors bacteria do not play the principal rôle. Choice of foods is even more of a factor in changing the odoriferous gases than is the bacterial content of the tract in that area.

Some cases of halitosis are due to ozena, a nose disease in which offensive scabs form locally; some to white masses forming in the tonsils, and some to foul tongue, gums, or teeth. Some are due to chronic bronchitis associated with bronchiectic cavities, and some to dilatation of the stomach.

Washes are of service in cleansing the mouth and in perfuming the breath. It is all right to use them for that purpose. But an effort should be made to change the basic cause.

BUNIONS.

K. M. writes:

1. I am a girl of 19 and am being troubled by a bunion on the left foot. I would do anything to be rid of it, as it gets all my shoes out of shape and I am always self-conscious about it. Is there any cure for bunions? Is there anything I could do to make it smaller? For the last three months I have tried wearing larger shoes and have not been troubled with any pain since then.

2. I can walk for miles without feeling any pain. Is walking harmful in my case?

REPLY.

1. Your bunions have earned the right to get your shoes out of shape, since the shoes contributed to getting your feet out of shape. There is a cure for bunions. In fact, there are several. Many require operation. That is a cure. Wearing shoes that are broad in front cures many cases. That seems to be good for you. Wearing toe straighteners and bunion pads cures some cases. Going barefooted cures others.

The basic cause of a bunion is spreading of the bones in the ball of the foot. This may result in enlargement of the heads of the bones and corns to protect the sore bones. Among the causes are displaced sesamoid bones, bony spurs, and narrow and sometimes short shoes.

2. No.

DO NOT WORRY.

J. W. A. writes: A few days ago, while holding a newspaper in my hands, I noticed it started to shake. Since that day every time I hold something in my hands I can see them tremble. I am worried about this. I am 18 years old and weigh 124 pounds. What caused this? Is it because I may be underweight or haven't enough blood? Can this be cured? And, if so, how?

REPLY.

There are many causes of trembling. What did you read that frightened you?

My guess is that if you forget your tremor you will have nothing to worry about. Why not let your machinery run without your thought?

ANEMIA.

L. R. writes: In response to a recent inquiry about walking after having pernicious anemia I am glad to say I walk back and forth to work after having been unable to walk for three months due to this disease. Taking concentrated liver and iron and raw liver did the work.

TERMS OF WILL.

Farmington, Ill., Jan. 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Father died seven years ago leaving a will naming mother executrix. The will reads: "After payment of such funeral expenses and debts [1] I give, devise, and bequeath my entire estate and property to my beloved wife, with full power to handle the same and sell as she may think for the best interest of my estate, and to have the free use of the same in every way, and after her death that the said estate shall be divided equally between my three children. . . ." Mother died a short time ago. 2. There were several notes out when father died, but when mother had served a year as executrix [3] she took over those notes to settle the estate and filed her final report, which was approved by the court. 4. What interest did she really have in the estate and [5] what about the notes or any debts which accrued during the time it was her property? The children always expected to assume those notes or liquidate in order to settle debts. 6. Would there be any chance of the will being misconstrued by the noteholders? 7. Information regarding the reading of said will and as to [8] our responsibility will be appreciated.

R. A. B.

1. Where a will first purports to give the entire estate and then contains provisions as to the disposition of what is left on the grantee's death there is obviously a conflict or inconsistency between the two provisions. In some cases the courts have treated the original unqualified gift as controlling and ignored the subsequent limitations, but the Illinois court, in Gruenewald v. Neu, 215 Ill. 132, held that wording similar to yours passes a life estate with power to dispose of the fee. It is unnecessary and unwise to word a will in such a way as to involve the possibility of such questions.

2. We assume from later parts of your letter that you mean notes on which your father was the maker.

3. Your meaning is not clear at this point. The holders of the notes would be under no legal obligation to accept your mother's promise as a substitute for their right to collect from the estate, but if they did not file claims, and the estate was closed, then their right to look to the estate would be barred.

4. See 1.

5. See 2 and 3.

6. We are not in a position to say what the noteholders will do.

7. See preceding answers.

8. We do not see that you are in any way responsible on the facts stated.

HELSINGFORS, Finland. — Bombproof and gasproof cellars are being constructed in the newest Finnish apartment buildings and real estate agents are featuring these gruesome rooms in their selling talks to prospective tenants. And the tenants, when showing their cozy little apartments to their guests, also mention the cellar.

Apartments with built-in refrigerators, front and back elevators, spacious cupboards, and American kitchens can be easily rented in all Finnish cities and even in some of the smaller towns, but in constructing war time dugouts in their cellars the Finnish architects have gone their American competitors one better.

Even after two years of hard times building operations are going on in Helsingfors. Blocks of new apartments are being erected and rents are coming down. The Finns are proud of the building activity and say this proves their citizens are not hiding their savings abroad, as citizens of many other countries are doing, but are investing them at home. Many apartment houses are being built by coöperatives, the members each paying for their apartment and having it built to their specifications.

The standard of living is higher in Helsingfors than in any other city in Europe. There are no slums or slovenly buildings. The Finnish government officially reports 40,000 unemployed in its three million population, but one can walk for weeks through Helsingfors without meeting a beggar or panhandler.

There are many indications in Finland that the worst part of the crisis is past. A year ago the banks complained that depositors were taking out their money and hoarding it. Today deposits are larger than before and the bankers do not know what to do with their cash on hand. They continue to view business carefully and business men complain it is difficult to obtain loans.

Finland's active trade balance continues to increase and the country is settling down to live within its income. There are also indications that large sums of foreign money invested in the country which were withdrawn last year are beginning to return. Finland is looking forward to a return to prosperity.

ABOUT MILK.

Oconto Falls, Wis., Jan. 11.—The AAA and Secretary Wallace "would provide protection" for producers in the matter of price for city milksheds. Protection against whom? That can only mean protection against the poor wretches in the other half of the dairy industry who are at present getting only 70 cents a hundred pounds for milk, or less. That is class legislation and special privilege. What right has half the dairy industry to protection from the other half?

Fluid milk and cream consumption in 1932 took 46 per cent of the total dairy production of the country. Butter took 42 per cent. Total production was about 106 billion pounds. If fluid milk prices are high enough to reduce consumption even 5 per cent, this diverts enough dairy production into butter to add 100 million pounds to the surplus in storage. We are told 125 million pounds of butter in storage is a "staggering surplus." If even a 5 per cent decrease in fluid milk consumption creates 100 million pounds of this surplus, then fixed prices for fluid milk to farmers result directly in the ruin of the rest of the industry.

The only possible price fixing that is fair to the entire industry and to consumers is to fix a difference between inspected milk and that from farms not inspected. A difference of not less than 5 cents nor more than 10 cents would protect the consumer from exploitation and would assure him of a plentiful supply of milk meeting all sanitation requirements. Any farmer in either the butter or cheese markets would be glad to shift to the fluid market for an increase of even less than 10 cents per pound butterfat above the cheese market.

The sanitary requirements for producing butter and cheese should in any case be just as high as for fluid milk, and a distinction is silly. Babies under one year of age eat butter. In most cases, the assessed value of a farm is the same after inspection as it was before. Most farmers have a sense of social responsibility and attend to essential sanitation in milk production anyhow, and those who do not should be compelled to do so, even for butter production. To say that uninspected farms can produce milk much cheaper than inspected farms is simply not true. A wide spread in prices is economic injustice.

Artificial trade restrictions of government—city, state, or federal—are in all cases responsible for this unjust spread in price. Government condemns such restrictions in international trade, and then creates them in domestic trade. The best way out would be to have all dairy farms state inspected, beginning with voluntary inspection on request. The Chicago board of health could continue to do its own inspecting, but have this paid for by the states where the farms supplying Chicago are located.

It looks as if now were the time for consumers in cities to do a little organizing of their own into consumers' leagues, and attend to the purchase of their own fluid milk. The board of health would be the watchdog for sanitation, as usual, but consumers need a financial watchdog as well.

ELDON WITTER,
President, Oconto County Law and Order League.

THE SPIRIT OF COMPETITION.

Lockport, Ill., Jan. 11.—I have always been a great admirer of the cartoons by John T. McCutcheon, but when I saw the one in this morning's paper, stating that the farmer receives 4 cents a quart for milk, I could not understand how you could possibly allow such a gross misrepresentation be published, for, with the base at $2 and the expense that the farmer is put to in the Pure Milk association, for freight, and the fact that he receives so much less for the milk which he produces over and above his base, it means that it is impossible by any flight of imagination to believe that any farmer receives over 2 cents a quart for his milk, and may get even less than this.

Until the general public becomes aware of the true situation and compels those in authority at Washington to make a fair adjustment for the farmer there can be no hope of any permanent settlement of the milk problem in this area.

In rough figures it costs the average retailer 25 per cent to deliver any goods, and it is perfectly apparent that the independents are making more money selling milk for cash at approximately 20 per cent less than the companies who deliver, and instead of being driven out of business they should be encouraged, for, in spite of the fact that communism is being promulgated today in this country, the only hope that any group has today is to keep alive the spirit of competition.

L. F. ROBLEE, M. D.

TOO MANY LOCAL GOVERNMENTS.

Van Wert, O., Jan. 12.—Upon reading your editorial, "Wasted Rails," I was again reminded of a parallel situation, that of duplication in our political setup.

Ohio has 88 counties. Each county is divided into an average of about twelve townships. Each of these political divisions has its own independent government.

These small units were laid out when there was no means of transportation other than "shanks ponies," or the old gray mare, and that over mud roads—sometimes almost impassable. That was also before the telephone was invented or in general use and all other means of rapid transportation and communication were unforeseen.

Under present conditions there is no reason why these small political units should not be condensed into one county unit and in some cases two or more counties could or should consolidate into one unit. If this change was effected, hundreds of millions of dollars annually could be saved the taxpayers.

14,000 FLOCK TO PREVIEW OF EDITH McCORMICK SALE

Objects at Lake Forest Estate Shown.

John Dunford, who for a quarter of a century was superintendent of the late Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick's Villa Turicum estate in Lake Forest, turned a mournful eye upon a throng of visitors, mainly feminine, who trooped yesterday through the 56 room mansion and overflowed on the surrounding estate.

They were there to inspect what remains of Mrs. McCormick's household goods. These effects are to be sold at auction tomorrow to satisfy claims against the estate, which before Mrs. McCormick's ill fated real estate ventures and the depression, was estimated at $50,000,000.

14,000 Spectators on Hand.

More than 14,000 visitors were counted yesterday. A score of uniformed ushers, who had been engaged to show them through the vast mansion and point out the pieces of especial interest, had to abandon that duty to handle foot and automobile traffic outside. John Dunford winced as he saw shrubbery trampled and the lawns which had been his tender charge for many years pitted by sharp French heels.

"It would be a terrible spectacle to her if she were alive," he said, "and could see these crowds running over things."

The driveways of the estate were jammed with automobiles yesterday from mid-morning until nightfall. Among them were the expensive cars of women who had been Mrs. McCormick's friends and neighbors. Before the auction held earlier in the week in her Lake Shore drive castle, attendance had been restricted by a $1 admission charge on the days when the articles to be sold were placed on display.

Fix Admission Fee.

There was no admission charge at Villa Turicum yesterday, those in charge of the auction having thought that the suburban location would prevent an undue crush of visitors. They had not reckoned, apparently, with the lure of the house which, from its construction twenty years ago, has been the show place of all the millionaire estates on the north shore. Today and tomorrow a 50 cent admission charge will be made.

MERCHANTS TO PLAN ACTION ON STATE SALES TAX

Credit men from Chicago wholesale concerns will meet with a committee of merchants from the mercantile division of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce today at noon in the Palmer house to discuss the 2 per cent state occupational tax as it applies to retail profits in Illinois. They will be urged to back the effort to show the tax as a separate item of merchandise cost.

"We are asking the coöperation of the credit men to get a uniform 100 per cent coöperation in charging the 2 per cent as an extra cost of doing business," said Maurice L. Rothschild, a member of the committee. "Without the total coöperation of all merchants it will be impossible in Chicago to back up the demand of the smaller merchants who face great hardships unless this is done."

Other members of the committee, which will meet with the credit executives this noon, include John T. Pirie, D. F. Kelly, Elmer Wieboldt, and Joseph Spiess, chairman of the state chamber's mercantile division. Credit executives from the important wholesale concerns in Chicago have been invited to attend.

Women Students Cause Arrest of School Heads

Fred W. Smith, 58 years old, 55 West Erie street, and Arthur Paymar, 31, 5537 Winthrop avenue, said to be associated with the Chicago Institute of Laboratory Technique, 140 North Dearborn street, were booked by police last night on charges of confidence game preferred by two women students of the institute. The women, Miss Mary Maceher, 22, of 6231 North Washtenaw avenue, and Miss Dorothy Brown, 22, of 549 Aldine avenue, charged they paid $225, supposedly for the entire course, and were asked for $225 more. They were ordered to withdraw unless they paid the extra tuition, they said. Smith and Paymar will be arraigned in Felony court today.

Woman Ticket Agent's Alleged Robber Seized

Joseph A. Bushell, 28 years old, 6526 Kenwood avenue, was arrested early today as a robber suspect by Detectives Fred Crowley and Thomas Brown of the Woodlawn station. Police said his picture has been identified by Mrs. May Garvey, 7950 Dorchester avenue, ticket agent at the 71st street station of the Illinois Central railroad, as that of the bandit who robbed her of $65 on Dec. 30.

Policeman Cleans Gun; Yes, and It Shoots Him

Matthew Boland, 33 years old, who as a South park policeman for twelve years has cleaned his service revolver hundreds of times, made a mistake last night. He cleaned it while it was loaded. The gun was accidentally discharged and a bullet struck the palm of his left hand. The accident occurred in Boland's home at 5631 South Sangamon street. He was taken to the German Deaconess hospital.

AUDITOR TRACES HIGH FINANCE IN MORTGAGE DEAL

Prosecution to Close Its Case Today.

The state yesterday placed Clarence C. Walker, an auditor, on the witness stand as the last prosecution witness in the trial of seven men who are charged with conspiracy to loot the cash assets of the Security Life Insurance company and its affiliate, the Northern States Life Insurance company. The case is being tried before a jury in the court of Judge Benjamin Epstein.

Assistant State's Attorneys Robert Wright and Vernon C. Thompson said they will close the prosecution's case some time today. The defense is then expected to present its side of the charge made by the state to the effect that the defendants looted the treasuries of the insurance companies by over-mortgaging a 30 acre tract of land near Waukegan, later dumping these mortgages into the security portfolios of the insurance companies.

Traces Mortgage Deal.

Auditor Walker traced for the jury the transactions of the $1,900,000 mortgages placed on the land. He testified that the Northern States Life Insurance company paid out of its treasury $817,000 for mortgages on this property.

Of this amount $716,586 was cash and the remainder in assets of one kind or another. The money and assets were turned over to either Edwin Hult & Co. or the Keystone Holding company. These companies, the prosecution contends, were formed by Machir Dorsey, one time wealthy insurance promoter and one of the main defendants in the trial, to handle the mortgage transactions.

Walker testified that when the interest came due on the various mortgages the Hult company paid it either with other mortgages or with notes, never with cash. Walker also testified that the Security Life Insurance company had $885,000 of these mortgages in its treasury.

Walker will be recalled to the stand again today, it was announced at the close of the court session.

Kansas Deal Balked.

The prosecution earlier in the day introduced testimony to show that an effort to dump a $255,000 mortgage in the treasury of the Kansas State Life Insurance company, then controlled by Dorsey, was balked by the Kansas state insurance department.

George M. Brewster, assistant commissioner of insurance of Kansas, told of the details of this transaction.

"The insurance commissioner, Charles F. Hobbs, called Dorsey in about the mortgage," Brewster testified. "He told Dorsey that the department had more intelligence than he gave us credit for. He told Mr. Dorsey never again to try to pull any stunts like that."

Found Property in Lake.

David Neiswanger, a Topeka, Kas., real estate appraiser, followed Brewster on the witness stand. He testified that he looked over the property secured by the mortgage, and disclosed that some of the property, which was divided into small plots for the purposes of placing the mortgages, was mostly in Lake Michigan. He said the particular piece he appraised had a top value of $125,000, as security for the $255,000 mortgage.

The other defendants in the trial beside Dorsey are Attorney John H. S. Lee, one of the owners of the property involved, and five associates of Dorsey in his insurance enterprises.

His Chimney Smokes, So He Kills Landlord

Several days ago Emil Belanger, 38 years old, 1958 North Halsted street, complained to his landlord that a chimney in his flat was smoking. Nothing was done about it. Yesterday Belanger called on the landlord, Frank Mergel, 55 years old, 1960 North Halsted street, and took a pistol with which to enforce his argument that repairs should be made. Mergel's assurances of the smoke elimination were not sufficently convincing, so Belanger shot and killed him. The slayer was taken into custody by the police.

PUT GAMBLING UNDER LICENSE, LOESCH ADVISES

Points to the Failure of Prohibitory Laws.

A suggestion that it might be worth while to consider the licensing of gambling, because of the seeming impossibility of enforcing the laws against is, was made yesterday by Frank J. Loesch at the annual meeting of the Chicago Crime commission, of which he was elected president for the seventh time.

"It is probable that the most open violations of the laws which we have today are those against gambling," said Mr. Loesch. "It is reaching such a stage that, abhorrent as the thought may be, it is worth while considering whether some effort through licensing should not be made to control it, rather than to leave it uncontrolled and continue the corrupting influence which it now is among police and politicians.

"Since it seems impossible, in spite of the severe laws against it, to suppress even a small part of it, it might as well be admitted that the laws against gambling are not enforced anywhere."

Surveys War on Crime.

Mr. Loesch surveyed the year's war on crime and paid high tribute to Police Commissioner Allman, State's Attorney Courtney, and the judges of the Criminal court, under the leadership of Philip L. Sullivan and John Prystalski as chief justices.

"The year has been notable for its vigorous law enforcement against the organized criminal," said Mr. Losch, "whether gangster, murderer, kidnaper, burglar, or bank officer, and the lawless element generally.

"It is deplorable that so many brave officers have lost their lives at the hands of gangsters in holdups or while the police were seeking the very criminals who became their murders. That fact in itself is evidence of the desperation to which the habitual criminals have now been driven by the persistent pursuit by the police."

Crime of Auto Stealing.

Mr. Loesch said that the major crime now affecting thousands of citizens here is that of stealing, and in most cases stripping, of automobiles, at a rate which has made the theft insurance on a certain car 10 times what it is in Milwaukee. He added that the crime commission had come to a sharp issue on this question with Judge John Gutknecht, who adopted the practice of continuing cases against youthful thieves, instead of holding them to the grand jury or discharging where evidence was lacking.

"He wished to save a record against the boys by continuing the cases and by holding them in jail from one to six months, until his discipline, he thought, has taken effect," said Mr. Loesch. "The action of the judge in this particular is unwarranted in law and finds no support in our criminal code."

BUTLER WINS IN SUIT AGAINST COAST FAMILY

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 18.—[Special.]—Decision to return judgment in favor of Emil Kiechele, former butler for Mrs. Kate Crane Gartz and against the wealthy Pasadena woman and her son, Richard Crane Gartz, was announced by Superior Judge Charles Bogue today on conclusion of Kiechele's suit for $85,000 damages. Judge Bogue told both sides to present briefs concerning amount of judgment.

Kiechele testified he had been slapped on the ear by young Gartz, rupturing his eardrum and necessitating a mastoid operation which later affected the brain—the plaintiff having been in an asylum for some time after the injury in 1931.

Young Gartz said he slapped the butler only lightly and that Kiechele's mastoid condition had preceded the incident. He testified he slapped Kiechele because the latter loitered near the bathroom of women guests.

Kiechele testified he was slapped more than once; one occasion being when he sought to keep Gartz from molesting two women guests. Gartz' mother did not attend the trial. The Gartz family are former Chicagoans.

URGE EXTENSION IN PROVISIONS FOR NEEDY CHILDREN

Wider Public Aid Asked for Dependents.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

If recommendations made yesterday by two welfare leaders are carried out by the county and the state, thousands of homeless children and other neglected thousands living in delinquent homes will be assured normal lives and a happier future. The recommendations were announced at the 50th annual meeting of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society in the Medinah Michigan Avenue club. The society is Chicago's pioneer organization for the care of children.

Prof. Harrison A. Dobbs of the graduate school of social service administration of the University of Chicago and C. V. Williams, superintendent of the society for many years, declared that the Cook county board should recognize the county's responsibility to the dependent child through the establishment of a department of dependent child care in the bureau of public welfare.

Urge Broader Visitation.

Both said also that the state department of public welfare should extend its division of child visitation.

Said Prof. Dobbs: "The best way to correct dependency among children is to prevent this condition by careful community planning and close attention to such matters as health of parents, conditions of living, employment, and parental education. The present economic situation, however, besides indicating the need for attention to private care of children, suggests the establishment of a department of child care in the Cook county bureau of public welfare and the extension of the state department of public welfare in its division on child visitation."

Cites Inadequate Provisions.

Mr. Williams cited the expenditure of large sums of money on alms houses and jails throughout the state and the contrasting utter lack of home provision for neglected children. It is up to the county commissioners, he said, to recognize their obligation to children who cannot be cared for by private agencies. He suggested that the state division of guardianship set up a system of child care similar to that used by the private agency.

Officers and members of the board gave reports indicating the thorough methods used by the society to give, during the past year, more than 2,200 neglected children the same humane care they would have received had they been born to normal homes.

A total of 4,981 children were assisted during the year, according to the report of Hermon Dunlap Smith, secretary.

Chauncey McCormick was reëlected president, Augustus A. Carpenter, Charles B. Goodspeed and Miss Eunice C. Smith of Alton, vice presidents; Mr. Smith, secretary, and Mr. Lingle, treasurer. New directors are Prof. Dobbs, Patrick A. Valentine, Mrs. Robert L. Scott, Evanston; Mrs. Arthur Dixon and Mrs. J. F. Oakes, Lake Forest, and Hamill Graham, Denver, Ill.

CHARGE SINCLAIR, 24 OTHERS WITH EMBEZZLEMENT

Tulsa, Okla., Jan. 18. — [Special.] — Warrants for the arrest of Harry F. Sinclair, wealthy oil operator, and 24 other men, all prominent in business circles, on charges of embezzlement, were issued here today.

The men are charged with the embezzlement of $23,869 from the defunct Exchange Trust company, of which they were officials. Warrants for their arrest were issued at the request of James N. Springer, a special state prosecutor appointed by Gov. William H. Murray.

Trust Company Closed.

The action today is the outgrowth of the closing of the Exchange Trust company, formerly associated with the Exchange National bank, now the National Bank of Tulsa. The trust company went into the hands of the state banking department for liquidation June 29, 1933. The filing of the charges grew out of the special audit ordered by Gov. Murray.

The specific charges name all of the directors and several officers of the trust company charging that they as directors were directly responsible for any action on the part of individuals who might be guilty of the embezzlement and misappropriation of funds.

Both Harry F. Sinclair, and E. W. Sinclair, also accused, were directors of the trust company at the time of its failure.

The charges, which allege embezzlement on the part of the 25 defendants, specifically point out a half dozen instances where it was alleged money from various accounts were appropriated to the use of the defendants. The largest sum named in any single transaction was $2,500.

Those for whom warrants were issued are:

Harry F. Sinclair, chairman of the Consolidated Oil corporation; E. W. Sinclair, a director of the same firm; Harry H. Rogers, ex-president of the Exchange bank and now chairman of the Atlas Life Insurance company; H. L. Standeven, former executive vice president of the Trust company and president of the Exchange National company, and also assistant manager of the Oklahoma Home Owners' Loan corporation.

H. V. Foster, Bartesville, head of the Indiana Territory Illuminating Oil company; R. E. Adams, former executive committee chairman of the Trust company; H. C. Ashby, Tulsa capitalist; W. A. Brownlee, executive vice president of the National Bank of Tulsa; J. A. Chapman, financier, long been associated with the bank; H. C. Barnard, former chairman of the executive committee of the bank.

General Counsel Included.

C. E. Bush, general counsel for the trust company; George S. Bole, oil producer; J. H. Evans, president of the Devonian Oil company; E. P. Harwell, oil producer; J. A. Hull, oil producer; J. H. Hill, insurance company chief; R. K. Huey, Deep Rock Oil corporation; Dana Kelsey, director of Consolidated Oil corporation; F. L. Kennedy, Tulsa capitalist; J. J. Larkin, oil producer; R. M. McFarlin, Tulsa financier; C. B. Peters, head of the Peters Petroleum company; J. S. Pearce, insurance firm head; C. A. Steele, attorney and bank director, and Frank Haskell, said to be a Sharon, Conn., oil man.

BOMBING OPENS NEW MINE WAR AT KINCAID, ILL.

Taylorville, Ill., Jan. 18.—[Special.]—A new mine war flared up today at Kincaid, seven miles west of this city, and left several injured men in its wake. Fist fights were reported at the Peabody mine No. 7 in a battle between the Progressive union and the United Mine Workers.

The battle was precipitated by the bombing early this morning of the Progressive soup kitchen in Kincaid. The shack, which had been a headquarters for the Progressive group and a dispensary of free soup to poor children, was wrecked by a terrific explosion that shattered the windows for two blocks.

During the day the Progressive miners began to mobilize about the Peabody mine, which is being worked under a contract with the United Mine Workers. Just before quitting time tonight 200 armed deputies were rushed to the scene by Charles Wienecke, sheriff of Christian county.

The feeling was intense in Taylorville tonight, with knots of miners from both sides grouped along the streets.

Many a gas says "Instant Starting" in the ads
PHILLIPS 66 says INSTANT STARTING in your motor

It is unfair to call your car "a hard-starting brute," because you had to crank it by hand or beg a passing driver to give you a push that bent the rear bumper.

Perhaps you had the wrong gasoline in the tank! Always remember that high test is what it takes to start a motor in freezing weather.

Every gallon of Phillips 66 is packed with quick-starting elements. These super-volatile parts go to work at the first flash of the spark plugs. The gas is actually anxious to get going—so live and eager, that enthusiastic drivers say: "On cold days Phillips 66 is like liquid lightning under the hood."

Maybe you have read quick-starting claims for gasolines that did not prove-up in your icy motor. But the chances are 100 to 1 that you have never seen any ad, except Phillips', which published in plain figures the exact gravity range.

These figures do more than prove that Phillips 66 is high test. They are conclusive evidence which tells you how high the test is.

Every time you start your car, after you Phill-up with Phillips, you will marvel at the instant response . . . the smoothness . . . the quick warm-up. And freezing days or mild ones, you always get the pep, power, and mileage resulting from Phillips CONTROLLED VOLATILITY.

Here's the reason: As the temperature drops, the gravity of this greater gasoline goes up—protecting performance against changes in weather.

This high test and anti-knock motor fuel does not cost a penny over the price of regular. We are able to give this greater value because we are the world's largest producer of natural high gravity gasoline. So it costs you nothing to try a tankful and feel the difference! Phill-up with Phillips at the Orange and Black 66 shield.

DEMOCRATS DRAW PARTIAL SLATE FOR APRIL POLL

Sweitzer for Treasurer; G. O. P. Split.

Robert M. Sweitzer, county clerk since 1911, was put forth yesterday at a meeting of the Democratic county central committee as its only candidate for the Democratic nomination for county treasurer. The slating of the veteran county clerk, who has headed a number of Democratic tickets, for the treasury position was regarded by many of the Democrats as recognition for valued service to the party.

On the other side, the Republican slate making committee of 13, selected after 48 of the ward committeemen and all of the county leaders had agreed to go along with a harmony ticket, had to contend with a group that declared dissatisfaction with the slate as brought forth so far.

Insurgents Balk Action.

The insurgent group insisted upon a meeting of the Republican county central committee, and this was called for Monday by Edward F. Moore, secretary of the central committee.

The Democrats had a grand opening of their dining room at headquarters at the Morrison hotel and, afterwards, the ward committeemen and the county district leaders submitted names for the county ticket to submit at the April 10th primary. These names will be considered next week by a smaller committee to be named later.

Partial Democratic List.

The names submitted yesterday, which are said to comprise only a partial list, were as follows:

Sanitary District—Thomas J. Bowler, Ignatius Frasz, James M. Whalen, Alfred Flynn, John D. Hayes, Louis Rixmann.

Sheriff—Ald. John Toman [23d].

County Treasurer—Robert M. Sweitzer.

County Judge—Edmund K. Jarecki, Peter H. Schwaba.

Probate Court Judge—John F. O'Connell.

Probate Court Clerk—M. C. Robin.

Criminal Court Clerk—George Seif.

County Superintendent of Schools—Homer J. Byrd.

Assessor—John E. Conroy, Michael J. Flynn.

Members Board of Tax Appeals—John F. Boyle, Joseph J. Drucker, Harry Kohl, Fred Brumwell, Ald. James R. Quinn [40th].

President County Board of Commissioners—Emmett Whealan.

County Commissioners from Chicago [10]—Marie C. Plumb, Alexander Kumaskis, Joseph Fitzgerald, Dan Ryan, Ignatius Frasz, Joseph T. Baran, Leo Schunemann, Edmond J. Mahony, C. A. Jensen, Charles H. Weber, Amelia Sears, J. F. Kinsella, Louis Rixmann.

County Commissioners from the County [5]—Frank J. Kasper, Homer J. Byrd, Emmett McGrath, William McNerney, Charles McLeod, Daniel J. Bergin, H. M. McCullen, Mrs. E. J. Fleming, Gerald Byrnes, John F. Delaney.

Judges Municipal Court—Matthew Hartigan, John J. Rooney, Martin E. Corcoran, Harold P. OcConnell, Samuel E. Pincus, Emil Broz, Joseph J. Drucker, Ald. Z. H. Kadow [33d]; James J. O'Toole, E. H. McGarry, Otto Baer, Erwin J. Hasten, Frank J. Donoghue, Arthur A. Sullivan, Leroy Hackett, John J. Griffith, John V. McCormick, William J. Terrell.

Circuit Court Judge—John C. Lewe, Joseph F. Grossman.

Superior Court Judge—Joseph F. Grossman, Bernard Stenge, Harold E. Sullivan.

McDonough Not on List.

The characterization of the list as "incomplete" forestalled speculation about the absence of the names of Joseph B. McDonough, county treasurer, and Sheriff Meyering. Meyering supported Michael L. Igoe in 1932 for the Democratic nomination for governor against the organization's choice of Henry Horner, but the inclusion of his name and that of Igoe on the invitation to yesterday's luncheon was interpreted as a bid for the resumption of cordial relations. Neither was the name of Mary McEnerney, county commissioner, present.

The Republican slate making committee on Wednesday tentatively indorsed the candidacies of five for county offices, including Ald. James C. Moreland [41st] for assessor. The Democrats have put forth the names of Conroy and Flynn for this job, both parties so far leaving out of consideration the present assessor, J. L. Jacobs. The Democrats yesterday also named Ald. Jacob M. Arvey to the post of committeeman of the 24th ward, to fill out the unexpired term of the late Moe Rosenberg.

In the Sherman hotel, a number of Republicans met under the guidance of George V. Barrett, committeeman of the 21st ward. They declared themselves dissatisfied with the few recommendations as issued by the committee of 13 and asked for the Monday meeting of the county central committee, which was granted.

Meanwhile, the committee of 13 decided to postpone further slate making activities until 7 o'clock tonight, and possibly will adjourn at that time until later to see what happens at the Monday session. Officers of the central committee declared that they are satisfied that a majority of the signatures to the agreement to abide by the slate making committee's decisions will be permanent.

These officers met yesterday with former Senator Charles S. Deneen. They said afterwards that they believe that Mr. Deneen wants to work out a harmony ticket that all of the Republicans can support.

JUDGE THREATENED AFTER MAE WEST IS ROBBERY WITNESS

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 18.—(AP)—Warned through anonymous telephone threats that "there may be violence," Superior Judge H. F. Sewell tonight ordered additional guards thrown about his courtroom where the blonde film actress, Mae West, has been testifying in a robbery trial.

While Judge Sewell denied the warning messages were directed at him personally and he declined a bodyguard, two district attorney investigators, Jack Chriss and Jack Southard, disclosed they were tracing the calls with the understanding the anonymous informants had advised the jurist of the "easiest way out."

The "easiest way out," the investigators said, was interpreted to mean that the judge should instruct the jury to acquit Edward Friedman, on trial on charges of having robbed Miss West of about $20,000 in jewels and money in a holdup sixteen months ago.

Although the jurist declared he was of the opinion the telephone messages came from "cranks," the glamorous movie actress was under heavy guard even when she stretched out for a little rest on a spacious couch in the grand jury room.

A mild sensation was created in the corridor outside the courtroom late today when Chriss and Southard took into custody a loiterer who, they declared, had been trailing Miss West to and from her apartment.

After lengthy questioning the suspect, who said he was a Chicago clothing salesman, was released with warnings to discontinue "shadowing" the actress. Chriss and Southard declined to disclose his name.

ITALIAN CHAMBER ROARS ASSENT TO DUCE'S GUILD LAW

Eulogizes Mussolini; Ends 5 Year "Yes Term."

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Jan. 18.—Premier Mussolini's so-called "yes man" chamber of deputies with its dying breath tonight gave unanimous approbation to the new corporative, or guild, law, which is destined to dominate the economic system of Italy, and then passed noisily out of five years of existence.

The chamber's final act, the voting of the new law setting up the industrial guilds, was timed to end Italy's 28th legislature. The law passed the senate last Saturday and no constitutional obstacles now exist to prevent its becoming operative.

Only 42 Absent.

Three hundred fifty-eight members out of the 400 elected five years ago were present at today's swan song session in black shirts, and there was much singing of "Giovanezza" and other Fascist hymns during the chamber's death agony. Some of the 42 missing members had been expelled for infidelity to Fascist principles.

Mussolini, also wearing the Fascist black shirt, was greeted with delirious cheering, as he cast the first of the 358 votes in favor of the guild law, which he declared crowns his new economic system for Italy. Il Duce walked down from his place on the ministerial benches and saluted in Roman fashion as he dropped his voting pea in the secret urn.

Other deputies followed, and, led by Achille Starace, party secretary, as cheer leader, the chamber members were in an uproar until finally they all marched out in their black shirts and went to pay a special visit to the Fascist exposition, which has been open for the last 18 months.

Distinguished for Celerity.

This 28th legislature probably will be chiefly distinguished for the celerity with which it approved Mussolini's legislation during the last five years. Its probably crowning act, historically at least, was the approval of the bill reëstablishing peace between the Italian government and the Vatican at its first big session. It has since voted many economic and political measures which have profoundly changed the social life of Italy.

As Mussolini announced recently, there will be another chamber elected in April this year, probably along the same lines as the present body was chosen. A list of names will be submitted to the grand Fascist council, which will meet March 1 to select those whom it likes, and these will be voted on as a whole.

This new chamber, however, according to Mussolini's announcement, will only be elected in order to vote its own euthanasia, for he plans to replace it with the council of his new guild system.

NILES VICE MYTH, FINDS YOUTHFUL ONE-MAN "JURY"

Niles, Mich., Jan. 18.—[Special.]—Berrien county's exposé of vice conditions, enmeshing nearly 150 young girls and a score of older men, was branded a myth today by Justice of the Peoce Thomas M. Farrell when he submitted the findings of his special one man grand jury investigation to the state's attorney general.

At the same time, however, the young justice pointed out that "a certain amount of moral looseness prevails" in and around Niles and promised a number of arrests. He named "loose" dance halls as needing regulation.

Four young men involved by young girls who testified here are being sought on warrants charging them with statutory offenses, carrying maximum terms of imprisonment. Justice Farrell said two or three other warrants probably will be issued on the basis of his recommendations to Prosecuting Attorney Harvey Holbrook.

The grand jury investigation of vice conditions was called by Prosecutor Holbrook last week—later Attorney General Patrick H. O'Brien stepped into the case and demanded an inquiry "to the very depths of this thing, no matter who it hits—after Probate Judge Malcolm Hatfield had made startling disclosures of conditions which he termed "rotten beyond belief."

"From the facts disclosed I am convinced that such reports are unfounded and not based on facts. There is no evidence of any vice ring whatsoever.

"It is quite evident, however, that a certain amount of looseness prevailed in and about certain dance halls that contributed to the breakdown of the spiritual and physical well being of many minor children. These dance halls should be strictly supervised and controlled by responsible public officials.

"Fromy study of the record it is apparent certain crimes of minor children were disclosed and warrants will be issued in those cases."

No More Piles

You Can End Your Awful Misery Quick Without Cutting or Salves

Thousands of Pile sufferers do not know that the cause of Piles is internal—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel.

This is the scientific truth about Piles—the real reason why salves and suppositories do not give permanent relief, why cutting does not remove the cause.

Your Piles will only go when you actually remove the cause—and not one minute before. External treatments can't do this—an internal medicine should be used. HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, sold by good druggists everywhere, succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, drives out congested blood, heals and restores the almost dead parts.

So why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when Walgreen's invites every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money-back if it does not end their Piles, no matter how stubborn the case?

To prove that every home can now afford to heat with gas, we'll install it at our expense . . . remove it at our expense if you don't like it . . .

Thousands of Chicago-land families have taken advantage of this offer!

MAIL COUPON FOR FREE SURVEY!

WE wanted Chicago-land home dwellers to learn for themselves the many advantages of automatic gas heat. So we made this liberal offer to let them try it without investing one cent for equipment.

Thousands responded, and today over 20,000 families are enjoying the benefits of gas heat. No longer do they shovel coal, shake, sift and haul dirty ashes, chop kindling, wait anxiously for heat to come up—or do any disagreeable furnace tending. The little thermostat on the wall gives them the heat they want any hour day or night.

Walls and drapes are staying clean much longer in gas heated homes to save decorating and cleaning bills. Basement dirt is no longer tracked upstairs. With gas heat you never have to go downstairs to even look at the furnace.

Thousands of families are finding from actual use that they can now afford to heat with gas. Rates are one-half of what they were during the 1930-31 heating season. Every home, even the most modest, can now afford it.

Read the details of our liberal offer

If you don't know the details of our liberal offer, mail the coupon. Think of it! Without your investing one cent for equipment we will install a burner in your furnace or boiler. You try it one month, two months, a year. During this time with the exception of June, July and August when the heater is not used, you pay only $3.00 a month rental on the equipment in the average home. This charge is included with the bill for the gas you use. If within the first year you decide that you don't want gas heat—and you are the sole judge—we remove it at our expense and the rental charge stops immediately.

But if you decide—as we think you will—that like thousands of others you want to keep gas heat, the rental you have paid applies on the purchase price of the equipment. After the first year you can continue to pay for the burner on a monthly basis of as low as $3 a month.

Mail the coupon

Take advantage of this liberal offer. Mail the coupon now. There are many winter days still to come. Decide now to let your family benefit from the comfort, convenience and health of automatic gas heat. Don't delay!

Gas heat can be installed in your home without allowing the house to cool off.

Arts Club Gives Tea Today for French Painter

Bernard de Monvel to Attend Several Parties.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THERE are to be several tea and cocktail parties this afternoon so none in society will go thirsty during that hour or two between the concert and dinner, but at the largest party of all there will be only tea and coffee, for the Arts club does not serve anything stronger at its parties.

Today's tea at the club, which has such attractive quarters in the north Wrigley building, is for M. Bernard Boutet de Monvel and to open two exhibitions, one of water colors and drawings by M. de Monvel's father, Maurice Boutet de Monvel, and one of paintings by Papazoff.

Receiving and pouring from 4 until 6 o'clock will be Mrs. Potter Palmer, chairman of the reception committee: Mrs. James Ward Thorne, Mrs. Howard Linn, Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, Miss Eleanor Holden, Mrs. Francis Johnson, Mrs. Joseph Adams, Mrs. Townsend McKeever, Miss Elizabeth Telling, Miss Lucie Hartrath, Miss Jean Crawford Adams, Mrs. Arthur Meeker, and Mrs. Walter S. Brewster.

Mrs. Brewster is to be M. Boutet de Monvel's dinner hostess tonight for he is included in the list of about 20 whom Mrs. Brewster has asked for dinner and to hear young Arthur Meeker read the highly amusing and delightful paper that he delivered not long ago before the Friday club. The members of that select organization enjoyed Mr. Meeker's paper so much that Mrs. Brewster decided it would be nice to give some of the husbands a chance to hear it, hence tonight's party.

Mrs. Howard Linn to Give Luncheon.

Tomorrow Mrs. Howard Linn is giving a luncheon at her residence in Lake Bluff for M. Boutet de Monvel, who arrives today and is returning on Sunday to New York. And tomorrow night is the Charles B. Goodspeeds' rococo dinner-dance at the Arts club for the distinguished French artist. Those whom Mrs. Goodspeed has invited to this unusual party are busy getting together costumes that will fit the definition of rococo, the adjective, which is "pertaining to the rococo in style, florid, fantastic, feebly pretentious," which gives them

Stock Returns to Orchestra from Vacation

BY EDWARD MOORE.

There are times when one suspects Frederick Stock, in addition to his gifts as an alert, far seeing, and superbly equipped conductor, of being something of a music critic as well. Returning from his vacation last night, he found it desirable that the Chicago Symphony orchestra should give the first Chicago performance of Aaron Copland's First Symphony.

He put it into somewhat peculiar surroundings. He preceded it with Mozart's Symphony in E flat and followed it, after the intermission, with the second set of pieces from Ravel's "Daphnis et Chloe." Then, to make every one happy, he ended the program with his own concert arrangement of selections from the third act of Wagner's "Siegfried."

◆

This arrangement may have been entirely casual and inadvertent, and Mr. Stock has not said whether it was or not. But there is some reason to suspect that the Mozart work showed what can be done with the symphony as a lovely pattern, that Ravel illustrated how tampering with the conventional rules of harmony can be made uncommonly pleasant, and how Wagner showed the virtues of stress, urgency, and expressiveness by melodic means. The criticism is therefore tacit and implied, but it seems definite.

Mr. Copland's symphony is the revision of a piece originally composed for organ and orchestra. Its present version omits the organ. It is couched in the mood of excitement, and rather pessimistic excitement at that. But at first hearing one is inclined to doubt whether it has the qualities to cause the public to become chummy with it, at least in the present age. And it is the compositions toward which the public feels friendly that affect the public taste.

Carola Goya, a Spanish dancer who in the east shares something of the reputation of La Argentina, will give a program of fourteen dances at the Union League club tonight. She will be assisted by a solo harpist and a pianist.

Millet Painting, Owned by Leiters, Is Sold for $16,000 in New York

New York, Jan. 18.—[Special.]—A painting by the French artist, Jean Francois Millet, called "The Knitting Lesson" brought $16,000 tonight at an auction of paintings of various schools at the American Art association Anderson Galleries, Inc.

Congress Puts On Dress Suits for Reception

Speaker Rainey Is First to Be Received.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—[Special.]—A President may cuss congress, but once a year he has to have a party for it. Tonight was the night.

Dignified senators and wise-cracking representatives, old timers recollecting the food they served in Taft's time and newcomers gaping at the gold piano in the east room; many Democrats with a smile of possession on their faces, and a few Republicans with a look of futurity in their eyes; they all came to the White House to a formal, and very crowded, reception.

The Hoovers gave two parties, one for the senators, one for the representatives.

The Roosevelts lumped the crowd, but gave a social sop to the senators by letting them go down the line first. This gave them first chance at the punch [prohibition] bowl; gave them opportunity to go home before their less distinguished, but more numerous brethren, had made their perspiring progress down the receiving line.

The boys from the lower branch got a break, however. Jack Garner, who consistently refuses to attend to the extra-curricular society activities that go with the vice presidential job, didn't go to the party. So Illinois' Henry Rainey, speaker of the house, was the first to be received. Then came President Pro Tem of the Senate Pittman. Idaho's Bill Borah ranked next, but a reported indisposition kept him at home and put Majority Leader Joe Robinson next.

Then came other important senators and their wives: James Hamilton Lewis, the Democratic whip, and Mrs. Lewis, just in from Chicago; Dance Loving McAdoo, who was later to waltz with Bob Reynolds' blonde young daughter. Republicans Capper, Vandenberg, Kean, and, wonder of wonders, Iowa's Dickinson, who has been so vocal in denunciation of the administration.

◆

It seemed as if there were many more representatives than the accredited 435. Tall and talkative Bob Bacon, a silk stocking congressman from New York whiled away time, while waiting to shake hands with the President, by arguing with Democratic colleagues that "it would really do you good to lose a few seats at the next election: your majority is too unwieldy," which prompted several gentlemen, of both political parties to muse, "Wonder how many of us'll be at this party two years from now?"

New York's Representative Wadsworth was there.

Bystanders wondered if they detected a look of prophecy in his eyes or in those of Michigan's Senator Vandenberg, both mentioned as possible tenants, some day, of the White House.

Minority Leader Snell found plenty to say to Alice Longworth, and that, too, gave the political prophets plenty to speculate about.

◆

Fred Britten, Republican from Chicago and his ever modish wife, were having a gay time.

Oscar De Priest, Chicago's colored congressman, was one of the first to go down the line; one of the first to leave.

But the hit of the piece was Representative Everett M. Dirksen of Peoria, who, like so many of his colleagues, had rented a dress suit for the party, but, unlike his colleagues, hadn't sneaked in the back door of the tailors. Instead, he told somebody and somebody told somebody else, and the tale sped about the town; made the papers, but Mr. Dirksen didn't care.

Ballet—Repeal.

THE women's board of Passavant Memorial hospital spent yesterday afternoon trying to decide a problem of some moment. Which of the twenty-two productions in the répertoire of the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe should be chosen to open the performance the opening night, Feb. 16, which is a benefit for the Free Bed fund of Passavant? Should it be La Concurrence, which opened the season in New York, with spectacular settings by Derain, the French modern painter; music by Georges Auric, choreography by Balanchine, and tells a humorous tale of the efforts of a tailor and a costumer on opposite sides of the square to attract customers into their shops? Or should it be "Three Cornered Hat," with settings and costumes by Picasso, music by De Falla, and choreography by Massine?

Should "Le Beau Danube" be included among the three numbers on the program, with its Johann Strauss music and its tale of a hussar strolling the park, and would the gala first night audience like "Les Presages," to Tchaikowsky's Fifth Symphony, better than "Les Sylphidies," with music by Chopin and settings after Corot? The management of the ballet offered to allow Passavant to pick its own program, and the results of the consultation between the board and Grace Denton, Chicago representative of the ballet, shortly will be printed in the special programs being prepared for the occasion.

A LITTLE incident that occurred in New York on the occasion of the one other time the Russian ballet appeared in America and that probably had something to do with its failure to return until now, after the death of Diaghilev, was told by Thomas H. Fisher the other day. Diaghilev, founder of the Russian ballet, friend of kings and emperors, with noble blood in his own veins; Diaghilev, who was given funds by Indian maharajahs to start his ballet and who gave perhaps the first great impetus to modern art with his commissions to Picasso for settings and costumes, to Stravinsky for music, and to other artists of the period, was arrested in New York for violation of the child labor law because a child appeared in the ballet. A big burly Irish policeman came and got the friend of emperors and took him to a New York police court. This was too much to an artiste in whose European eyes a child was greatly privileged to have its schooling in his ballet. He never came to America again. Now four years after his death the heirs to his success appear on the American scene.

* *

WE had not really appreciated repeal until the other night. Our hostess for the evening had telephoned a reminder in the afternoon and added that we would dine in a restaurant near Orchestra hall so we would be on time to see Theilade dance her first number.

"Come at seven. We're having side-cars before dinner and peche flambe for dessert," she added.

And we did. Nobody had to carry along a bottle and we didn't have to be furtive about the cocktails. When the brandy-saturated peaches were brought they were flaming with a beautiful blue flame in the silver chafing dish, and it was hard to believe we were in a public restaurant in America.

Shops Feature Woolens for Spring Fabrics

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The most fascinating new fabrics are wools . . exquisitely fine, soft woolens as easy to fold and drape and swathe as any silk. Huge bolts of the newest inspirations are in . . . and if you thought crêpes and crêpy weaves were smart and popular last season you'll still appreciate the stunning variety of wrinkles, crinkles, and crêpes in the new checks, plaids, and monotone effects.

Stripes seem to be able to steal every spotlight . . . from the rakish wide patterns to the circumspect narrow combines that are audaciously lovely with brilliant color contrasts.

You'll see four to five different shades of gray against a bit of dramatic black and white, or the blazing splendor of Roman stripes, or breath-taking streaks of several shades of blue, or jade green and scarlet and orange—anything and everything any versatile textile designer can supply.

◆

The soft jerseys have gone into stripes, soft almost transparent jersey and thin wools that will fashion some of the most striking as well as soul satisfying frocks any shopper can want. There are some very unusual wavy weaves that look like the carefully pressed waves in your last year's rubber bathing cap . . . regular waves in smooth rhythmic formation, for the dizzy jig-jags and electrical effects are missing.

There are all shades of blue, from a divine shade of sky blue to deep sapphire and cornflower blue . . . bright clear yellows, flattering grays, and spring leaf greens, and some wood violet colors that are almost good enough to eat.

◆

The wool printed with inch square black and bright gold will make you plan one of the new swagger length coats . . . the checked glory for the outside and a soft moss crêpe in black for the lining . . . such a swanky affair could easily be fashioned so it could be reversible.

Other checks and color combinations just as new and exciting are now being shown in the first spring fabric collections.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—[Special.]—Mrs. Roosevelt attended the concert of the National Symphony orchestra this afternoon and had a group of personal friends in her box. Ossip Gabrilowich, conductor of the Detroit Symphony, was the piano soloist.

Mrs. Ickes entertained a company at luncheon today in her Glenbrook road home. In the company were Mrs. Harry L. Hopkins, Mrs. R. G. Tugwell, Mrs. Adlai Stevenson of Chicago, Mrs. William Zimmerman, Mrs. W. Forbes Morgan and Mrs. Charles Elliott.

Former Senator and Mrs. Gilbert M. Hitchcock of Nebraska entertained at dinner tonight for the attorney general and Mrs. Homer S. Cummings, the company going to the White House reception afterward.

Paulist Choir to Sing at Benefit Party Tomorrow

The Paulist boys' choir of St. Mary's Roman Catholic church, at 9th street and Wabash avenue, will break a long standing precedent against appearing at purely social affairs to sing tomorrow evening at a party in the gold the Florentine rooms of the Congress hotel for the benefit of the church. The Rev. Eugene F. O'Malley, director, will lead fifty boys of the choir in a program of ballads and other light musical numbers. There will also be professional entertainment, a musical program, and bridge and other games.

Film Beauties to Be Picked at Civic Function

Studio Plans Publicity Stunt for Earl Carroll.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 18.—[Special.]—The studio which has retained Earl Carroll to stage revue scenes in a forthcoming film seems determined to promote a joust with George White, who is putting on revue scenes at another studio.

Carroll is bringing eleven show girls from New York with him for Paramount's "Murder at the Vanities," and is programmed to pick out more beauties after he gets here. All the studios make a great advertising ritual out of choosing beauties for film musical choruses, as it gives a chance to snap photos of a lot of beautiful figures in bathing suits.

Carroll will arrive here next week, while his rival, White, is completing production on the film version of "Scandals" as Fox's. Carroll's employers ordered two big billboard signs, one on Wilshire boulevard, the other on Hollywood boulevard, reading, "Earl Carroll, world's greatest authority on beauty, is coming to Hollywood."

After Carroll gets here the billboards will be changed to read: "Girls! The world's authority on beauty wants to see you." Then when this has been on display long enough to attract feminine attention, the third and last of the studio's billboard series will inform the girls that Carroll will interview them for film parts in a big outdoor gathering on the lawn of the Ambassador hotel.

"We figure we'll get 1,000 girls at that lawn party where Carroll will pick out the rest of his cuties, and have one of the greatest jams ever seen on Wilshire boulevard," studio officials say. "And we feel certain neither George White nor Busby Berkeley [Warner studio's creator of girl effects] will be able to stand by silent while our billboards are shouting claims of preëminence."

Mae West and Joe E. Brown between them have ordered 500 tickets for the next Los Angeles professional football game of the Chicago Bears, scheduled for Jan. 28.

Rudy Vallee and George White took leave of each other in a strained mood at Fox studio about 4 o'clock last Saturday morning. White is directing scenes in "Scandals," in which Vallee was working all night. Vallee was anxious to wind up his closing scene and make a dash for New York, being worried about Fay Webb's process servers.

Everybody's nerves were ragged, due to long hours, and it was more the tone than the words that nettled White when Vallee said: "What's the matter? Do you intend to keep everybody here all night?" White, supervising a scene, could only return a short answer, but Vallee clipped back at him, and finally, when the "take" had been made, White followed Vallee to the side of the set, where a lot of weary showgirls were dropping in their seats, to see what the crooner meant by his remarks.

Robert Kane, production boss, stepped between them as White aimed one for Rudy and the singer aggressively sailed back. White used to be a bantam boxer in the Bronx, but by the time he had tried to circumnavigate Kane's fast stepping peacemaking figure a couple of the other fellows had hold of him as well as Vallee.

Ida Lupino did a highly creditable piece of dramatic acting in the studio's own stage presentation of "Double Doors" by eleven members of the young talent at Paramount and as a result Ida today was in high favor with her bosses, being assigned the lead with Dick Arlen in "Come On, Marines."

In "Double Doors" the 18 year old British lass played a woman in her 60s, stooped, overbearing, with gray complexion and streaked brown hair. The impression she made caused her bosses to decree a change in fluffy haired Ida's blonde hair and smart kid manners. She will wear her hair many shades browner than the taffy shade she affected; in future her complexion will be changed from blonde to brunette, and she will be dressed in darker and more oldish looking clothes, as befits a young leading person and not a flamboyant ingénue.

Margaret Linsday is ill with the flu.

Laura Laplante, who, after visiting her husband, Director William Seiter, and old friends here, had intended to hurry back to England to appear in a film, has had her departure postponed because of an accident. She cut her right hand on a sheet of paper and an infection followed.

It looks as though Leslie Howard will get the coveted male starring parts in the remake of "Beau Brummel," which John Barrymore did in silent days.

Merian Cooper, in charge of production at Radio-RKO, is back at his desk after months of illness and announces his studio will soon begin seventeen new films to provide work for 3,500 people and to cost approximately $4,000,000.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative safe and pleasant.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them: 15c, 30c, 60c.

Declares Trend in Government Perils Church

The National Lutheran council, composed of representatives from seven constituent synods of the country, met in executive sessions yesterday at the Union League club. The sessions will continue throughout today. Chief interest of the meeting will center in recent social trends as they affect church work. Among these trends the leaders point out that the movement of the government to assume all social obligations is the most menacing to church life.

It was pointed out that the Lutheran church has the philanthropic phase of its work so well organized that it is unwilling to relinquish this function to the state. A report of a committee on "The Church and Social Trends" will be read today before the council. Active in the formulation of this report has been the Rev. Dr. Martin Anderson, pastor of the United Lutheran church of Oak Park. The report will consider methods of combating the encroachment of civil agencies on the field of the church.

The council is composed of representatives of the various Scandinavian-American Lutheran synods, as well as of purely American groups from Pennsylvania and other sections. The Rev. Dr. Ralph H. Long of New York is directing the work of the council.

Set Up Quota System for Members to Aid Sororities at U. of I.

Urbana, Jan. 17.—[Special.]—The TEP, with Irene Pierson, assistant dean of women, as administrator, is in operation on the University of Illinois campus. TEP—temporary emergency plan—is a relief measure devised to help out the sororities which do not have sufficient membership to meet current expenses.

Because of the slight decrease in enrollment of university women and of financial conditions which further lessen the number of women able to join sororities, it was imperative that the distribution of members be made according to the needs of the 27 sororities. Under the plan the number of members in each sorority must remain at the number needed to pay current expenses.

Nine sororities with full chapter houses have not enlisted new members since November in order to give the other 18 houses a chance to increase their membership.

MINUTE MYSTERY

By H. A. RIPLEY

[Copyright: 1934: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem, which has ONLY ONE POSSIBLE SOLUTION, has been taken from his casebook covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

A GHOST FROM THE PAST.

"How I'm going to get the man that wrote this beats me," Private Detective Johnson said to Prof. Fordney. "Although Mr. Burchell consulted me this morning on receiving it, he insists that the matter be treated confidentially for the present and that he will pay the money and wants no interference!"

He handed the professor the following note typewritten on excellent quality stationery. It read:

Burchell:

I know that you served time in the pen twenty years ago for theft. That fact will be made known to your now respectable associates unless you do as I say. . . . Tonight! Have a package of $20,000 in ten and twenty dollar bills and hand it to me in the lobby of the Lilton hotel at exactly 8 p. m. I'll be wearing a light gray hat, long black coat, black shoes, and will carry an umbrella with the initial "A" on it. O, yes, I know the penalty for blackmailing, but you won't inform the police, for if you do, your name will break every front page in town tomorrow. [Signed] A A A.

Fordney handed it back and Johnson went on: "Burchel' did slip up years ago, but his record since is absolutely clear and now that he has millions he's going to be hounded to death by this fellow. I'm confident it's the same man that successfully pulled that Smith blackmailing job two months ago. Any ideas, professor?"

"Yes. Let me see that typewritten envelope in which the note came, please. The first is that your premise and reasoning might prove altogether wrong."

WHY DID HE SAY SO?

[See solution on page 39.]

THE THRILLING STORY OF THE BIG, BAD BUG

LAST summer the lives of thousands of persons throughout the United States were endangered by a deadly parasite which entered human bodies, causing Amebic Dysentery.

When the vicious germ was found to have reached Chicago, a fight against it was begun at once by Chicago's valiant Health Commissioner, Dr. Herman N. Bundesen.

It soon became one of the most thrilling battles ever waged to save human lives. . . . It reached into every State in the United States . . . long distance telephone calls to all parts of the country cost Chicago more than $20,000.00.

The source of the scourge in Chicago was eradicated within a few days . . . thousands of people were saved from the peril of death.

The complete story, telling how Chicago led the nation to victory over the deadly ameba, will be published for the first time in a two-page Pictorial News-Review in The GRAPHIC, the Feature Magazine, free with next Sunday's Chicago Sunday Tribune.

If you want to know the TRUTH about Amebic Dysentery, the vicious malady about which little is known, don't miss this brilliant article.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

CHANGING PRICES MAKE STUDY OF FOOD LISTS ESSENTIAL

FLUCTUATING COST OF CANNED ITEMS SHOWN

Corn, Peas, and Fruits Are Cheaper.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Price revisions on foodstuffs, some of them upward and others downward make it essential more than ever that housewives scan carefully their shopping lists and the offerings of stores this week-end.

Of the more than 200 items of canned foods available on a well stocked grocery store shelf there are as many as fifty that have changed in price recently in the majority of Chicagoland stores. Among those reported cheaper than they have been are canned corn, peas, fruit and juices for cocktails, pork and beans, and several brands of evaporated and condensed milk.

Low Prices Prevail.

Even some of the breakfast foods continue to be as low priced as they were when grains and other ingredients were costing less than they now do. Cooking oils, salad dressings, some brands of coffee and salad gelatins are low priced in many stores canvassed yesterday.

In contrast to these reduced items are potatoes, onions, most varieties of apples, cabbage and spring lamb, all of which have become somewhat more costly in the last fortnight. Sweet potatoes have remained at attractive price levels but are expected to become more expensive before spring.

Citrus fruits are still as low priced and of high quality as they have been in most stores, in spite of a restriction on the shipments being made effective by the industry under a trade agreement recently approved by the federal agricultural adjustment administration. This code is expected to keep all the small or "cull" oranges from coming into competition with the medium and large sized oranges and grapefruit. The oversupply is to be processed into juices, oils and other byproducts.

Citrus Industry Booms.

From the west and south this week have come leaders in the citrus industry, to attend the convention of the American Fruit and Vegetable Shippers' association at the Palmer house. They all speak highly of the attempt to regulate the industry and to prevent consumers from securing inferior quality products.

Increase in the production of citrus fruits has been enormous in recent years, according to C. C. Commander, general manager of the Florida Citrus exchange, speaking at the convention. The ratio between growth in citrus output and growth in population has been nearly seven to one in the last twenty-five years, he says. Yet the products are being consumed to the improved health of the nation

A quarter century ago the nation's production of citrus fruit was less than twenty million boxes a season. Recent crops of normal size are close to sixty million, a gain of more than 200 per cent.

No Overproduction Fear.

"Fears that we are turning out more grapefruit, oranges and other products than can be absorbed in the currents of commerce and consumption begin to vanish," stated Mr. Commander, "as the statistics are analyzed. A crop of 60,000,000 boxes furnishes only one box to every two persons.

"If a box of fruit were available to every person annually the present production could be doubled. Even a larger per capita use of citrus fruits is wholly within the range of possibility in building strength and preventing sickness for the people. Few other agricultural products contribute so much to the public welfare."

In the meat markets of the city customers are finding that lamb prices have gone up somewhat, due to comparative light shipments of lamb feeders this winter. Pork and beef are selling at very low prices, leg of veal also being an economical dish this week. Fresh, salted, and smoked fish continue to be reasonably priced and of good quality generally.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Hold onions under water when peeling them and save the peeler's eyes.

A broom wears longer if both sides are used equally, and if it is hung up by the handle when not in use.

TELLS 4 TYPES OF FROSTING FOR BAKERS OF CAKES

Some Are Easy, Others Need Care.

BY DOROTHY PARKHURST.

If there's anything better than a feathery cake it's a feathery cake with a luscious frosting. Some complain that frostings aren't worth the trouble. But don't you believe it. Some of the most delectable frostings can be made in a jiffy.

For example, there are the baked and broiled varieties. The first is spread on the batter and baked with the cake. The second is applied to the warm cake when it comes from the oven and broiled for several minutes. Here's how:

Baked Icing.

1 egg white.
½ cup brown sugar.
4 tablespoons broken nut meats.

Beat the egg white until it will stand in peaks. Add the brown sugar gradually, beating after each addition, and spread the mixture over the top of the cake batter, sprinkle with the nut meats, and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until the cake is done. This amount is sufficient for a pan 8 inches square.

Attractive cakelets to be served with fruit or ice cream are made by spreading cake batter very thin and topping with the frosting before baking. Cut into strips when the cake has cooled.

Broiled Frosting.

3 tablespoons melted butter.
½ cup brown sugar.
2 tablespoons cream.
3 tablespoons shredded cocoanut.

Combine the ingredients and spread on top of the cake while it is still warm. Place very low under the broiler with the flame turned down and broil until the icing bubbles all over and becomes brown. Care must be taken that the frosting is not allowed to burn.

Another time saver is marshmallow topping, especially good on chocolate cakes. Remove the hot cake from the oven and immediately cover it with rows of fresh marshmallows cut in halves. Return to the oven for a few seconds. When cooled the marshmallows may be spread with melted chocolate or with a chocolate confectioners' sugar icing.

Then for a boiled frosting which doesn't harden in a hurry. We can take our time in spreading it, which gives one such a comfortable feeling, or the icing will stay creamy for at least a week if kept in a covered glass jar.

Comfort Frosting.

2½ cups sugar.	½ cup water.
⅓ cup corn sirup.	2 egg whites.

Cook the sugar, corn sirup and water to the soft ball stage (234 degrees F.). Then pour one-third of the mixture into the stiffly beaten egg whites. Boil the remainder of the sirup to the thread stage (242 degrees F.) and add gradually to the egg white mixture. Continue beating until the frosting will hold its shape.

But if the occasion calls for a really festive cake with flowers, "Happy Birthday," or what not, a butter cream icing holds the honors for pastry tube decorating.

Butter Cream Icing.

1-3 cup butter.
1⅓ cups powdered sugar.
1 egg yolk.
1 tablespoon fruit juice.
Pinch of salt.

Place all ingredients in a bowl and cream together until light and fluffy. A few drops of liquid or paste coloring may be added if desired.

U. S. CUTTER WILL RUSH RELIEF TO BEAVER ISLAND

The United States coast guard cutter Escanaba will start out today for Beaver island in northern Lake Michigan in an attempt to land grain and fodder for 3,000 head of cattle. Supplies are low and unless fresh feed arrives the cattle may perish.

Beaver island is near the Straits of Mackinaw and is completely isolated by ice packs. Smaller ships attempted to carry feed to the island but were balked by the ice and Gov. William A. Comstock of Michigan, appealed to Capt. H. R. Searles, commander of the Chicago division of the coast guard.

"The Escanaba is especially constructed for ramming heavy ice," said Capt. Searles. "We will try to get there as quickly as possible. The landing of the supplies must be accomplished by the ship's boats, assisted by those of the island coast guard."

Eight Reasons Why you should buy
CANNED APPLESAUCE

1. It offers exceptional food value.
2. It is a fact that when apples are prepared as applesauce they are more easily digested.
3. Applesauce is good for you—containing mineral salts that are beneficial.
4. It is good alone—refreshing for breakfast, as a dessert for lunch, or as a side dish with the meat course at dinner.
5. It is a favored food for children.
6. It is a quick and "friendly help" in preparing desserts that will satisfy the most critical, jaded appetite.
7. It is uniformly fine, in quality, flavor, and consistency.
8. It is more economical and satisfactory than making it yourself—if you figure the cost of apples, sugar, waste, and fuel.

You can make applesauce only from the type of apples which happen to be in the market—but is a blend of apples of distinctly different flavors.

CANNED APPLESAUCE

WILL TASTE GOOD

Neither you nor your fish dealer can tell whether fish are going to taste good, because neither of you know how long they have been caught. The longer they're caught, the worse they taste.

But there is a way to get that glorious fresh-caught taste in your fish, and it is to ask your fish dealer for 40-Fathom Fish, which fairly fly from ocean nets to your dealer, with that fresh-caught flavor of the sea all through them.

Therefore, ask your fish dealer for 40-Fathom Fish by name and see that he delivers them to you in the 40-Fathom wrapper with the name and the picture of Old 40-Fathom on the wrapper. If fish in some other wrapper or in no wrapper are offered you as 40-Fathom Fish, don't take them for they are not 40-Fathom Fish with the fresh-caught taste of the sea all through them. Get 40-Fathom Fish in the 40-Fathom wrapper or refuse to buy them.

CARROT PUDDING FOUND DELICIOUS AND INEXPENSIVE

Carrott pudding, a delicious and inexpensive substitute for plum pudding, is recommended by the Home Economics department of Iowa State college. Ingredients:

1 cup sugar.
1 cup raw carrots, run through food chopper.
1 cup raw potatoes, run through food chopper.
¾ cup sour milk.
1 teaspoon cinnamon.
½ teaspoon cloves.
½ teaspoon soda.
1 cup raisins.
1 cup chopped nut meats.
2 tablespoons fruit juice.
1-3 cup butter.
1 teaspoon nutmeg.
1½ cups flour.
2 teaspoons baking powder.
1 cup currants.

Cream sugar and butter; add ground carrots and potatoes. Sift all dry ingredients with the flour and add to the fruit mixture alternately with the milk and fruit juice. Add raisins, currants, and nut meats last. Fill large size baking powder cans three-fourths full of batter, having first greased the cans well. Put lids on and steam for two hours, then bake about 15 minutes in a slow oven [325 degrees F.].

The pudding may be reheated by placing the cans in hot water and simmering gently for 45 minutes.

If the pudding is served hot use a hard sauce; if cold, use a hot pudding sauce. Each serving may be sent lighted to the table. A cube of sugar saturated with lemon extract will burn for several minutes to add the traditional flame.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Hard or lumpy brown sugar may be softened by placing it in a shallow pan in the oven for a few minutes. Then put it away in a cool place, covered with a damp cloth, to keep it soft and moist.

Pork Recommended as Economical Meat Buy

The committee on marketing information of the Meat council of Chicago recommends fresh pork to the housewives of Chicago as an unusually economical meat buy during the coming week-end. Fresh pork is the outstanding buy and all cuts of pork including cured and smoked items are selling at unusually low levels.

CANNERS SHOW NEW CONTAINERS AT CONVENTION

Newest among the new things seen at the annual convention of the National Canners' association at the Hotel Stevens this week are the attractive cans of choice tuna fish from Point Loma, Cal. And the cans are made of aluminum.

The cans, of varying sizes, not only are light in both weight and color, but when carefully opened may be used for salad molds, oven dishes, picnic cups, or for small pastries. They are said to provide a container that will hold food safely for long periods.

EXTINGUISH $500 FIRE IN EVANSTON ADOPTION HOME

Fire broke out last night in one of the three buildings of the Cradle, adoption nursery at 2039 Ridge avenue, Evanston. The twenty-one infants being cared for by the society were not imperiled.

The building where the fire broke out is at 2049 Ridge avenue, two structures removed from the nursery proper. It is used as a kitchen and storeroom for infants' clothes, and is known as the layette building.

Mrs. Alice Carlson, cook, discovered the fire, and immediately summoned nurses and various attendants. By the time firemen arrived, flames were spreading in the basement and the first floor.

"HAVE YOU NOTICED WHAT A BRILLIANT POLISH OLD DUTCH GIVES TO THE PORCELAIN BATHROOM FIXTURES?"

"INDEED I HAVE. AND I KNOW WHY. IT'S BECAUSE OLD DUTCH IS MADE WITH PURE 'SEISMOTITE,' THE BEST NATURAL CLEANING MATERIAL."

Old Dutch polishes as well as cleans

Because it is made with pure "seismotite," the best, natural cleaning material, Old Dutch not only gives scratchless cleaning on fine porcelain, enamel and tile surfaces, but polishes as well as cleans.

Old Dutch is economical because it does more square yards of cleaning per penny of cost. Its flaky, flat-shaped particles ▨ cover more surface, contact it completely, and do more cleaning than the chunky, gritty particles ▨ present in ordinary cleansers.

You'll find Old Dutch ideal for all your cleaning from kitchen utensils and floors to painted walls and woodwork or windows and mirrors. It's kind to the hands, doesn't clog drains, is odorless and removes odors. There is no substitute for the quality and economy of Old Dutch Cleanser.

lovelier than ever

"In this matter of loveliness, I took Hollywood's advice,"

— says Mrs. A. D. Mackintosh

Happy the woman who can keep her husband in love with her! Mrs. Mackintosh is wise enough to realize that just as loveliness first wins a man, it is loveliness that holds him.

"It seemed very reasonable to me that if the movie stars could grow lovelier every year, I could, too, if I used their beauty care," says this lovely matron. "I started using Lux Toilet Soap the way they do. It has not only improved my skin but keeps it exquisitely smooth and young-looking!

"I made up my mind that I would not let the new responsibilities of married life make me forget the things that first attracted my husband.

"That's why I'm never going to be without this beauty care . . . I expect it to keep my skin lovely all through the years!"

PRECIOUS ELEMENTS IN THIS SOAP, SCIENTISTS EXPLAIN—

Here's why Lux Toilet Soap is such a wonderful aid to beauty. Science has demonstrated that Lux Toilet Soap actually contains elements Nature puts in skin itself to keep it youthful.

With time, the skin gradually loses these precious, natural elements. Lux Toilet Soap checks their loss from the skin. This gentle, readily soluble soap has kept screen stars' complexions like velvet, year after year. 9 out of 10 Hollywood stars use it!

Keep your skin young-looking—start today to use fragrant white Lux Toilet Soap regularly!

SQUASHES ADAPT THEMSELVES TO TINY KITCHENS

Small Hubbards Are Good and Delectable.

Economical tips for week-end food shoppers—a weekly radio feature—will be presented today by Mary Meade over station W-G-N. Tune in at 2 o'clock for Miss Meade's market chat.

BY MARY MEADE.

It just doesn't pay to be a heavyweight, not if you're a human, nor any more so if you're a squash. For, just as the new undersized kitchenettes seem absolutely made for slim cooksters these days, the new styles and modes in squash now appear to be turning disapproving backs on the huge old Hubbard squashes we once cracked with an ax and ate for a week. Instead, they're going in for one of the latest arrivals in the squash kingdom, junior sized Hubbard, which is just about a third as hefty as its gallumping granddad, yet looks and tastes quite as delectable, and positively captivates you with the smell of it.

The shell of these scaled down Hubbards is a bit thinner and can be managed with a heavy knife. We buy it by the pound here in Chicago, where it is almost everywhere available, and a squash loving family of five or six can handle one, or even two, of the squashes at a meal. We bake or steam them in the same way that we did their oversized relatives.

How to Bake Them.

The baking of the little Hubbards is simple. Scrub one, cut in halves crosswise, and clean out the seeds. Now crack or cut the squash into four inch squares and place them in a baking pan holding a little water. Bake about one hour in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.], basting occasionally with water and butter. When almost done, season well with salt and pepper, dot with butter, and mince over each square a little parsley. Finish baking and then serve up on a hot platter. Or, if it's to be a top stove dinner, place the squash squares in a steamer and steam over boiling water until soft. These squares might now be seasoned and allowed to sizzle beneath a broiler flame, or the meat may be scraped off the shell and all of it whipped together to be served instead of potatoes. I was even pleasantly surprised one day to find a hostess who whipped equal parts of Hubbard squash and smashed potatoes together, piled them into a baking dish, and browned them with a topping of coarse buttered bread crumbs.

Then there is—

PLYMOUTH SQUASH CASSEROLE.

Whip, until fluffy, 3 cups of mashed steamed or boiled Hubbard squash, seasoning it with butter, salt and pepper. Add a generous half cup of tomato catsup, turn into a buttered casserole, and sprinkle generously with grated cheese. Top with coarse buttered bread crumbs, then heat and brown in a hot oven.

Meat flavors and juices likewise seem to have a weakness for running around with these new little Hubbards. The raw squares take on a most delectable something when we cook them in the same big roaster with the beef roast. Occasionally baste the squash with the beef juices while it cooks. Or, if the squash squares are to be baked, line up on each plump little sausage links, and see what high class eating they make.

Something more of the same nature turns up when we steam or boil Hubbard squares till tender, scrape them from the shells and mash them with butter and seasoning. Then turn the whole mixture into a buttered baking dish and cover the top all over with strips of bacon. Bake the dish in a hot oven [400 degrees F.] until the squash is very hot and the bacon crisped.

Which winds up the main course uses for squash and leads us into desserts. Squash pudding makes exceedingly good eating.

SQUASH PUDDING.

Mix together 2 cups of squash, ½ cup sugar, ¾ teaspoon salt, ¾ teaspoon cinnamon, 2 beaten eggs, and 2 cups milk. Bake them all together in a buttered casserole in a moderate oven [350 degree F.] until firm.

Almost this same mixture is used in squash pie. Reduce the milk to 1½ cups and use only one egg. Bake in one crust and top, just before serving, with whipped cream tossed together with finely chopped candied ginger.

HAVE A COLD? TRY A FRUIT DIET AND REST

Colds are common this month—and few there be who escape them.

Authorities disagree upon the cause, but almost all advise complete rest. Go to bed if possible. A day away from work when a cold first appears may save many days' absence later.

Don't feed a cold as grandmother advised. Follow a light diet, consisting largely of fruits and vegetables. Citrus fruits, particularly fresh fruit juices, are widely used. These foods maintain alkaline balance and offset the acidosis that usually accompanies a cold.

Hot beverages, particularly before retiring, are also favored for colds. Hot lemonade, using the juice of two lemons to a glass, sweetened to taste, has been thus used for generations. Many doctors recommend a full glass of unsweetened lemonade [hot or cold] with one-half teaspoon baking soda added, taken two or three times daily to help break up a cold. The hot mustard foot bath immediately before retiring is not to be sneezed at. In fact, it may save you many sneezes.

Above all, do not let a cold grow serious. If it hangs on, call in your physician. Colds often lead to more serious illness.

ADD DASH OF SUGAR TO VEGETABLES AND TASTE DIFFERENCE

Ther are plenty of fresh vegetables obtainable yet, but somehow they do not taste exactly like those we purchased earlier in the season.

They have been picked for sometime. That is the reason. Time does not lend enchantment to carrots, peas, or parsnips.

Restore that "fresh from the garden" flavor to your fall and winter vegetables by adding a dash of sugar along with salt and pepper to them when cooking—not sufficient to sweeten, but merely enough to accentuate the flavor. Continental chefs have long known the value of a dash of sugar as as seasoner.

BEES COLLECT TRUE HONEY IN MANY FLAVORS

Different Sorts Good for Various Purposes.

Many persons feel because some honey they purchase is not the same flavor as that to which they are accustomed it is not good honey. As children, perhaps, they learned to identify one particular flavor with honey.

Honey, however, comes from the nectar of flowers, and the flavor depends upon the kind of flower which the bees looted. When this flavor varies it is not unnatural to feel that there may be something wrong with the honey. Almost all honey on the market is pure honey, but that does not mean that all flavors are equally pleasing.

In general, in this section of the country the honey comes from clover and alfalfa, which are light colored, mild flavored, and, generally pleasing to all. There is some buckwheat honey produced which is dark in color, with a strong flavor that may be used in making gingerbread, fruit cake, plum puddings, and some kinds of nut cookies.

If you know your honey you may procure the flavor you prefer. Use honey not only as a "spread" but also in baked products. A pleasant surprise comes from the delightful flavor that honey imparts to these products.

NEW FASHIONED SALT PORK GOOD IN MANY RECIPES

Urbana, Ill., Jan. 18.—[Special.]—Grandmother had her own good way of cooking salted pork, but even her favorite recipes won't do full justice to the modern type of salted pork that is being issued by relief agencies to needy families throughout the state.

This was soon discovered by those who attempted to use the meat from hogs purchased by the government to relieve the surplus in the corn belt and later donated to relief organizations for charitable distribution, according to the home economics department of the University of Illinois college of agriculture.

"The salted pork now being issued by relief agencies is different from the old fashioned fat, salt pork, and therefore lends itself to a much wider variety of recipes," the department points out. "Lean cuts from all parts of the hog have been salted, the meat is more moist than ordinary salt pork and the lean is a deep pink color.

"These pieces of meat must be soaked over night in cold water to take out most of the salt. Soak only as much meat as is intended for immediate use, as the pork will not keep well after the salt is out of it.

"This meat must also be parboiled to take out more salt. Cooling the meat in the parboiling water brings out more salt than draining while hot. The last water in which the meat is cooked can be saved and made into gravy or soup, if most of the salt has been parboiled out of the meat.

"Trim all the meat from the bones after it has been cooked tender. Make creamed meat or meat loaf with the trimmings. If the meat smells or looks moldy, wipe it with a cloth dipped in vinegar. It is good food even though it is a little molded."

HEINZ BREAKFAST WHEAT —pulls harder than alarm clocks

It's true! Here's a hot dish that has such full, hearty flavor that folks remember how good it was yesterday morning, and tumble out in good time for breakfast.

We make it out of the most nourishing parts of healthy, plump wheat, roasting it to enhance the flavor, grinding it fine to make it smooth and delightful to taste, adding extra elements that make it mildly regulative.

For so many years there have been so many breakfast foods. We offer Heinz Breakfast Wheat because it has something we believe no hot cereal had before. Something that pulls breakfast out of the rut. Something that pulls folks to breakfast on the run.

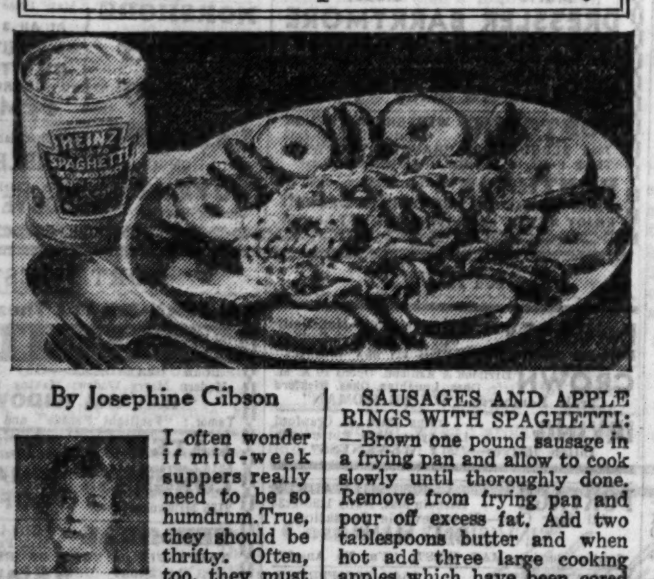
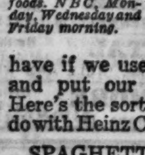
Cooked Spaghetti Suppers Both Simple and Savory



By Josephine Gibson



Listen to Miss Gibson's radio talks on foods. NBC, Monday, Wednesday and Friday morning.

I often wonder if mid-week suppers really need to be so humdrum. True, they should be thrifty. Often, too, they must be fixed hurriedly. But savory, enticing spreads we can have if we use our cook books and put our heads together. Here's the sort of thing you can do with Heinz Cooked Spaghetti:

SPAGHETTI WITH HAM AND MUSHROOMS:—Saute one-half pound fresh mushrooms, thinly sliced in 2 tablespoons butter, until tender. Add one cup of boiled ham or tongue, finely diced, and 1 small onion finely diced, and continue cooking until slightly brown. Add one large can of Heinz Cooked Spaghetti in Tomato Sauce and cook until thoroughly heated. Serve on hot platter and garnish with Heinz Ripe Mission Olives. Serves six.

SAUSAGES AND APPLE RINGS WITH SPAGHETTI:—Brown one pound sausage in a frying pan and allow to cook slowly until thoroughly done. Remove from frying pan and pour off excess fat. Add two tablespoons butter and when hot add three large cooking apples which have been cored and cut into one-third inch slices. When brown on one side, turn, sprinkle very generously with sugar and cook slowly until tender which will require only a few minutes. Heat one large can of Heinz Cooked Spaghetti, heap in center of hot platter and surround with sausages and apples.

COMBINATION MEAT ROLL WITH SPAGHETTI—Cut 1½ pounds of ½-inch thick round steak into six pieces and score with a knife until the tissue is well severed. Spread with sausage using ½ pound. Fry in butter until nicely browned on steak side. On each piece place a generous mound of Heinz Cooked Spaghetti. Cover and bake in a moderate oven for ½ hour, till steak is tender.

Count among Life's Blessings HEINZ TOMATO KETCHUP

IT HAS come to us, with the years, that the blessings of this life are mainly Little Things. True, man lives by such as pot roasts, omelettes, steaks. But the real Joy of Eating springs from the accompanying condiments. Therefore do we take infinite and tender care with our Tomato Ketchup.

We breed seeds. Tiny, meek-looking tomato seeds. We breed them and cultivate them and cross-breed them. In the end we get the beginnings of the rosiest, juiciest, luscious-est of tomatoes.

We grow tomato plants. In hothouses, like orchids, gingerly. We bring them up healthy and strong, and transplant them to farms to put forth tomatoes, under our fatherly eye.

We pick our tomatoes when they are red and ripe, rush them to our kitchens, sort, wash, scald and sieve them, and set them to simmering. All this in one day—for freshness.

We blend in spices. Spices hand-selected by us around the world. Spices rare and thrilling—and quite, quite unpronounceable.

(And not for all the rice in China would we tell you the dark secret of this blending!)

Well, that is our Ketchup. It goes out into the world to help make simple thrifty food taste thrilling, and fine food taste finer still. It makes nourishment a Joy of Life. It brings folks punctually to table and makes them glad they came. Keep it always on the shelf, regularly on the table, in easy reach.

OTHERS: — Heinz makes Chili Sauce, Beefsteak Sauce (ah! there's one to try!) Prepared Mustard, Worcestershire Sauce, each with the same thorough care as Ketchup. Smart ladies serve a variety of Blessings.

THE WILD BIRD

By OWEN JOHNSON

SYNOPSIS.

Barbara Brawne, aged 22, is completely dominated by a jealous father, who is against every modern idea and improvement. Their home is in the prim and proper village of Oxbridge, a place of intellectual sanctity. Barbara seems predestined to join the ranks of the village spinsters. Leaving a meeting of the committee on the poorhouse, Barbara contemplates rebellion. While waiting for her father at the railroad station Barbara meets Gregory Rance, a noted novelist. He mistakes her for the sister of his host, Laurie Chiswick. There is a mutual attraction. Barbara's two maiden aunts live with her and her father.

INSTALLMENT V.

ROMANTIC DREAMS.

When they rose to go into the library for the invariable rubber of whist, Barbara's father touched her arm.

"You are not yourself tonight, Barbara. What is it?"

For the second time she evaded the question.

"I shall be worried until I hear from Dr. Richards, of course," she said, not looking at him.

"Is that the truth?"

"Why, daddy, how could I feel otherwise?"

Only half convinced, he turned away grumbling.

"Well, it's all ridiculous! The next doctor will tell me the opposite—you'll see."

The library had a legal, musty look due to the bookcases with their rows of faded yellow leather bindings, that rose two-thirds of the way to the dark ceiling.

They cut for partners and played the rigor of the game, the whist of the forefathers. They played silently, in perfect concentration, for when any one talked the conversation had to be repeated to the ear trumpet, which produced interminable delays.

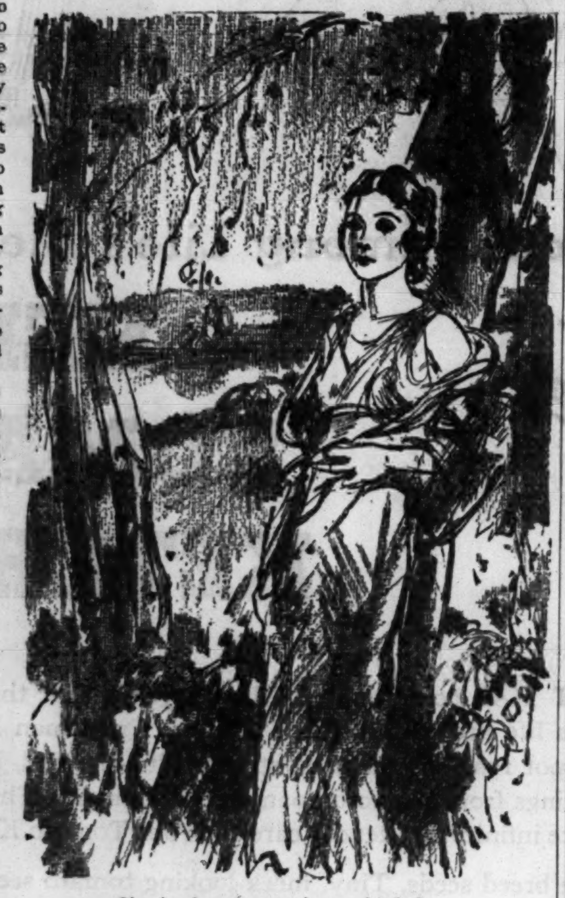
The night was mild with an unseasonable warmth and the air was alive with tiny insect calls and the croaking of the frogs. Barbara played dreamily. The room was close and constricted. She felt the urge for open spaces and full throated breaths, and again in the silent, shadowy room, the image of Rance rose before her eyes.

When the game was ended, she pleaded fatigue, kissed her father on the forehead, and started to her room, to be with her thoughts and away from prying eyes. But all at once a desire to witness the glory of the moonlight seized her and she took up a wrap and stepped out on the porch. The meadows, sloping to the river, were bathed in a creamy tide that seemed to descend gently from the glowing sky, bringing a healing tranquillity to a fretted world.

She suddenly felt a force drawing her out, so imperious, so inexplicable, that she seemed to be responsible to some voice from the darkling woods. She followed obediently through the sleeping gardens, past the rockery with its trickle of water, to the path that ran along the twisting river. The moon was high over her shoulder, touching the moving waters with sudden showers of silver where they broke and splashed.

"But there is nothing cruel in his face," she thought, "there never should be when one is strong. It is only little natures, natures that are in rebellion that wish to hurt others."

She wondered what he would say to her when they next met. He would ask questions, direct questions. She had divined that in the intuitive curiosity of his eyes. It was easier for her to understand him than for him to understand her, and moving slowly with meditative pace she imagined what she would answer, building up in her mind a fleeting romance, one of a hundred such secret tentative approaches to a passion that ties in the poetry of a waiting imagination. But all at once she smiled.



She had come to the end of the path when she heard voices.

"How absurd! Probably there won't be any sequel—or a few commonplace remarks in a crowd."

And a little ruefully, she confessed to herself that her father was probably right after all. She was nothing but a sentimental, romantic little dreamer. "And nothing will come of it!" she added with a sigh. "Nothing ever does!"

She had come to the end of the path, where it reached the further bridge, when she heard familiar voices, and approaching quietly, keeping to the shadows, she recognized Rance with Laurie Chiswick leaning over the bridge.

"So you have decided to go into teaching?" Rance was saying as Barbara stopped in the shadows. "Bad news."

"Why?"

"There's a sort of militarism about it that'll get you in the end. You'll be a private in the ranks and take orders."

"Not as I'm taking it. I'm going to study the science of teaching itself. It does exist, you know," said Chiswick, touching a match to his pipe. "In a way you're responsible and our old discussions on education."

Rance laughed.

"Well, Laurie, you're lucky. You've got an idea and years ahead to work it out. I'll admit you surprise me. So the wanderlust is satisfied and the old vagabond is ready to settle down? Going to marry?"

"You wouldn't approve?"

"Yes—perhaps—depends. I don't want to see you handicapped by poverty."

"You advocate marrying for money?"

"I don't know a better reason—for men with ideas."

"There are inhibitions——"

"Rot!"

"How about you, you old tramp? Do you ever get the feeling of wanting to settle down?"

"I have opinions on the subject," said Rance puffing away. "But I shall always preserve the right to be inconsistent. Matter of fact, though I'll feel the call of the wild all my life. I need a spot of my own where I can shut myself up and produce."

"How about Oxbridge?"

"Too sophisticated!"

"If you want contrasts you'll find them here. Full of amazing stories. The old generation and the young stuff. Only the old order is intrenched in its Victorian strongholds and you can't budge them. They think they own us, body and soul. Some of the houses are like museums of the 70s. Why, take one instance," he continued, stretching out a hand. "Right over there, Lynwood. The Pepoons and the Brawnes. There's a story that'll beat anything you ever invented. The clash of the French and the Puritan. The grandmother ran away, and then came back—God knows who was the father of the daughter, and yet old Martin Brawne married her. A nine days wonder. There's a character for you, only you'd never get him."

"Why not?"

"For fifteen years he never spoke to my father, though they went to school and college together. One of the Oxbridge feuds. And do you know what they fought over? Cats and dogs."

"Cats?"

"And dogs! The old fellow used to live next to us. Brawne cats. Chiswick dogs."

"And the dogs ate the cats!"

"And how! Particularly kittens. What a row! They used to write letters to each other. In the old dueling days they'd have called each other out."

"How did it end?"

"A classic scene!" said Laurie, laughing. "Good-by and farewell forever! When the last kitten went—Persian cats, by the way—old Brawne put on his regimentals and marched up to our front door. Mother came down. The old boy stood stiff as an undertaker, raised his hat and solemnly—without a word spoken—handed her a package wrapped in brown paper. Mother thought it was trout, you know, and opened it. The last dead kitten! I think she screamed or fainted, anyhow, Brawne raised his hat stiffly, turned on his heels—Prussian stuff—and marched away. Never spoke to my father for fifteen years!"

"After all, it was hard on the kittens," said Rance, laughing.

"O yes, of course. We kept the letters. They're in the grand style. Lord Chesterfield to his son, you know. You ought to see Lynwood, pure 1870. Nothing modern, no electric lights, no telephone, automobiles, barred——"

"Isn't he the father of Barbara Brawne?" said Rance suddenly.

"Yes, where did you——"

"At the station. Tell me about her. She interests me."

Beauty Answers

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

PHYLLIS: IT IS FAR MORE EXPENSIVE to make your own creams than it is to buy them, and for this reason I have long ago discontinued the practice of giving out formulas for beauty preparations.

E. H.: CORNFLAKES IN THEMSELVES are not so fattening as the amount of cream and sugar used on this cereal. Use hot milk and little sugar, or none at all, to reduce the caloric value of this dish.

Prairie Club Announces Two Hikes for Week-end

The program for week-end hikes of the Prairie club, in which the public is invited to participate, was announced yesterday as follows: Saturday, five miles through the forest preserves of Harmes and Linne woods along the Chicago river. The party will leave the Union station at 1:20 p. m. over the Chicago, Milwaukee, and St. Paul railroad. On Sunday the hike will be in Palos Park. The party will leave from Van Buren street and Wabash avenue by bus at 9 o'clock in the morning.

Arts Club Gives Tea Today for French Painter

Bernard de Monvel to Attend Several Parties.

plenty of leeway in their choice, doesn't it?

Among those who will dispense hospitality in the form of cocktails or tea this afternoon are Mrs. Elizabeth S. Ricker and her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Ricker, who have invited some of Mrs. Edmund Holland's friends to drop in at their apartment at the Whitehall. Mrs. Holland, a former Chicagoan, is here from her home in Greenwich, Conn., for a visit and is at the Whitehall.

The Robert McCormick Adamses also will serve cocktails to a large group of their friends this afternoon at their apartment at 1235 Astor street.

Mme. Ganna Walska to Be Dinner Guest.

Mme. Ganna Walska, who is coming to Chicago to give a concert next Wednesday night, will be the special guest at Mrs. Linn's dinner and box party on Tuesday night at the Palmer house. The third and final performance of operas intimes will be given that night in the ballroom for the benefit of Olivet institute, Holst's "Savitri" and Wolf-Ferrari's "Secret of Suzanne" being the attractions. Mrs. Linn, who arranged the series of entertainments, is taking two boxes so her dinner table in the foyer will be laid for 12.

From New York comes the interesting announcement of the engagement of Miss Mary Thomas, a young lady whose parents are former Chicagoans. The formal announcement reads: Mr. and Mrs. David C. Thomas of 1105 Park avenue, and East River, Conn., formerly of Chicago, announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Virginia Newbold Thomas, to Dr. Henry Perrine Colmore, son of the Right Reverend and Mrs. Charles Blayney Colemore of San Juan, Puerto Rico.

Miss Thomas was graduated from the Nightingale-Bamford school in New York in 1931 and made her debut the following winter. She is a member of the Junior league.

Dr. Colmore attended the Kent school and was graduated from Princeton university in 1927 and from the College of Physicians and Surgeons in 1931. After two years' interneship at the Presbyterian hospital in New York Dr. Colmore is now connected with the University Hospital of Tropical Medicine at San Juan, Puerto Rico. The wedding will take place next June at East River.

Many Parties for Miss Florence Otis.

Miss Jeannette Hyde, arriving today from Hartford, Conn., to be bridesmaid for Miss Florence Otis at her wedding to Wade Fetzer Jr. on Feb. 3, will see Chicago in a whirl of parties, for, starting this afternoon with Mrs. Curtis Bird's stocking shower and tea, the parties continue straight through to the wedding.

Tomorrow evening Miss Laura Schreiner has invited about half a hundred young people to her parents' apartment on Scott street to drink a toast to Miss Otis and Mr. Fetzer. Mrs. Samuel G. Taylor III. [Jane Willett] is giving a luncheon at the Woman's Athletic club for Miss Otis next Tuesday, and Miss Mary MacCaughey is giving a kitchen shower that afternoon. The following day Mrs. Wilbur C. Smith and Mrs. Eugene Cary Jr. are having a miscellaneous shower for the bride-to-be.

Next Thursday Mrs. Robert Burns, Miss Otis' sister, and the James Otises, her brother and sister-in-law, are giving a cocktail party. Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Zaring and Mrs. Zaring's brother, George W. Dixon Jr., are giving a buffet supper a week from Sunday, and Miss Betty Kellogg is entertaining the bridal party for dinner and dancing in the Palmer house a week from Monday. Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Hoffman are giving a cocktail party the following Wednesday, and on Thursday night, Feb. 1, the bridegroom's parents are giving the same sort of a party that Miss Kellogg has planned. The following night, after the wedding rehearsal at the Fourth Presbyterian church, the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Otis, are giving the bridal dinner at the Saddle and Cycle club.

Following the wedding at the Fourth Presbyterian church there will be a reception at the Fortnightly club.

Denis Sullivans to Be Gone 6 Weeks.

The honeymooning Denis E. Sullivan Jr., will be back in Chicago in about 6 weeks but long before that Mrs. Sullivan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James R. Offield, will leave for a southern motor trip. "Bud" Offield, who came home from the Choate school for the very quiet wedding of the former Betty Offield and "Mike" Sullivan on Wednesday night, will be leaving for school again in a day or two and soon after that Mr. and Mrs. Offield hope to get away for their winter vacation.

The Sullivans are going to spend one day at Catalina with her grandmother, Mrs. William Wrigley Jr., on their way to Honolulu and on their way home they will stop for several days at Mrs. Wrigley's residence at Phoenix, where Betty has visited many times and which she apparently finds a most pleasant place for she always is glad to spend some time there.

A group of 22 who dine together annually will meet this evening at the Tavern as the guests of the Orville Taylors and the John Roots. After dinner, which is to be a black and white one as far as decorations go, although the guests were not asked to wear costumes, there will be various sorts of games for entertainment.

John J. Mitchells at Chicago Home.

Just as the Clarence Mitchells left Chicago last Monday night to return to their home in California the John J. Mitchells arrived in town with their infant son, John J. Mitchell III., to spend the next several weeks at their apartment at 1550 State parkway.

The John Mitchells spent the holidays at El Mirador, their home on Cold Springs road in Montecito. When they return west in the spring they will go to their ranch, Juan y Lolita, in the Santa Ynez valley for the gathering of the Rancheros Vistadores. The Mitchell ranch always figures prominently in the annual pilgrimage.

Local organizations will receive $908 from the sale of photographs exhibited last week by Clarence P. Mitchell at the Drake. Nearly 3,000 viewed the exhibition. Mr. Mitchell's mother-in-law, Mrs. Charles G. King, arranged the exhibit and will distribute the proceeds to the Visiting Nurse association, the Service club, the Association of Arts and Industries, and the Public School Art society.

Mrs. Wheeler and Daughter on Cruise.

Mrs. Robert C. Wheeler and her daughter, Miss Winifred Wheeler, left Chicago yesterday for a cruise to the south seas. The snow white trim little steamer Stella Polaris will be their floating home and they will be aboard it until nearly May 1.

Mrs. Frederic McLaughlin and her little daughter, Barbara, are sunning themselves in Florida. Mrs. McLaughlin went south suddenly to get rid of a cold, but she and Barbara will be at home within two weeks, and then Mrs. McLaughlin and Maj. McLaughlin will go south again for their annual winter stay.

Mrs. Arthur G. Cable is leaving today for a European trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Windsor Jr. of Winnetka and their sons, Henry III. and Todhunter, have gone to Florida to spend the remainder of the winter.

Ezra J. Warners Parents of Son.

Mr. and Mrs. Ezra J. Warner are being congratulated upon the birth of a son on Tuesday in St. Luke's hospital. The young man has been named Ezra Joseph Warner IV. after his greatgrandfather. His mother is the former Rosamond Moore of New York. Her mother, Mrs. D. Thomas Moore, is ill with influenza and could not come west to make the immediate acquaintance of her grandson. Mrs. Warner's sister, however, Mrs. Moore Erwin, also of New York, is here, and will be here a few days longer, stopping at the Churchill.

Miss Dorothy Ethel Walsh, a member of an old well known Chicago family, is back in town for a brief visit. Miss Walsh's home is now in New York.

Wheeler Sammons Jr. has won a place on the news board of the Harvard Crimson, the undergraduate daily paper at Harvard university. Mr. Sammons is a freshman at Cambridge, and it is considered an honor to have won one of the five places on the board.

There will be a record crowd at the Woman's Athletic club at 11 o'clock today for the lecture that Walter B. Pitkin, author of "Life Begins at Forty," is giving on "Tapping Your Energies" and for the special luncheon afterwards. Mrs. Andrew B. MacCaughey, reëlected president of the club, will be at the directors' table.

The Union League club is having another of its popular "wives'" nights tonight when Carola Goya will dance at the club after dinner.

Law Fraternity

MRS. HARRY A. CARLSON.
[De Haven Photo.]

Mrs. Harry A. Carlson will be one of the hostesses for the seventh annual formal supper dance of the seven Illinois chapters of the Phi Alpha Delta Law fraternity tomorrow evening at the Drake hotel. The party will climax an evening of celebration of the thirty-second anniversary of the founding of the fraternity, which has a national membership of 15,000 lawyers and judges and a local membership of 1,500.

Treatment of Nervous Child May Be Subtle

Health Must Be Guarded, Habits Regulated.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Every once in so often a letter somewhat similar to this one comes in:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: Please send me a booklet or recommend a book dealing with nervous children—their schooling, and so forth. My daughter is five years old and will start school in February."

At the present time I have no booklet dealing with nervous children and I hesitate to recommend a book specifically on that subject. I think some sorts of books put ideas in parents' heads which may make them apprehensive or cause them to imagine more than is really there. So often what is needed is not to fix attention on the nervous habit or the general nervousness, but to build up the child's health, to regulate his habits, and to deal with his behavior in an understanding way.

Correct eating, lots of sleep with always a daytime rest period, and much outdoor play are the first factors. Add to this good management of an intelligent and loving kind and a pleasant home atmosphere and most nervous conditions will disappear.

But I would always suggest that a nervous child be taken first to a good doctor who can deal with any physical trouble and prescribe for any possible deficiency in diet. Some nervous conditions have a physiological origin.

Also, I should certainly not rush a nervous child of five into school—unless the school was most unusual, or unless too many grownups or other home conditions made it advisable.

If the simple measures already suggested do not bring about results, there are two good books on nervousness that might be read. They are:

"Safeguarding Children's Nerves," by Walsh and Foote, published by Lippincott of Philadelphia, Pa.

"The Nervous Child," by Cameron—publisher, Oxford University Press of New York, N. Y.

We have a leaflet of excellent brief reading references called PHYSICAL CARE OF BABIES AND CHILDREN OF ALL AGES. It will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

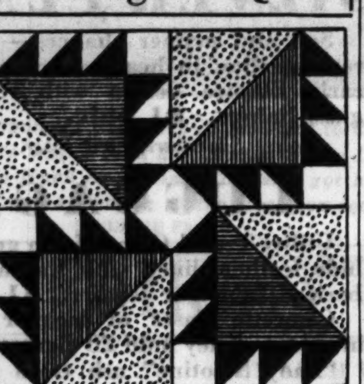
The Chicago College club will have a library coffee house at 7:45 this evening at the club, 196 East Delaware place. Dr. Preston Bradley will discuss "Books of the Day."

Any Color Scheme Is Pretty in New England Quilt



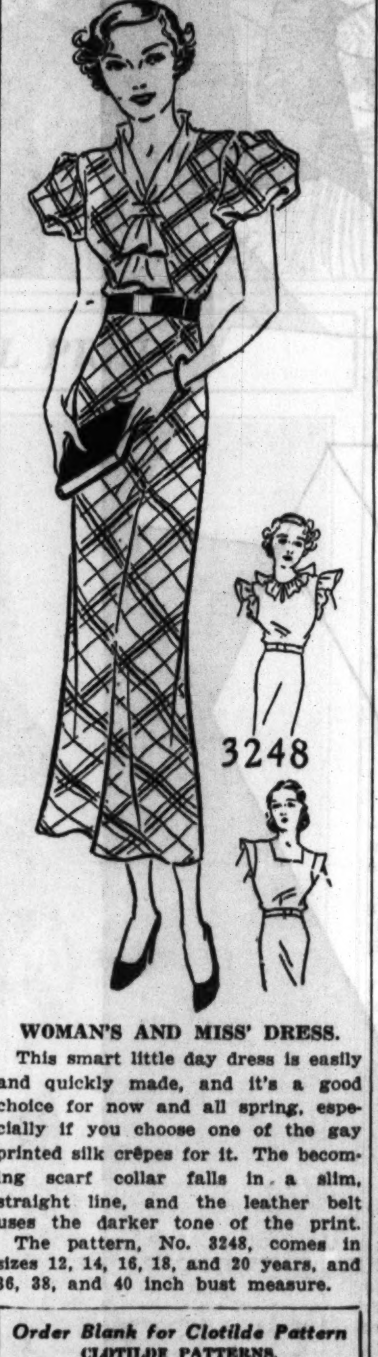
Irish Puzzle.

BY NANCY CABOT.

The New England states are credited with the origin of this gay and attractive design. There are several colors used in the Irish Puzzle, but the original quilt was made of unbleached muslin and turkey red. Today the quilter may use more delicate shades, unless one's boudoir color scheme requires bright, flaming colors.

For a pattern of this quilt design, send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service office, One South Dearborn street.

Gay Prints Can Be Used to Advantage in Daytime Frock



WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

This smart little day dress is easily and quickly made, and it's a good choice for now and all spring, especially if you choose one of the gay printed silk crêpes for it. The becoming scarf collar falls in a slim, straight line, and the leather belt uses the darker tone of the print.

The pattern, No. 3248, comes in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inch bust measure.

Orthodox Hebrew Schools to Benefit from Bazaar

More than 100 Chicago merchants and manufacturers have contributed wares and products to the grand bazaar, sponsored by the Union of Orthodox Hebrew Congregations of Chicago, to be opened tomorrow night at 3138 West Roosevelt road. Proceeds of the bazaar, which will continue until Feb. 4, will go for the upkeep of 22 Talmud torahs—Hebrew schools—in Chicago and to the Hebrew Theological college. James C. Petrillo, head of the Chicago Federation of Musicians, will furnish musicians.

Honest Fiance Pays Off Debt Before Nuptials

Resentful Bride Justified About Obligation.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

He married the girl and told her, during the honeymoon that he had four hundred dollars in debts to straighten out.

She flew into a tantrum, said it would have been easier to wait and pay them off before marrying than now. She would have held onto her job longer if she had known that's the way things were.

A first row, and a bad one, followed the debt disclosure!

The moral is, young men, either tell the girl beforehand about your debts, or never tell her.

It looks too much like shifting a financial burden onto the woman's shoulders right away, for her to take it with easy grace. Also, it indicates to her a distrustful nature about money matters. She may doubt other things about your money, and be justified in doubting, too. She may doubt that you are getting the salary you tell her, doubt that you're not holding out on her Saturdays.

Better come clean on the money question, no matter what other indiscretions of your past you choose to withhold.

The average girl will stick by you, through thick and thin, if you're on the level with her. But once she catches you trying to put something over, your days, as beloved lord and master, are over.

Honesty about money is so necessary in successful unions. We do not believe you can put anything ahead of this need. Sentimentalists may say love, but we say woman's love is so bound up with belief in, and respect for her man, that he must be open and aboveboard with her on the money end of the deal.

Tell the young woman beforehand that you have such and such a debt, and if she is willing to go ahead and face it out with you, all well and good. Many would do so, rather than postpone the marriage. But she's not being cheated out of the income she counts on for domestic expenses. It's the sense of being cheated, more than the fact of the debt that destroys woman's faith.

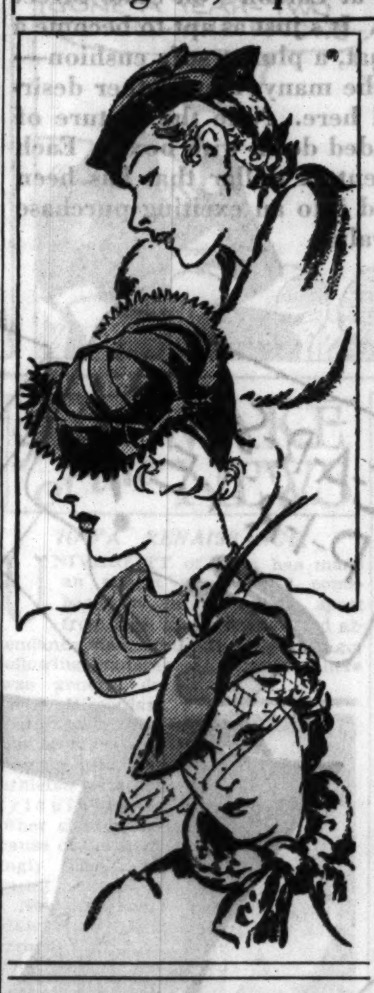
Brooks, rector of St. Thomas church. A small reception will follow.

Paris Permits Hats to Have a Forward Tilt Again, Especially for Older Women



BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The off-the-forehead hat, which has been gaining adherents amongst fashionable women every day since it first came out, has met a considerable check lately. You might say set-back over the forehead.

Not all smart women are young and fresh enough to wear the tiara or swashbuckling brim that leaves the face to the mercy of cold daylight, so a lot of them have gone back to tilting their hats over at least one eye again.

The three hats shown herewith are being worn a lot in distinguished company and as you see they all move forward.

At the top is Suzanne Talbot's small velvet tricorne hat that sits on the top of the head, tilted forward, and that is tied on around the back of the head with velvet ribbons.

In the center is Reboux's black felt hat with sawtooth edges, which has a wide front and back brim, the former turned up and then down over the eyes, and the latter turned right up to the top and then folded outward. Two bands of ribbon cross the crown and make the sole trimming.

At the bottom is Talbot's velvet beret with feather trimming and a veil, the most popular dressy hat of the moment.

Straus West African Expedition to Leave New York Thursday

The Straus West African expedition for the Field museum is sailing next Thursday from New York on a freighter bound for Dakar on the west coast of Africa. Rudyard Boulton is the leader and accompanying him will be his wife, and Frank C. Wonder of the Field museum staff. Mrs. Oscar Straus, widow of the former American ambassador to Turkey, is sponsoring the expedition, and she plans to join it in Africa, but first she is going to Paris to visit her nephew, Jesse Isidor Straus, the American ambassador to France. She is leaving New York tomorrow.

The museum is hopeful of establishing a hall of foreign birds, so the explorers will be searching for nesting colonies of helmeted hornbills, weaver birds, and giant plantain eaters in and around Dakar, Timbuctoo, and northern Nigeria. Mrs. Boulton will not be merely a decoration on the trip, for she is going to study and make phonograph records of native music. The expedition will be away about six months.

WHEN YOU'RE HEALTHY YOU'RE HAPPY!

THE blame for "blue" days can be laid often to common constipation. It may bring loss of appetite and energy, sallow and pimply skins, even serious illness. Correct it by eating a delicious cereal.

Research shows Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" and vitamin B to relieve common constipation. Also iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Isn't this better than taking patent medicines—so often harmful?

Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily, relieve most types of constipation. With each meal, in chronic cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor. Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

"Curiouser and Curiouser" remarks the dollar, in the words of Alice in Wonderland. "I thought I was growing smaller and smaller, but here I am doing simply unbelievable things for a chap of my size. Presto! I'm turning into a polkadot apron frock."

That's the sort of thing that happens to a dollar at Carson's on State Street Dollar Day. It's just as apt to become a chic little hat, a plump sofa cushion—or any of the many, many other desirables listed here. Note the picture of the boy loaded down with boxes. Each one represents a dollar that has been transformed into an exciting purchase—a great value.

SCHWARTZ APPOINTED ASSISTANT COACH AT CHICAGO

EX-NOTRE DAME STAR TO HANDLE BACK FIELD MEN

Starts Work with Spring Practice.

Marchmont Schwartz, Notre Dame's backfield star of three years ago, has been appointed an assistant football coach at the University of Chicago. Nelson Metcalf, athletic director at the Midway, announced last night that Schwartz will aid Coach Clark Shaughnessy with the Maroon backfield, beginning with spring practice, which opens the middle of March.

Schwartz learned a good deal of his football from Shaughnessy in New Orleans, where he was a member of the freshman squad at Loyola in 1927. Entering Notre Dame the following year, "Marchy" was left half back during the seasons of 1929, 1930 and 1931. He was an assistant to Hunk Anderson at South Bend during the last two years, drilling the backfield men.

Shaughnessy to Build Line.

Coach Shaughnessy, who was handicapped last season by lack of assistants trained in his tactics, plans to turn much of the Maroon backfield work over to Schwartz and Julian Lopez, who aided him in this department last season, and to devote more of his own attentions to the line. Shaughnessy described Schwartz as "one of the best backfield coaches in the country." He plans to use Schwartz particularly in training the candidates on points of individual technique.

Schwartz, who is 24 years old, received the bachelor of arts degree at Notre Dame in 1932 and the bachelor of law degree last June. He plans to take the Illinois bar examination within a year. Born in New Orleans in 1909, he took his elementary and high school work at the St. Stanislaus school in Bay St. Louis, Miss.

On Losing Team Twice.

At Notre Dame Schwartz played two years under Knute Rockne and one year under Hunk Anderson. During those three years the Irish lost only two games, the last two of Schwartz's career, to Southern California, 16 to 14, and to Army, 12 to 0. Schwartz played the triple threat position and carried the heaviest part of the passing and punting, as well as a large share of the ball carrying.

Schwartz is now in Chicago working for the Ed. A. Garvey company. Informed of his appointment last night, Schwartz said, "I am tickled to death to be associated with such a fine institution as the University of Chicago."

Shaughnessy Is Pleased.

Shaughnessy, who is partial to the precision shown by Notre Dame backs, last night said: "Schwartz knows how to give players the polish that enables them to do their jobs effectively. I am very pleased that he is coming here and have the highest regard for him."

MARQUETTE FIVE BEATS MICHIGAN STATE, 26 TO 24

GARDEN GROOMS LEVINSKY FOR A TITLE ENCOUNTER

New York, Jan. 18.—(AP)—The will o' wisp match of boxing—a heavyweight title bout between Primo Carnera and Max Baer—flitted out the window again today as negotiations in progress several days were terminated abruptly.

Col. John R. Kilpatrick, president of Madison Square Garden, ended discussions he had carried on first with Jack Dempsey, then with Ancil Hoffman, manager of Baer, when the latter refused to sign with the Garden for future fights just in case the big Californian won Carnera's heavyweight title.

As a result the Garden promptly launched a campaign to build up King Levinsky, Chicago heavyweight, to stature of a legitimate title challenger. The Garden signed Levinsky for two bouts, the first against Charley Massera, Feb. 9, the second against Walter Neusel, March 2.

Levinsky, his sister, Lena, who acts as his manager, and President Charles Bidwill and Matchmaker Nate Lewis of the Chicago Stadium Operating company came here yesterday seeking a match in Chicago with Max Schmeling, former heavyweight title holder, due here tomorrow from Germany to start a comeback campaign. Unable to reach an agreement with Joe Jacobs, manager of Schmeling, the Kingfish and his sister moved over to the Garden at a most opportune moment.

If Levinsky beats Massera and Neusel he will be groomed through one more fight for a Carnera match outdoors here in June.

IOWA TO DEMAND COAST BAN ON TWO FRESHMEN

U. S. C. Denies Knowledge of Swanson and Froning.

Iowa City, Ia., Jan. 18.—[Special.]—A friendship of twenty years' standing between two basketball coaches and a controversy between the University of Iowa and Southern California appeared imminent tonight as the result of the disappearance of two Hawkeye freshmen athletes.

The athletes, Duane Swanson and Fred Froning, left here Tuesday after telling friends they were going to the west coast school. It was learned that their baggage was sent in care of Sam Barry, Southern California basketball coach. Barry was Iowa's basketball coach for several years.

Williams Warns Barry.

Coach Rollie Williams of the Iowa team said that he had attempted to detain the players en route in the hope of persuading them to return here.

He revealed that he had dispatched a telegram to Barry, informing him that "neither Froning nor Swanson ever will compete in athletics for Southern California."

Williams cited a "migratory" rule which he said was in effect in the Pacific coast conference.

"If there is any attempt on the part of Southern California to allow the boys to play I shall immediately protest to William Butler, athletic commissioner of the coast conference," Williams said.

"Some one from Southern California has been contacting athletes here for some time," the Hawkeye coach added, "but I am not going to say more until I know definitely who is doing it."

Williams was Barry's assistant here from 1924 to 1929.

Both Are Good Prospects.

Swanson, who is 6 feet tall, was regarded as the most outstanding yearling basketball player here. Froning was a former high school football and basketball star.

Information has reached university officials here that the parents of Swanson, whose home is at Waterman, Ill., are desirous that he remain at Iowa. Froning is from Webster City, Ia.

The boys were dissuaded from their first attempt to leave for the coast when Ossie Solem, head football coach, encountered them accidentally at the railway station and received their promise to remain. Tuesday they were reported to have boarded a westbound freight train.

NEWS TO TROJANS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 18.—If Bud Froning, Webster City, Ia., freshman basketball star from the University of Iowa, or his college pal, Duane Swanson of Waterman, Ill., are heading west intending to register at University of Southern California, their intention is not known to Coach Sam Barry of Trojan basketball, Howard Jones of the football staff, or Athletic Director Willis Hunter, these men said today.

Hunter said: "Maybe the boys have started west, but all we know is what we read in the papers. The migration of Iowa residents to California has been going on for some time and it doesn't seem within our power to stop it. But, seriously, if the boys do arrive here we will try to persuade them to return by just as fast a freight as they are said to have ridden westbound. We will coöperate in any way desired with University of Iowa to facilitate their trip home."

Hunter Writes Williams.

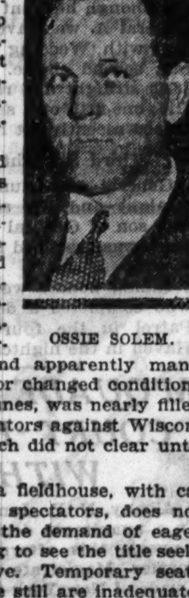
Hunter said he wrote Basketball Coach Rollie Williams at Iowa that nobody here had anything to do with the boys leaving Iowa.

Basketball Coach Sam Barry for whom Williams used to be assistant at Iowa, said the first he knew of the affair was his receipt of a telegram from Williams this morning which stated "the two boys were supposed to be shipping their baggage here in my name and threatening to expose the whole affair if I didn't send them back at once. I don't know what it is all about. I never heard of either Froning or Swanson."

In the WAKE of the NEWS

IOWA RENAISSANCE.

UNIVERSITY of Iowa has made an almost unparalleled comeback in intercollegiate sport from both a competitive and attendance viewpoint. Three years ago, following conference difficulties, there was general despair. Discordant factions were pulling at cross purposes. Iowa prep athletes were matriculating at other colleges because of the seemingly bleak future.



OSSIE SOLEM.

Now the old Hawkeye spirit is rampant again. The present athletic régime receives united alumni and undergraduate support. The new stadium, erected during the boom and apparently many times too large for changed conditions and athletic fortunes, was nearly filled with 38,000 spectators against Wisconsin on a day which did not clear until nearly noon.

The great Iowa fieldhouse, with capacity for 11,000 spectators, does not begin to answer the demand of eager partisans wanting to see the title seeking basketball five. Temporary seats adding 1,000 more still are inadequate. All 2,200 reserved seats for the Illinois game last Monday night, between halves of which THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE Silver Football was presented to Joe Laws, were sold out on the preceding Thursday.

◆

News dispatches told how general admission spectators entered when the doors opened at 4:30 in the afternoon, taking their suppers along in paper boxes. Going over in the afternoon to visit the scene, we saw two bridge games in progress among these early birds to while away the time. The doors were closed at 6:30 because there wasn't any more room.

Now there's another point to all this. Iowa City is a college town, not a large city. It is estimated that more than half the basketball crowds and a greater percentage of football crowds come from tributary territory. It verifies our statement that the state as a whole again is pulling for the success of its state university athletic teams.

◆

What has caused this change? In our opinion, it's due largely to appointment of Ossie Solem as football coach. Rollie Williams in basketball, George Bresnahan in track, and Otto Vogel in baseball, as specialists and assisting in football, were capable and popular. Football, however, furnishes the hurrah. Bert Ingwersen, who finally resigned, battled against odds and lack of alumni support during his coaching tenure.

Director Lauer or some one saw that what Iowa needed was morale. It was a matter of psychology. Hawkeye loyalty, never dead, was being misdirected in criticism, lack of unity. Solem, successful at Drake, was secured. Sentiment, looking for an opportunity to change, changed at once. All factions accepted his appointment as a truce and went to work for Iowa.

Even when Solem failed in his impossible task of turning out a winner in his first year—the Hawkeyes did not win a conference game in 1932 and scored against only two Big Ten opponents—there were no murmurs of discontent. He was building.

Iowa, like many other colleges, still has its problem of paying for stadium and fieldhouse erected during the boom times, of meeting the notably stiff athletic competition prevailing in the Big Ten. With loyal alumni united behind a capable and enthusiastic coaching staff which again is provided with its share of the great prep school athletes developed within the state, the future appears far different from what it did three years ago or two years ago, or even one year ago.

Followers of other colleges, in general, welcome the Hawkeye transition. Whether or not Iowa transgressed the code of amateur ethics at one time—and the conference committee ruled it did—sympathy was general in the chaos which followed disciplinary action. That action need not be discussed anew. We feel The Wake is reflecting the almost unanimous sentiment of those interested in middle west college sport in felicitations to Iowa on return to its rightful place as a contender in all Big Ten athletics.

RED WINGS TIE MAROONS, 1-1, AS PLAYERS BATTLE

Box Score: 18 Penalties and 2 Fights.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 18.—(AP)—The Detroit Red Wings and Montreal Maroons battled to a 1-1 tie tonight in a rough National Hockey league game, in which 18 penalties were handed out, five of them being majors.

The Red Wings took the lead in the first period when Sorrell scored on Wiseman's pass. In the second period Evans tied the score for the Maroons. From then on the teams played evenly, Cude of the Wings making 25 stops and Kerr of the visitors having 24.

Evans and Lewis clashed in the second period and were given major penalties for fighting. Goodfellow and Smith repeated the performance, to receive majors in the third. Carson's major was for roughing Smith.

TORONTO, 6; BOSTON, 2

TORONTO, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Toronto's Maple Leafs whipped the Boston Bruins tonight, 6 to 2. The victory stretched Toronto's lead over the Montreal Canadiens in the Canadian section to 15 points and left Boston still deep in the American division cellar.

Nels Stewart of Boston drew three penalties in the second period, including a 10 minute misconduct term. It all started when Stewart bumped King Clancy to the ice late in the period. He was sent off for two minutes, but declined to serve it out. Jumping back on the ice to argue with Referees Mallinson and Goodman. Then he was given another minor penalty and a misconduct penalty as well.

New York, Jan. 18.—(AP)—The New York Rangers stormed into the lead in the National Hockey league's American division tonight by overwhelming the Chicago Blackhawks, 5 to 0, in the wildest hockey game seen here this season. The teams were tied for first place at the start of the match.

Lionel Conacher, Chicago defense man, became involved in two fist fights, one of which threatened to develop into a free for all scrap. Conny first became entangled with Ching Johnson and drew a major penalty that paved the way for the second Ranger goal. Just before the finish he started a scrap with Doug Brennan and tried to continue it in a penalty box. That precipitated a mêlée which brought a crowd of spectators and the Madison Square Garden police force into action.

Fist Fight Begins.

The first fight began when Conacher rapped Johnson with a high stick. It appeared to be an accident, but Ching charged into his rival at the first opportunity and Conny's fists began to fly. The game grew progressively rougher and Conacher deliberately made for Brennan to start the trouble the second time after he had been checked roughly.

Butch Keeling struggled between Conacher and Roger Jenkins to score the first Ranger goal on a brilliant solo play. In the scoring spree that followed Frank Boucher and Bunny Cook fattened their averages with a goal and two assists apiece, Cecil Dillon got a goal and one assist, and Bill Cook banged home a single tally.

The Hawks opened the second frame with a steady attack that brought a lot of long shots.

Shot Is Blocked.

T. Cook offered a real scoring threat when he slid a long pass through the Ranger defense, but Sheppard, right on top of it, was tied up and couldn't shoot.

Gardiner took a good one away from Keeling with a fine save, but Butch got even on the next play. He fought his way through the center of the Blackhawk defense, fighting off Conacher, and fired into a corner with a fast backhand shot just as Gardiner made a long dive for him in one direction and Sheppard came in the other way.

There was a few seconds of battling between Johnson and Conacher when Ching made a stiff charge after being hit on the head with Connie's stick. Johnson drew a minor penalty and Conacher, who threw the first punch, a major.

Rangers Score Again.

Dillon finally got one inside the corner of the cage while Coulter was poking at the puck a foot or so away. Bun Cook drew an assist. Tom Cook and Goldsworthy almost got that one back as soon as Conacher left the cooler. They had a loose puck in front of an open cage, but a Ranger got there first. The game continued to become rougher, with Conacher handing out most of the punishment, and he finally drew another penalty for high sticking Keeling.

On the second play after this penalty Boucher netter another goal for the Rangers, taking passes from F. Cook and Dillon and skating in close to beat Gardiner with a tricky shot. The counter came less than a minute before the bell.

Rangers Continue Attack.

In the third period Frank Boucher joined with Bun Cook on the best passing play of the game and Bunny scored a fourth goal for New York.

A few minutes later Bill Cook took Boucher's pass and ripped in from the right to beat Gardiner with a fast shot.

Conacher started another battle, with Brennan as his victim, but Johnson landed on both of them and held them down after Connie had charged in with a high stick. The benches were emptied in a rush and before the affair was calmed down Conacher nearly became embroiled with a spectator. As soon as Conacher and Brennan went into the penalty box the argument started again and Connie began punching. The crowd tried to join in and the Garden police had to take a hand. It wound up with minor penalties and Conacher and Brennan serving the last nine seconds on separate benches.

SCHURZ DEALS AUSTIN HEAVIES 22 TO 19 DEFEAT

Third Upset in as Many Days of Play.

Upsets continued in the Chicago Public High School league basketball competition yesterday. Austin, contender for the west section heavyweight title, playing without the veterans, Drees, lanky center, and Harman, forward, suffered a 22 to 19 defeat at the hands of Schurz at the Austin gymnasium. Drees and Harman were definitely suspended several days ago for violating a league rule.

It was the third upset in as many days of play. Charm, forward, and Tollstrom, guard, played the leading rôles in Schurz' victory. Charm scored three field goals, while Tollstrom contributed two baskets and two free throws. Leahy and Fettern, forwards, shared Austin's scoring honors, each getting six points.

Wendt Leads McKinley.

McKinley, led by Wendt, triumphed over Crane Tech, 34 to 24, in another west division contest at McKinley's court. Wendt garnered seven baskets and one free throw. He was aided by Belezzo, who tossed in six field goals. Wilmerman starred for Crane, scoring five baskets.

Harrison Tech, Farragut, Tilden, and Englewood were victors in central section games. Harrison, with Hann and Wenskus leading the attack, defeated Lindblom, 24 to 21; Englewood routed Manley, 41 to 15; Tilden handed Phillips a 31 to 25 setback, and Farragut won from Kelly, 23 to 13.

Hirsch Loses by Point.

In the south division Hyde Park scored a 27 to 22 victory over Calumet and Morgan Park eked out a 26 to 25 triumph over Hirsch. Wetzel and Halcrow, Hyde Park centers, divided the scoring honors against Calumet, Wetzel getting four baskets and Halcrow collecting three baskets and one free throw.

NOTRE DAME TO PLAY TOMORROW ON PITT FLOOR

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 18.—[Special.]—Pittsburgh will have its last look at one of the greatest athletes in the college ranks Saturday night when big Ed [Moose] Krause, Notre Dame's best all around athlete of a decade, appears against Pitt on the basketball floor.

While Krause has worn the Irish colors Notre Dame has won three out of four from the Panthers, and Pitt's only victory, which was Notre Dame's last loss, came when Krause was outplayed.

Krause's duel with Pitt's Claire Cribbs should provide the main punch of the game. Last year Cribbs held Krause down until the former was forced out on fouls. The Panthers had enough of a lead at that time to last them during the remainder of the game. Cribbs did not play against Notre Dame at South Bend in the first Panther-Irish game of the season.

Fishermen Practice Fly Casting at Maroon Field

Tournament fly and bait games are being played every Sunday at the University of Chicago stadium from 10 a. m. to 2 p. m. under the auspices of the five city casting clubs.

Milwaukee and Green Bay Polo Trios Due Today

Members of the Green Bay and Milwaukee polo teams are due to arrive in Chicago this afternoon for final workouts before their games tomorrow night at the 124th Field Artillery arena, 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue.

The Milwaukee trio will meet the Chicago Shamrocks at 8:30 o'clock for junior division laurels in the Metropolitan Indoor Polo league. Green Bay will play the Sixth Corps Area in the windup. These teams are in the senior division.

After a tapering off practice this afternoon at Fort Sheridan, Capt. C. E. Davis and his Sixth Corps Area players will send their mounts to the armory.

The Shamrocks' ponies, to be ridden by Capt. Leo Callahan, Capt. Leslie Ireland and Lieut. J. C. McNulty, are now quartered in the armory stables.

Duck Problem to Get Airing Next Week

BY BOB BECKER.

America's waterfowl problem will be thoroughly aired next week when the annual American game conference is held in New York. Just about every angle of the problem from the task of providing adequate breeding areas to shooting regulations, length of seasons, and methods of hunting ducks and geese, will come up before the conference, which opens Monday morning, Jan. 22, and continues through Wednesday, Jan. 24.

Tuesday, the second day of the meeting, is the big day for the sportsmen and conservationists interested in providing a program that will insure the future of waterfowl flocks. Representatives from practically every section of the United States and Canada are scheduled to report to the conference on the condition of the ducks and geese in their respective areas.

Chicagoans Will Speak.

Brooke Anderson of Highland Park, Ill., formerly a member of the migratory bird advisory board, has been asked to report on the waterfowl situation in the central states. Another Chicagoan who will be heard from at the conference is S. Barry Locke, conservation director of the Izaak Walton league. Without doubt Charles F. Thompson of the Illinois department of conservation also will attend the meeting.

Just how thoroughly the conference will go into the subject of feeding ducks and shooting over the feeding areas is a matter of conjecture. However, we note that the preliminary program of the conference lists, among other topics, this one: "Are further shooting regulations and restrictions desirable?"

"Baiting" Question to Come Up.

This topic is an open door to the whole question of the length of the hunting season, bag limits, and the much discussed subject of "baiting" ducks. Inasmuch as there is no doubt that the group now bitterly opposed to baiting ducks has been extremely active during the last six months, and gradually gaining new converts to their stand, it is logical to presume that the conference will see a lot of fireworks when the duck question comes up.

This eastern meeting should uncover fresh information on the waterfowl status in North America. Although last fall the marshes have been more or less cluttered up with a number of inexperienced, second, and third rate "investigators," several experienced, keen minded scientists were in the field collecting data on breeding grounds, relative scarcity and abundance of duck species and other subjects.

May Get Clear Picture.

If they will report some of their findings at the conference American sportsmen should be able to get a clear picture of the waterfowl problem, presented from an unbiased and non-political point of view.

LEGAL BETTING, LOWER TAXES, IS WIDENER PLEA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., Jan. 18.—Joseph E. Widener of New York, president of the Westchester Racing association and heavy stockholder in Belmont Park, today voiced a threat to cut down the spring and fall meetings at Belmont to three days unless the horse track industry receives legislative relief from Albany.

Widener probably envisions relief in the matter of taxation on admissions and real estate, as well as some legalized permission of betting, although he did not say so. He did, however, reiterate his belief in the pari-mutuel system as the perfect form of wagering. Pari-mutuels cannot be legalized in New York state for two years after the state legislature agrees upon it, because of a previously enacted provision.

Old General A. Scores Third Straight Win

Miami, Fla., Jan. 18.—[Special.]—The 6 year old campaigner General A. closed with a burst of speed in the featured six furlong Osceola purse at Tropical Park today to win by a nose over Fancy Flight. Flying Sailor was third in a field of eleven.

General A. owed his victory largely to capable handling by Jockey Robby Robertson. Although outrun until the turn into the stretch, General A. was kept close to the leaders and under a hard drive he just managed to get up at the end.

Flying Sailor Threatens.

Fancy Flight got away in the van and stayed in front most of the way, although Flying Sailor was a close pursuer. Flying Sailor threatened as the leader rounded the turn into the stretch, but was unable to maintain it.

Coming with a rush, General A. was taken to the outside and overtook the two leaders. Neither would drop back, however, and all three were closely lapped at the wire, Fancy Flight's margin over the third place racer being only a neck.

Although he went to post at 16 to 5, General A. was favored in the wagering, with Wedding Ring, which also ran, second choice. The winner paid $8.40 straight and ran the distance in 1:11, one-fifth of a second off the track record recently set by Easy Come.

Third Straight for Winner.

General A.'s triumph was his third straight and his second in Florida. The son of General Thatcher and Annagh was the third favorite of the day to win.

Riding honors went to Earl Porter, who completed a double with Border Patrol in the fourth race and Sky Haven in the nightcap.

M'QUADE LOSES COURT BATTLE WITH GIANTS

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 18.—[Special.]—In a unanimous decision the Court of Appeals this afternoon decided that former Magistrate Francis X. McQuade of New York City, former treasurer of the New York Giants, could not recover a $42,827.38 judgment awarded by the lower courts against Charles A. Stoneham and John J. McGraw of the club because he was forbidden by law to engage in business while serving as a city magistrate. The court reversed the appellate division, first department, and dismissed the complaints.

Had the judgment not been reversed by the court McQuade would have had a life contract with the New York Giants on the face of the appellate division's decision.

Charles McLennan Named Bowie Racing Secretary

Miami, Fla., Jan. 18.—[Special.]—Charles McLennan of Chicago today was appointed racing secretary by the Southern Maryland Agricultural association, which conducts racing at the Bowie race track in the spring and fall. In taking the position he succeeds his father, the late Joe McLennan. McLennan will serve in a similar capacity at the Hialeah Park meeting which starts Jan. 25.

Goldes Out to Halt Streak of Hannin-Klein Quintet

The Golde basketball team will attempt to halt the 12 game winning streak of the Hannin-Klein Didits at Tuley gymnasium, Claremont and Potomac avenues, tonight. In a preliminary game, which will start at 7:30 o'clock, the Spencer Coals girls' quintet will play Racine, Wis.

CROWDED FIELD ADVANCES START OF SKI TOURNEY

First Entrants Arrive for Norge Meet Sunday.

Skiers began to arrive last night for the national ski jumping meet Sunday on the Norge Ski club slide at Fox River Grove, Ill. So many outstanding contestants have entered that the original intention of the national association to pare down the field to about 75 has been abandoned. Instead it has been decided to advance the starting time 30 minutes, the first skier leaving the 115 foot scaffold atop Cary hill at 1 o'clock.

In addition to the national title contest, the tournament also will feature several exhibition jumps by Johanna Kolstad, 20 year old girl who is rated among the three outstanding women skiers in the world. Miss Kolstad's performance will be graded to determine her ability to compete against men.

Kaare Engen to Compete.

Kaare Engen, whose two brothers have made the family name famous among skiers in America, will make his first bid for a major tournament prize since his arrival from Norway ten months ago. His brother, Alf, is professional champion of the United State. Kaare has been participating in tournaments around Salt Lake City, Utah, which city he will represent in the national meet.

Young Engen will be coupled with Ottar Satre of Salisbury, Conn., as the principal threats among the "dark horses." Satre was an alternate on the Norwegian Olympic team in the 1932 international competition at Lake Placid.

Roy Mikkleson, defending champion, and his foremost rival, Casper Oimen, will arrive today. Mikkleson won a tournament last Sunday at Berkeley, Cal., while Oimen finished second to Sverre Fredheim in the central meet that day. Fredheim will be among the contestants here Sunday also.

Sorenson Arrives by Plane.

In addition to Satre, six other skiers from the east are included in the entries. Harold Sorenson, who finished second in the 1931 national tournament on the Norge club slide here, arrived by airplane last night.

Seven carloads of snow which arrived yesterday are being held at Fox River Grove until Sunday, when it will be spread over the 340 foot surface of the giant scaffold and landing hill. This will insure against postponement of the event, which has been held on the scheduled date every year since 1919.

Good-bye COLD!
When This Famous Remedy Gets on the Job!

It's just too bad for a cold when you take Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. For this famous tablet soon has the cold on its way. Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine acts quickly and decisively because it is expressly a cold remedy and because it gets at a cold from the inside.

Complete relief is had with Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine because it is a complete treatment. It does the four things necessary. It opens the bowels, combats the cold germs and fever in the system, relieves the headache and grippy feeling and tones and fortifies the entire system. Anything less than that is courting danger. Get Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine at any druggist, 30c and 50c. Ask for it by the full name and resent a substitute.

THE NEXT PUZZLE WILL APPEAR IN TOMORROW'S TRIBUNE

EXAMINE FIRST GOLDEN GLOVES BOXERS MONDAY

Instructions Go Out to 400 Entrants.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Physical examinations for Golden Gloves boxers will start next Monday evening at Trafton's gymnasium, 180 West Randolph street. The gymnasium on the fifth floor will be used for the examinations.

Four hundred letters were mailed yesterday to contestants. Half of this number will report between 6:30 and 8:30 p. m. Monday night; the others are scheduled for their examinations Tuesday night. Another group of 200 will be summoned for examinations Wednesday night. These letters will be mailed tomorrow.

700 Early Entries.

More than 700 boxers, all individual entries, have sent in their names for the seventh annual tournaments sponsored by THE TRIBUNE. There is every indication that at least twice this number of boys will enter before the deadline. It is important that entries be sent in immediately so that there will be sufficient time for the physical examinations.

More than 50 boys have been rejected because they are not 16 years old. No boxer may compete under the rules of the A. A. U. which sanctions Golden Gloves tournaments unless he is 16 years of age. This early examination of all contestants who live in Chicago or in the immediate vicinity is designed to furnish a more complete check on physical condition and to relieve the congestion on the opening night of each of Chicago's four sectional tournaments.

The physical examinations will be conducted by a corps of doctors many of whom have assisted in TRIBUNE promotionals for many years. At their head is Dr. Thomas Dwyer.

Must Have Parents' Consent.

Each of the letters mailed to the boxers includes a card for parental consent. No boy may compete without permission from his parents. When the boxers report at Trafton's gymnasium they will receive their tickets of admission to the bouts for themselves and their seconds or whoever they wish to accompany them to the tournament. Also the boys will choose the sectional tournaments in which they wish to compete and the division, Novice or Open. Boys who won two bouts in last year's Golden Gloves Novice tournament must compete this year in the Open division.

The dates and locations of the Chicago sectional tournaments which start next month follow:

West side—132d regiment armory, 2653 West Madison street [Feb. 12, 13, and 14].

Near south side—Savoy ballroom, 4733 South Park way [Feb. 14, 15, and 16].

North side—Loyola university gymnasium, Loyola avenue and Sheridan road [Feb. 19, 20, and 21].

South side—White City, South Park avenue and 63d street [Feb. 21, 22, and 23].

Fifty or more entries have been received from towns near Chicago, such as Waukegan and Kenosha, Wis.; Hammond, Ind., Chicago Heights, Batavia, and Aurora, Ill. The tournament registration committee, believing that it would impose a hardship on these boys to make a trip to the loop for their physical examination, has decided to mail all instructions and tickets to them. They will be assigned to sectional tournaments and they will take their physical examinations on the first night of the tournament to which they have been assigned.

Instructions to Boxers.

All boxers reporting at Trafton's or receiving instructions by mail will have the following information: [1] Tickets of admission; [2] referee's instructions; [3] parental consent card, and [4] general instruction sheet. The cards containing records of all physical examinations will be filed by sections and will be held by the tournament registration committee.

HARVARD PLAYS ON WEST POINT FIELD IN 1935

West Point, N. Y., Jan. 18.—(AP)—A return of Harvard to West Point for an October game features the 1935 football schedule of Army announced today by Maj. Ludson D. Worsham, graduate manager of athletics.

The corps will get a trip to Pittsburgh for a game with the Panthers on Nov. 9.

The game with Notre Dame will be played in New York Nov. 16, one of the earliest dates in years. The 1935 schedule, with several dates to be filled by minor opponents:

Oct. 19, Harvard; Oct. 26, Yale at New Haven; Nov. 9, Pittsburgh at Pittsburgh; Nov. 16, Notre Dame at New York; Nov. 30, Navy [site not selected].

Maroon Swimming Team Defeats Loyola, 43-41

The University of Chicago's swimming team defeated Loyola university, 43 to 41, last night at Bartlett pool. In a water polo game the Illinois Athletic club, national A. A. U. champion, won from a University of Chicago team, 7 to 4.

Football Stars Referee Bouts on C.Y.O.Card

Frank Kausak whipped John Pyzik in a middleweight bout last night at C. Y. O. center before a capacity crowd. Twelve former Notre Dame football players, headed by Marchmont Schwartz, Norman Barry, and Tom Yarr, officiated at this and seven other matches. Other results:

Johnny Brown stopped Phil Maria [3].
Tom Sarnos beat Frank De Michaels [3].
Mickey Beal beat Jimmy Killeen [3].
Eddie Jackson beat Al Soukop [3].
Jackie Sullivan beat Bob Wiley [3].
Ed Mileski beat Bob Crowley [3].

The new Immaculate Conception Social center at Elmhurst will be dedicated Jan. 26 with a reproduction of the finals of the C. Y. O. tournament at the Stadium last December. The eight champions and runnersup will meet again.

Johnny Stroppa, Winnipeg, Man., lightweight, yesterday accepted terms for an eight round contest with Mickey Joy, Chicago, at Marigold Gardens Monday. The stipulated weight is 138 pounds.

Jackie Ausborne, Birmingham, Ala., junior welterweight, will appear in the semi-final against a suitable opponent. Since his arrival in Chicago several weeks ago Ausborne knocked out Toye McLemore, Les Darcy and Patsy Pollock.

Jack Ripp yesterday replaced Mickel Misko against Jimmy Cummings in a supporting match. Another brings together Chuck Reed and Sammy Adams. Johnny Myers will wrestle Tony Hajdich.

The advisory board of the Jewish Organized Youth conferred yesterday afternoon with M. L. Ottenheimer, presiding officer, and completed arrangements for the first annual amateur boxing tournament at the Jewish People's institute, Feb. 5 and 6. It was announced that south side entrants can train at South Shore temple, 7215 Jeffery avenue, on Tuesday, and at Coulon's gymnasium, 1154 East 63d street, on Thursday.

Johnny Terry, Kentucky welterweight, will head the card tonight at the Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue. Jackie Purvis, who was to have met Terry, could not be located yesterday so Johnny Coulon signed Eddie Chinski to oppose Terry. The match will be for 8 rounds.

After Terry gave Laddie Tonelli a hard battle at the Arcadia Gardens last Dec. 20 he went to Wheeling, W. Va., for two bouts with Paul Oger. He was held to a draw in the first, Jan. 1, but he won a 10 round decision in their second meeting Monday. Supporting matches:

Johnny Liston and Jack Ripp [4], 158.
George Haberski and John Mirabal [4], 128.
George Schrosbree and Eddie Smith [4], 140.
Al Schiarato and Bill Reardon [4], 135.
Mike Mantich and Hassen Ahmed [wrestling].

Elmo Ballard, Northwestern university student, has sent in his entry for the second annual amateur boxing tournament at the Illinois Athletic club next Wednesday and Thursday. Ballard hails from Denver, Colo., where he won two flyweight titles last year. Entries for the I. A. C. meet close tomorrow.

Karl Ogren, Chicago middleweight, yesterday announced that he would be unable to box Solly Dukelsky next Wednesday at Arcadia Gardens because of a torn ligament in his left shoulder incurred during a sparring drill with a heavyweight, Harvey Mortenson, Wednesday. Karl said he would be able to go through with the match on Jan. 30.

The supporting card to the Fred Kohler-Jack McAdams wrestling windup bout at Mozart arena, Clybourn avenue and Halsted street, Thursday, has been arranged. It will be:

Lou Talabar vs. Andy Sparks, 30 minutes.
Pete Holtz vs. Lee Umbles, 30 minutes.
George Jonason vs. Tony Hajdich, 30 minutes.
Rudy Kay vs. George Schwab, 30 minutes.

Amateur boxing teams from St. Alphonsus parish and C. Y. O. center will meet tonight at St. Alphonsus gymnasium, Lincoln and Southport avenues. Eight matches are carded. Joe Fette, Al Oddo, Stan Retzke, and Floyd Walker are among the St. Alphonsus boxers who will compete.

All-Stars Lose to Canadian Sextet, 5 to 1

Le Soliel of Quebec, Canada, scored a 5 to 1 victory over the Chicago All Stars in an amateur hockey game last night at the Coliseum. The Chicago sextet was made up of players from other than the Baby Ruth six.

The visitors got their first goal five minutes after the start of the second period on a lucky shot by Fortin. Goalie Halvorsen had the puck stopped, but it bounced off his pads and into the net.

Le Soliel scored four more in rapid successon in the final period, while the All Stars were only able to net one shot. Leon Gagnon, brother of Johnny Gagnon of the Montreal Canadiens, made one of the Canadian team's goals. Lineup:

Vines Wins Over Tilden; Gets 17 Aces

Cleveland, O., Jan. 18.—(AP)—Tilden Tours, Inc., cut its main event to three sets here tonight as Ellsworth Vines Jr. evened the series with his 41 year old opponent at three matches-all. Scores were 6-3, 3-6, 6-3.

Big Bill Tilden, as he is privileged to do in his contracts, shaved the battle to three sets because he was cramped by absence of space around the sidelines.

Vines appeared to be at the top of his form, scoring 17 service aces. The younger man's service made Tilden's famed cannonball look like slow motion.

Bruce Barnes and Vincent Richards played only two sets, Barnes winning the first, 6-2, and Richards the second, 6-3.

Vines teamed with Richards to defeat Tilden and Barnes, 2-6, 6-4, 6-1.

IN CHICAGO TODAY

Bill Tilden, perennial tennis favorite, and his youthful rival, Ellsworth Vines, will arrive this morning for their match at the Broadway armory tomorrow night. With them will be Vincent Richards and Bruce Barnes. Richards and Barnes will play a preliminary singles match. They were among the top flight amateurs before turning pro several years ago. Richards was a member of the United States Davis cup team in 1922, 1924, 1925, and 1926. He turned professional in 1926 and toured the country with Suzanne Lenglen, Mary K. Browne, and Howard Kinsey. The program will conclude with a doubles match in which Tilden and Barnes will meet Vines and Richards.

Twelve hundred additional seats have been installed, boosting the capacity of the armory to nearly 5,000.

W. L. T. A. MEETS HERE

The annual meeting of the Western Lawn Tennis association at the Hamilton club tomorrow is expected to attract the biggest delegation of out of town representatives in the history of the organization.

Many will arrive in Chicago today, among them a group of nine from Cincinnati, headed by Gordon Small, president of the Ohio Valley association.

Lively bidding is expected to result for two of the major tournaments. The western championships, which have been held at the River Forest Tennis club for the last four years, is being sought by the local club again with the Detroit T. C. also after it.

The Chicago Town and Tennis club, it is understood, again will be awarded the national clay tournament, which it staged last summer.

Los Angeles Game Yields Bears $6,000

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 18.—[Special.]—The Chicago Bears' share of net profit on last Sunday's professional football game with Ernie Pinckert's Los Angeles All-Stars, whom the Bears defeated here, 26 to 7, was about $6,000. The Bears played the game on a percentage arrangement, sharing the profits with Pinckert's team and with Los Angeles county council of American Legion.

The Bears will draw a guarantee of $5,000 for their game at Kezar park, San Francisco, this coming Sunday, against a picked team from northern California, Oregon, and Washington, and are to play another game with Pinckert's strengthened team here Sunday, Jan. 28, for which they will receive $5,000.

ROSENBERG JOINS UP

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 18.—(AP)—Arrival today of Aaron Rosenberg, University of Southern California guard, completed the personnel of the Pacific coast all-star team which will meet the Chicago Bears in the annual Knights of Columbus charity football game here Sunday.

The Bears, National Professional league champions, held another public workout on the civic center grounds in front of the city hall, an innovation that attracted several thousand fans to see Red Grange and company in action.

The coast stars, under Coaches Ray Flaherty and Red Strader, practiced at Ewing field.

IOWA OFFICIAL FACES QUIZ BY U. S. GRAND JURY

Lieut. Governor Target of PWA Investigation.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—[Special.]—The federal grand jury now sitting in Iowa will be asked to sift the information concerning Lieut. Gov. Nels G. Kraschel uncovered in an investigation of federal public works deals in that state, the department of justice announced today.

After two days of secret conferences with heads of the department of justice here United States District Attorney R. W. Colflesh left this afternoon to lay his charges against the Iowa lieutenant governor before the grand jury. Behind the charges is information which the department of justice and the Public Works administration have been assembling since last December.

Removed at Ickes' Request.

Lieut. Gov. Kraschel was removed as head of the Iowa public works advisory board about that time, at the direction of Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes. The investigation subsequently has involved only the lieutenant governor and Carlton D. Beh, who runs a bond house in Des Moines, the department of justice said.

In its official statement on the grand jury investigation and of the Iowa public works situation the department said:

"Early in December R. W. Colflesh, United States attorney for the southern district of Iowa addressed a letter to the attorney general dealing with possible violation of the federal statutes in connection with the administration of public works matters in Iowa. The only persons named in these charges are Nels G. Kraschel, lieutenant governor of Iowa, and one Carlton D. Beh, who conducted a bond house in the city of Des Moines.

Charges Studied.

"In his communication Mr. Colflesh solicited the views of the department of justice with reference to these charges. Conferences with representatives of the public works administration and others having knowledge of the facts were held from time to time in the interim.

"Because of the importance of the matter and some of the unusual circumstances involved, Mr. Colflesh was requested to come to Washington for the purpose of personal conference and with the view of going over the whole subject.

"These conferences have been progressing during yesterday and today. As a result Mr. Colflesh was instructed to proceed with the matter and to act in accordance with his best judgment, taking at each step of the proceeding scrupulous care to see that the matter is fully and thoroughly presented, with due regard for the rights of both the government and the persons involved.

Charges Fraud in Pennsylvania.

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 18. — [Special.] — Joseph F. Guffey, Roosevelt-Democratic state leader, charged in Washington today that "the handling of the CWA in Pennsylvania is a rotten mess and smells to the high heaven. While the Guffey blast was being fired in Washington it was disclosed at the Philadelphia CWA employment office that 10 clerks, most of them young women, have been discharged from the state employment office here in recent weeks for exercising favoritism in doling out CWA jobs.

LINDLEY NAMES COURT ADVISER IN UTILITY HEARING

Federal Judge Walter A. Lindley yesterday appointed Attorney Henry I. Green of Urbana to act as court adviser in the hearing Jan. 23 on charges of Attorney Samuel A. Ettelson that there was collusion in the receivership of the Middle West Utilities company, Insull holding concern.

At the same time Attorney Ettelson, representing a stockholder, yesterday filed an answer to the petition in which Charles A. McCulloch, receiver for Middle West, asked that his appointment be reaffirmed.

Attorney Ettelson reiterated previous charges that the receiver was selected after conferences between Chicago bankers and Samuel Insull. These conferences, the answer held, were "primarily to select receivers upon whom they could rely to protect their interests."

Meantime Attorney Robert N. Golding, counsel for the Dewey committee of Middle West noteholders, went on record as opposed to Samuel A. Ettelson's petition.

Golding, in a formal answer to the petition, disclaims, on behalf of the committee, knowledge of any collusion in the appointment of the receivers or participation in any conferences.

'JOE' DEVLIN, IRISH 'DEMOSTHENES,' DIES IN BELFAST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Jan. 18.—Joseph Devlin, fiery Irish nationalist leader and member of the British and Northern Ireland parliaments, died in a Belfast nursing home today of a throat affliction. He was 62 years old.

He had been in failing health for months and entered the hospital last week when his illness took a serious turn.

"Joe" Devlin was well known in the United States, and was one of the most popular persons in Belfast. He probably had more nicknames and soubriquets than any other politician.

He was born in Belfast in 1872 of working class parents and entered politics in his youth. His gifts as a platform orator led to his being selected by the Irish nationalist chief, John Redmond, to go on a mission to America to collect subscriptions. He toured the United States six times, returning with ample funds to fill the party coffers.

In his absence on his first trip in 1902 Devlin was elected to the British parliament as a member for North Kilkenny and became one of the most powerful debaters of the stormy group of home rule Irishmen who constantly had the house of commons in an uproar. He was a born fighter, took every opportunity of plunging into the fray and more than once was ordered to leave the house when things got too hot.

Devlin sat in the house continuously from 1902 to 1922, but for seven years after the passing of the Free State act he was not a member of the Westminster parliament. When he returned to the house of commons in 1929 he had vastly changed from the "pocket Demosthenes," as he was called by Tim Healy.

CO-OWNER OF MINNEAPOLIS PAPER IS DEAD

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 18.—(AP)—Albert B. Frizzell, 43, co-publisher of the Minneapolis Star, died at his home here late yesterday after a year's illness. A complication of ailments starting with pneumonia caused death.

He had been in the newspaper and advertising agency business in Minneapolis since 1912. In 1923 he purchased Farm Stock and Home, farm publication, which in 1925 he combined with the Northwest Farmstead as Farm Stock and Home and Northwest Farmstead.

In May, 1924, he became associated in the purchase of the Minnesota Star, later reorganized as the Minneapolis Star, with Mr. Frizzell as copublisher and treasurer. He is survived by his widow and a daughter.

ONLY SURVIVOR OF 1ST YALE LAW CLASS 90 TODAY

Augustus Binswanger, the only living member of the first law class of Yale university, will observe his 90th birthday today. He will be at home informally to his friends this evening in the Sherry hotel, 1725 East 53d street. Mr. Binswanger came to Chicago in 1888 and began the practice of law. He is in good health and expects to enjoy today one of the most pleasant birthdays in his memory, he asserts. He has one son, Alvin, and two grandchildren, Florence and Marion.

SISTER OF MAN PROVED INNOCENT BY LINCOLN DEAD IN OKLAHOMA

Bloomington, Ill., Jan. 18.—[Special.]—Mrs. Eliza Smith, 88, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Dan Warner, at Homestead, Okla., yesterday, according to word received here today.

She was a sister of Duff Armstrong, whom Abraham Lincoln proved innocent in a spectacular murder trial at Beardstown, Ill., in 1858. During the trial with the evidence all pointing to Armstrong's guilt, the chief witness for the state maintained that he saw Armstrong and the murdered man grappling in the bright moonlight. Lincoln won the case by producing an old battered almanac which revealed that there was no moonlight on the evening of the murder.

Mrs. Smith was also personally acquainted with Mr. Lincoln, who often visited her parents while he was postmaster at New Salem.

Mrs. Margaret Liggett Willits, who is disputing the custody of their two children before Judge Joseph Sabath in the Superior court with her divorced husband, John McGregor Willits, insurance broker, charged yesterday that Willits knocked her down on Tuesday when she slapped him for calling her a vile name.

Mrs. Willits was granted custody of the children when she got a divorce a year ago. During the Christmas holidays Willits kidnaped them from her home at Swampscott, Mass., charging that she was not giving them proper care, and now has a petition pending in which he seeks the children's custody.

Willits' attack on her, Mrs. Willits charged, took place when he visited her in the home of Mrs. Helen Watson, 859 Sheridan road, Winnetka, with whom she is staying. She and Mrs. Watson testified that Willits had been drinking.

Judge Sabath ordered that Mrs. Willits be allowed to see the children two hours a day, and continued the hearing on her petition to have her ex-husband held in contempt of court to Jan. 23. The continuance was granted because of the critical illness of the grandmother of Attorney Stephen Love, attorney for Willits.

BLAMES MOVIE FOR EVANSTON'S RUNAWAY BOYS

The showing in Evanston recently of a motion picture depicting the life of boy tramps as romantic and colorful brought on an epidemic of runaways, Elmer Higley, Evanston truant officer, said yesterday.

Three boys who left home Tuesday, leaving a note to their parents that they were going to North Dakota to become farmers, were returned home after they had been stopped by North Chicago police.

Four others who left the same day are still missing. Gilbert Ruesch, 16 years old, 1514 Main street, Evanston, was wearing his junior police belt and cap when he left. Max A. Williams Jr., 15 years old, 410 Ridge avenue, Evanston, had on his R. O. T. C. uniform and told friends that he was going to drive a woman's automobile to California. The other two boys still missing are Henry Krakowski, 15 years old, 1121 Dodge avenue, and Harold Horn, 16 years old, 2001 East Railroad avenue, both of Evanston.

Russell Wells, Mortgage Banker of Quincy, Dies

Quincy, Ill., Jan. 18.—[Special.]—Russell Wells, 65, mortgage banker of Quincy for many years, died this morning.

In every neighborhood, Chicago families realize the nearness, the remarkable promptness and superiority of Hursen service in directing funerals.

They know that Hursen elegance, Hursen unmatchable equipment, and the use of Hursen Organ Chapels, always free, cannot be matched in their own neighborhood.

They know, too, that Hursen funerals cost less!

STOCKS SEESAW AS PACE SLOWS; NEWS CHEERFUL

Sugar, Rubber Issues Make Best Gains.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 18.—Mixed price movements were again the rule in stock exchange dealings today. The market reflected a good deal in the way of "rotation" of speculative interest from group to group, with the pace gradually slowing down. Traders resumed talk of the need of some fresh development as a market incentive.

The ups and downs of the dollar on the foreign exchange had little apparent effect on activity. Trade news continued favorable including a smattering of special and extra dividend announcements.

The more cheerful political news from Cuba had a beneficial effect on sugar stocks, gains of 1 to 8 points being chalked up in common and preferred issues of the group. Rubber stocks had one of their infrequent good days.

Industrial Standbys Mark Time.

The industrial standbys continued the "sidewise" movement they have been affecting since the middle of Tuesday afternoon and some observers pointed the phenomenon out as evidence that the market was getting "set" for another drive toward its July tops—granted a continuance of the favorable news that has been coming its way lately.

The theory back of this line of reasoning is that the list had eliminated such weakness as might have developed as a result of Monday's sharp rise. Brokers reported some "good buying" in various issues.

Estimates of a 50,000 car gain in carloadings figures for the week were credited with scattered demand for railroad issues, including New York Central, Atchison, Union Pacific, and Southern Pacific in the early dealings but the group eased somewhat toward the close. Union Pacific finished with a net gain of a point.

Chrysler Continues Recovery.

Chrysler made a further recovery from the drubbing it took early in the week, but other motors did well to hold their own. General Motors gained a bare fraction. Studebaker common and preferred were turned over in heavy volume at somewhat better prices.

Among the specialties, Johns Manville, United States Gypsum, and Celanese were outstanding in the forenoon, only to yield in the face of profit taking later.

Some of the copper shares enjoyed aggressive sponsorship on reports of better chances for code problem solution.

American Woolen made another new top but couldn't hold it. United Aircraft was a weak spot, reflecting the senate's current probe of air mail contracts. Utilities and oils were firm.

TWO ROADS SEEK RFC LOANS TO PAY BONDS DUE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—The Illinois Central railway is asking the Reconstruction Finance corporation for a 10 million dollar loan with which to pay off securities of the road which mature in June, Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the RFC, revealed today.

He also disclosed that the New York Central is asking for 52½ millions with which to meet maturities coming due on May 1. Both the New York Central and Illinois Central loans are now privately held.

Chairman Jones said that he hoped banks would carry the larger part of the refinancing burden for these two roads and all others having maturities in the coming year. He admitted, however, that he had no assurance that banks would help the RFC with either the Illinois Central or New York Central refinancings.

Previously, the RFC has been sharply criticized by congress for taking over all of a refinancing railroad bond issue which enables the carrier to pay off private bankers in cash.

INDUSTRY DROPS 30,000 WORKERS FOR DECEMBER

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—(AP)—Employment in industries surveyed by the bureau of labor statistics dropped approximately 30,000 in December as compared with November, while pay rolls declined $244,000.

Manufacturing industries showed an employment decline of approximately 113,000 persons, but there was a gain in employment of about 80,000 in nonmanufacturing industries, such as anthracite mining, construction work, dyeing and cleaning, and several other idustries. The index in manufacturing industries for December was 70.1 per cent of the figure for 1926, which is used as the basis for comparison. That for November was 71.4.

Since the end of November 2,500,000 persons also have been provided with jobs by the civil works administration. The number of persons on the pay rolls of the civilian conservation corps was 325,000.

Decided Trade Gains Seen by Reserve Board

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—(AP)—Trade and industry were reported by the federal reserve board today to have begun 1934 "at a considerably higher level of activity" than they started 1933.

Business indexes, the board said, "while still far below their average levels for the years 1923, 1924, and 1925, were materially above the low points of the depression."

Included in these indexes were industrial production, construction, factory employment, factory pay rolls, freight carloadings, and department store sales. March, 1933, was given as the lowest month of the depression for all these except industrial production, the low for which was July, 1932.

Worker Incomes Increase.

"Income of wage earners increased considerably in the second half of the year, reflecting increased pay rolls of industrial establishments and public works," the review said.

"There was also a large increase in the income of farmers, arising from the higher prices of agricultural commodities and from the distribution among producers by the agricultural adjustment administration of benefit payments in connection with the production control program.

"Financial reports of a representative group of large corporations showed an increase in net profits during the second and third quarters of 1933 and in the latter period profits were larger than at any time since the second quarter of 1931."

However, the board said that the effect of this income increase upon commodity distribution to consumers cannot be determined accurately from available information.

Rail Shipments Stable.

"The volume of shipments of commodities by rail was relatively stable in the autumn months at a level above that of a year ago," the board reported. "Sales at department stores, which reflect purchases by city residents, after considerable rise in volume earlier in the year, showed a smaller increase in the autumn months than is usual at this season.

"In the south there was a large increase in department store sales, while in the industrial northeast sales showed little change. Sales of automobiles and commodities distributed by mail order houses and chain stores showed increases for the country as a whole, the largest increases in sales of automobiles and mail orders being reported from the southern states."

Business activity, the board said, showed "relative stability in the last two months of 1933."

TRADE BUREAU FEARS MONOPOLY IN STEEL CODE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—(AP)—The federal trade commission has sent to President Roosevelt a 25 page memorandum vigorously criticizing the price system and other parts of the steel code as conducive to monopoly.

The price system in the code is the major point of attack. It is known as the multiple basing point system and is the outgrowth of the famous Pittsburgh plus system which the steel industry voluntarily abandoned under a commission decree in 1924. The commission's memorandum argues that the multiple system may still permit monopolistic practices in the steel industry, and the commission has received complaints of this intent.

The steel industry's basing point price system provides, in a general way, that prices for steel products shall be published at a number of points of their production and that freight from those points to any designation shall be charged regardless of whether the article in question actually was shipped from the production point.

Under the code about 100 basing point have been set up for steel's products. Thus Chicago, Pittsburgh, and Birmingham are all basing points for rolled or forged axle. Similarly other products have several basing points, so that theoretically, all buyers will have close at hand a buying point.

The commission's memorandum holds that the multiple system, as now used under the steel code, probably fails to offer all buyers an equal opportunity and that the basing points may not in fact provide nearby basing points. Officials said the commission was doubtful of other parts of the steel code which were said to give the code authority too wide power to change the code without supervision.

NATIONAL TEA SALES IN 1933 DECLINE 4.45%

Sales in National Tea company stores during the twelve months ended Dec. 31, 1933, totaled $62,608,616 as compared with $65,524,244 in the preceding year, a decline of 4.45 per cent, the company reported yesterday. Combined warehouse and store sales during 1933 totaled $64,973,575 as compared with $65,657,249 in 1932, a decrease of 1.04 per cent.

The company reported that as of Dec. 31, 1933, it had 1,299 stores in operation. Of these 373 were combination grocery stores and meat markets. On Dec. 31, 1932, the company had 1,389 stores in operation, of which 302 were combination meat markets and grocery stores. The decline in number of stores in operation at the end of 1933 as compared with the number operating at the end of 1932 was 6⅓ per cent.

G. H. Swift Is Elected to Packer Board

George H. Swift of Boston was added to the board of directors of Swift & Co. at the annual stockholders heeting yesterday. Following the stockholders meeting the new board met and reelected present officers and made Clifford W. Lawrence assistant treasurer of the company.

The new Swift director is one of the sons of the company's founder and has been associated with the company's interests since 1896. He will continue to live in the east. The new assistant treasurer has been with Swift since 1908. He is a grandson of the founder of William A. Weed & Co. of Stamford, Conn., packers, in which Swift & Co. has an interest.

Prices More Stable.

G. F. Swift, president, told stockholders that the long awaited stabilization in live stock prices is apparently at hand. Some price improvement has occurred, he said. He reported the following advances in principal live stock divisions since the 1932 lows: hogs, 30 cents per hundred weight; lambs, $2.70; cattle, 60 cents; and calves, $1.

There has also been some improvement in eggs, poultry and cheese, he said.

William B. Traynor, treasurer, told shareholders that the company is in excellent financial condition. Referring to the $4,267,000 inventory profit shown in the 1933 report he pointed out that it was not a cash accretion, but was tied in supplies on hand.

Earmarked as Reserve.

This was specially earmarked as reserve and the operating profit of $5,882,000 was credit to surplus.

In 1932 the company had operated in the red for the first time since 1921. Dividends were resumed Jan. 1, this year with a quarterly disbursement of 12½ cents after a lapse of 18 months.

President Swift said that some shareholders felt that the large inventory reserve and the small dividend were unduly conservative, but he declared them best for the long term interest of stockholders.

PROPOSE BASE PRICE OF $41 TON FOR NEWSPRINT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—A proposed agreement between American and Canadian newsprint manufacturers, and a code provision that paper shall not be sold for delivery during 1934 at less than a base price of $41 a ton, are among the recommendations made by the code authority on the newsprint industry, it was announced at NRA offices today.

A public hearing will be conducted Thursday, Feb. 1, before Deputy Administrator W. W. Pickard.

The code authority recommends extensive additions to the sale and trade practices of the approved code. One change would empower the code authority to adjust or modify existing minimum prices, if justified by general changes "in the cost of manufacturing or in the value of the dollar and by conditions in the newspaper publishing industry."

Elaborate machinery is set up for making and protecting minimum prices and for fair trade practices, including a zoning scheme for price determination for various parts of the United States.

It is provided that violations of the agreement may be penalized by money damages. A joint committee is created, composed of four members of the American and Canadian associations.

Court to Decide Monday on West Side Trust Plan

Superior Judge Robert Gentzel said yesterday that he would give his decision next Monday on the motion of a depositors' committee of the West Side Trust and Savings bank, asking dismissal of the receiver and authority to proceed with a reorganization.

MANHATTAN STOCK POOL OPERATORS ARE CONVICTED OF FRAUD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 18.—In the first case of its kind to be tried in this district Richard H. Brown, former president of the Manhattan Electrical Supply company, and Charles H. McCarthy, stock pool operator, were convicted tonight of mail fraud.

It took a jury of eleven men only one and a half hours to uphold the government in its attempt to put teeth in the warning sounded by President Roosevelt, "caveat vendor"—let the seller beware.

The trial, which began on Nov. 23, marked the first use in this district of the mail fraud statute as a weapon to prevent operators from forming pools to raise the price of stock artificially, and then, in the language of government investigators, to "pull out the plug."

The "pulling of the plug" in the case in question cost "investors" more than six million dollars when 200,000 outstanding shares of Manhattan stock with a market value of $55.50 a share dropped one day in 1930 to $25 a share.

Brown and McCarthy were found guilty under eight counts of mail fraud and one of conspiracy. They were released in bail of $3,000 each and will appear in court tomorrow to hear their sentence. The maximum penalty under the mail fraud statute is imprisonment for five years and a fine of $1,000 on each count. The conspiracy charge carries a maximum penalty of two years and $10,000 fine.

EDITOR ASSAILS U. S. MEDDLING WITH BUSINESS

Much of the interference with business by the government cannot be justified, George A. Gurley, editor of The Packer, told the convention of the American Fruit and Vegetable Shippers association at the Palmer house yesterday in an attack on the New Deal.

"Business, which at first hailed the NRA, has lately begun to fear that it is to be treated like a dangerous criminal that must be kept under guard day and night," he said. "Such fear is not merely fancy. The experience of the railroads under government control attests to that fact."

He predicted that it will be only a question of time until all business will be so hampered that it will be impossible to conduct affairs on a profitable basis.

"Agriculture is receiving benefit payments, industry is getting loans, labor artificially higher wages and shorter hours, and the unemployed direct handouts," he added. "It seems to me that if we do not look out we will soon develop into a nation of hopeless and incurable charity cases."

A plan for combined federal and state licensing, bonding, and regulation of intercity motor truck lines was approved by the association. Intrastate motor carriers for hire, both common and contract carriers, would be required to obtain state permits to operate, while congress would assume the same authority over interstate truck companies which the plan gives to the states for lines wholly within their borders.

Another Gold Mine Will Pay Extra Dividend

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 18.—The action of directors of McIntyre Porcupine Mines in voting an extra dividend of 25 cents in addition to the regular quarterly rate drew attention of the financial district to prospects of gold producers for the current year under the administration's latest monetary policy.

The regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share also was ordered. Three months ago an extra of 12½ cents and a special bonus of the same amount were declared.

Based on the latest price of $34.45 an ounce offered by the treasury for newly mined gold, companies engaged in that industry stand to earn approximately 60 per cent more than in 1933, even if output shows no further increase this year than last year.

Profits Show Increase.

The company reported a net profit for the December quarter of $956,821 after development expense, taxes and depreciation, equal to $1.20 per share on 798,010 shares of capital stock. This compares with $633,649, or 79 cents a share, in the December, 1932, quarter, and $954,820, or $1.20 a share, in the preceding 1933 quarter.

Net profit for the nine months ended Dec. 31, 1933, totaled $2,712,110, equal to $3.40 per share, against $1,761,369, or $2.21 a share, in the corresponding 1932 period.

The Chickasha Cotton Oil company today declared a special dividend of 50 cents. Three payments of 25 cents each were made last year.

Railroad Resumes Dividend.

The Louisville and Nashville railroad today declared a dividend of $1.50 on the common stock. It marks the first payment since a dividend of $2 was made in February, 1932. The directors said future dividends would depend on earnings. The Atlantic Coast Line owns 51 per cent of the Louisville and Nashville's common stock.

Julius Kayser & Co. declared a dividend of 25 cents on the common stock, the first disbursement since Feb. 1, 1932, when a similar amount was paid.

The Piedmont & Northern railway declared an extra dividend of $1.50 a share on the common.

C. Brewer & Co. declared a dividend of $1 a share for January, placing the stock on a $12 annual basis, payable monthly, compared with $9 plus extra of $4 paid last year.

Central Cold Storage company declared a dividend of 12½ cents on the common stock, stating that probably payment would be continued quarterly. The last previous dividend on this issue was 20 cents on Dec. 31, 1931.

YELLOW CAB VOTES DIVIDEND.

Directors of the Chicago Yellow Cab company yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share. All officers were reëlected for the coming year.

J. Roy Gridley of Detroit was elected president of the National Association of Cleaners and Dyers at the close of the four-day convention at the Palmer house yesterday.

Holders Can't Spend Gold, So It Flows Back Into U. S. Coffers

The influx of gold to the Chicago federal reserve bank and other banks in this district continued yesterday as citizens hurried to conform with the anti-hoarding edict of the secretary of the treasury.

An estimated $300,000 was taken in through the tellers' windows in Chicago banks yesterday in return for which those giving up their precious holdings got ordinary currency. Under the ruling issued late Thursday night Secretary Morgenthau lifted the Jan. 17 deadline for the return of gold and gold certificates, and authorized the reserve banks, assay offices and the treasurer of the United States to continue to accept it indefinitely.

Gold Certificates Turned In.

A larger percentage of the surrenders yesterday represented gold certificates. This was explained by reserve bank as due to confusion on the part of the public, which had, in most cases, given up its gold coin earlier. There was doubt in the minds of many whether the anti-hoarding ruling applied to certificates. With general understanding that it is also illegal to hold certificates the "yellow backs" began to roll in.

In trade circles the unusual situation has arisen of merchants and others refusing to accept gold certificates and coin in payment of goods and services. The most acceptable currency for centuries, gold has suddenly become non-negotiable in this country because of the administration's rulings.

Won't Accept Gold Payments.

A reader of THE TRIBUNE called yesterday to report that he was unable to purchase a railroad ticket to Omaha when he offered a $20 gold certificate in payment. Railroads, merchants and others offering goods and services have instructed employés to refuse gold monies lest they become technical hoarders.

The latest ruling removed the exemption on holdings of $100 or less, which were not disturbed by the hoarding rulings issued last March during the banking moratorium.

Sacrifices of sentiment may be involved in some of the surrenders but bank tellers report that they have observed that the cloak of sentiment in numerous cases is used to masquerade a common human instinct—the desire for profit. Close questioning of some of the "sentimental hoarders" reveals that they bought gold in the hope of turning a neat profit when devaluation becomes a fact.

DOLLAR BOUNDS ON NEW DEMAND FROM EUROPE

Holders of Sterling Seek to Unload.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 18.—The pound sterling broke sharply today to the lowest price since Nov. 8 as the flight of foreign capital from London, set in motion by the announcement of President Roosevelt's stabilization program, gathered momentum.

Satisfied that the dollar was no longer menaced by the prospect of unlimited inflation and believing that Great Britain would soon take steps to counteract the depreciation of the dollar by correspondingly depressing sterling, French and American holders of British funds set about repatriating their holdings. The movement found sterling in a vulnerable position. For months it has been quoted at what foreign exchange experts called an artificially high value above $5 to the pound.

Seek to Unload Sterling.

Holders of sterling have refused to sell because they feared other currencies and holders of other exchanges have sought to convert their funds into sterling. Today the movement had turned completely in the other direction. Holders of sterling were seeking to unload and buyers were wary.

The pound tumbled to $4.94¾, falling below $5 for the first time in weeks, and closed at $4.96¾, off 7¼ cents net.

These quotations compared with a high of $5.16⅝ for sterling on Monday and a record high of $5.52 on Nov. 16, last. In the face of the collapse of sterling, the federal reserve bank of New York, limited its exchange control operations to the mere purchase of gold abroad, was powerless to hold down the dollar.

Dollar Rises to 62.73 Cents.

The American currency rose, not merely against sterling, but against the gold standard exchanges, as well, to reach a value of 62.94 cents and to close at 62.73 cents, up 0.64 cent on the day. At its best level, the dollar was nearly 3 cents above the upper limit of devalution prescribed for it in President Roosevelt's program. The foreign exchange market appeared to ignore completely the fact that the reserve bank, as agent for the treasury, was offering $34.45 an ounce for newly mined gold, a price equivalent to a 60 cent gold value for the dollar.

Foreign exchange dealers here were uncertain whether the British exchange equalization fund had played any part in the fall of sterling. It has been well known that the British authorities had viewed with disfavor the high dollar price of sterling and traders in foreign exchange have for weeks expected the fund to take some action to depress the pound.

No Official "Bearing."

A few experts thought it certain that the fund would not overlook the present opportunity to put pressure on sterling, but the majority felt that no official "bearing" was necessary and that the fund was probably standing aside, conserving its resources against the time when they may be needed, after the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund of the United States swings into operation.

The repatriation of American capital indicated by the action of today's foreign exchange market has not yet assumed large proportions, according to dealers. With the government virtually promising a dollar of 60 cents or less gold value, there is not strong incentive to repurchase dollars that are still selling at nearly 63 cents in the world market. The important factor, the dealers pointed out, is that the desire to export capital from the United States has stopped, and the desire of those with capital abroad to bring it home has begun to operate.

Foresee Big Struggle.

Under the circumstances those versed in monetary affairs foresaw a tremendous struggle in store for the American stabilization fund in holding down the dollar against the pressure of funds which will attempt to sweep into this country by the billions of dollars once the promise of a stable currency is assured, regardless of the level of stabilization.

Currencies of the sterling group were most severely affected in today's market. The Canadian dollar lost another half cent to close at 1¼ per cent discount, the lowest price since last November. The yen fell 38 points to 29.87 cents and the Scandinavian exchanges were 38 to 50 points lower.

The guilder was off 75 points to 63.95 cents, the belga down 22 points to 22.18 cents and the Swiss franc 38 points at 30.75 cents. Marks declined 43 points to 37.72 cents and lire 8½ points to 8.334 cents.

PESO PEGGED TO STERLING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Jan. 18.—Federico de Pinedo, Argentine minister of finance, tonight announced that, effective tomorrow, the Argentine peso will be pegged to sterling instead of the franc. It is understood that the advantages of this measure were recognized since the signature of the Anglo-Argentine trade treaty, which the action today supplements.

Reserve Bank Expands Gold Buying Abroad

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

(Statistics on page 34, column 7.)

Gold purchases of $4,319,000 were made in foreign markets this week by the New York Federal Reserve bank in order to control the exchange value of the dollar. The bank's purchases are revealed in the weekly report issued last night under a new item, "gold held abroad." The combined report of the 12 reserve banks carries the same item for the same amount, indicating that the New York bank carried on all of the transactions.

These purchases cover only two days' operations. The reserve bank assumed the gold purchase function from the RFC on Tuesday morning and the report covers the week ended Wednesday.

Gold Buying Stepped Up.

The RFC had purchased an average of only $5,000,000 of foreign gold weekly and the rate of purchase was stepped up when the reserve bank took over this function. The large purchases followed closely on the heels of the President's monetary message to congress in which he asked for authority to carry out the proposed devaluation and to use the 2 billion dollar profit accruing from such action as a dollar stabilization fund.

Pending the authorization of the stabilization fund the New York reserve bank stepped into the breach to attempt to control the exchange movements of the dollar. The dollar has been buoyant most of the week against the gold currencies and particularly against the pound, which yesterday broke below $5 for the first time in months.

Seek to Keep Dollar Down.

The gold purchases, which are believed to have centered in the London market, were apparently designed to keep the dollar from getting too far above the 60 cent level which the President set as the top figure in the new stabilization bracket.

Total gold reserves of the twelve banks declined $6,000,000 last week. A part of this may represent transfers of gold coin to offset the foreign purchases. Total gold reserves of the system were $3,560,304,000 at the end of the week.

The reports of member banks in New York and Chicago disclosed some expansion in total outstanding bank credit and moderate deposit expansion. Commercial loans in Chicago expanded 5 millions and other credit increased 25 millions. Chicago banks bought 2 millions of governments, while New York banks added another 15 millions to their portfolio.

MAY PICK FIRM TO GET NATIONAL LIFE TOMORROW

Announcement of the selection of a company to insure the 112,000 policyholders of the National Life Insurance Company of the U. S. A., which was placed in receivership on Oct. 17, 1933, is expected to be made tomorrow morning by Judge William J. Lindsay in the county Superior court, according to reports in insurance circles yesterday.

It was intimated that the three companies being considered to take over the affairs of National Life are the Continental Assurance company, the Washington National Life Insurance company, and the Hercules Insurance company. The first named organization has been held to be the most likely candidate.

When the arrangement for the reinsurance of the policyholders is completed the problem of liquidating assets will remain. There are two courses which may be adopted in this connection. Either the present receiver, Patrick J. Lucey, may be continued, or the assets may be placed in the hands of trustees.

National Life has large amounts of real estate scattered in various parts of the country and also possesses around 11,000 shares of Continental Illinois bank stock, which has shown substantial appreciation.

GOODYEAR TIRE HEAD DEFENDS SEARS CONTRACT

Akron, O., Jan. 18.—(AP)—Defending the trade contract between his concern and Sears, Roebuck & Co., P. W. Litchfield, president of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, today told an examiner for the federal trade commission that the agreement was "one of the best ever written."

He assumed "full responsibility," he said, for the contract, now under fire as tending to create a monopoly and therefore in violation of the Clayton act.

The first Sears contract brought several million dollars' business, the rubber concern president testified, the second one almost $40,000,000, and finally one signed in 1931 meant at that time "probably more than $100,000,000 worth of trade in the ten-year period."

With the depression on, the 1931 agreement meant, Litchfield told the examiner, that Goodyear would be able to keep 3,000 men employed most of the time for a decade.

U. S. TO LAUNCH BIG BORROWING PROGRAM SOON

Billion Next Week; Wider Powers Asked

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—The 10 billion dollar borrowing program, which is necessary to keep President Roosevelt's recovery program in funds through June 30, will be launched by Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. within the next four or five days, it was reported today.

While preparations were being made at the treasury to borrow at least a billion dollars next week as the opening gun in this program, Secretary Morgenthau asked congress for a sweeping revision of the treasury's borrowing powers.

He suggested six technical changes in the types of security which the government could offer to investors. Chief among these is authority to issue an additional 2½ billion dollars of treasury notes.

Expect 3% Interest Limit.

Next week's issue probably will not carry an interest rate of more than 3 per cent. It is expected to have a maturity of not more than two years.

Secretary Morgenthau said that the borrowing program would not be held up until the monetary legislation is enacted, although the changes in the treasury borrowing powers which he requested today were written in as amendments to the pending monetary bill.

An official statement on five of the changes in treasury powers which Secretary Morgenthau asked explained them as follows:

It is desired to increase by 2½ billion dollars [from 7½ to 10 billions], the amount of treasury notes which may be issued, the purpose being to facilitate the marketing of government obligations which this will do because of the greater demand for this type of security.

Treasury notes may now be issued to provide for the purchase or redemption of notes. Certificates and bills may be issued to provide for the purchase or redemption of certificates or bills. It will facilitate government refunding to have authority to purchase any class of government securities with the proceeds of any other class.

Wishes More Freedom.

At present we are authorized to issue only treasury bills on a discount basis. Authority is desired to issue any obligations of the United States with a maturity of not longer than one year on a discount basis.

At present the treasury authority to purchase bonds and notes for the sinking fund is restricted to bonds and notes which were issued for refunding purposes or were outstanding on the date named in the statute. It is desirable to be able to use the sinking fund to purchase bonds or notes which have been issued for purposes other than refunding.

Gold certificates may not now be issued against gold unless deposited by private persons for the issuance of gold certificates, except that the secretary may pay out or issue gold certificates in payment of interest on the public debt. There should be authority to issue gold certificates against any gold in the treasury, except the gold reserves.

GRAIN CO-OP GETS BOARD OF TRADE CLEARING RIGHTS

Beginning today the Farmers' National Grain corporation will clear its own trades to the Chicago Board of Trade Clearing House. Board of Trade directors at a special meeting yesterday decided that the Farmers National was eligible to membership in the Clearing House association after the directors of the latter had decided in favor of the Farmers National.

The Farmers National has been considered a government concern, having received its backing for the last few years from that source. The decision ends a fight between the Farmers National and the Board of Trade that has occupied two years. The Farmers National during that period has been forced to clear its trades through other houses, although it has handled a large volume of business.

The Board of Trade contended that the Farmers National was not a coöperative. The Farmers National bought the Updike Grain company and operated through it for a time to gain clearing house privileges, but later was barred. The case has been through the courts several times and the contention of the Farmers National that it was a member of the Chicago Board of Trade and entitled to all its privileges was upheld under the grain futures act, which favors coöperatives.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 18.—Treasury issues were outstanding exceptions to a generally higher price trend in the bond market today. Demand for corporate issues continued to feature trading. The market most of the time was free of profit taking restraint and trading was active, with the list broadening out to include a large number of usually inactive issues.

United States government securities opened strong, close to yesterday's finals. After a slight rise, however, the list reacted for losses ranging up to one-quarter point. Long term issues continued in disfavor.

Speculative Liens Strongest.

High grade corporate bonds were only moderately active, but most trades were effected only when buyers moved up their bids. Broader gains were recorded in the more speculative grades, including most of the standard rails. The previous closing prices were bettered 1 to 3 points in the case of Baltimore and Ohio, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Nickel Plate, Erie, Louisville and Nashville, New Haven and Lehigh Valley. Favorites among industrials included United States Rubber 5s, Studebaker 6s, National Dairy 5¼s, American Type Founders 6s, Armstrong Cork 5s, and Adams Express 4s. Pressure on Denver and Rio Grande bonds, which affected the 5s of 1955 and 1978 yesterday, was concentrated today on the 4½s of 1936 and they declined sharply.

Cuban Bonds Rise Sharply.

Cuban bonds benefited by an abrupt reversal of sentiment, advancing 1 to as much as 7 points. The extreme gain was made by Cuba Public Works 5½s. American and Foreign Power 5s and some of the International Telephone bonds were among the corporate issues to profit by the election of Col. Mendieta as the new president of Cuba.

German bonds improved and there was a better market for Argentine and Colombian issues.

NEW ISSUE.

Halsey, Stuart & Co., Bancamerica-Blair corporation, and others are offering an issue of $2,300,000 city of St. Louis, Mo., 3¾ per cent bonds, due serially Feb. 1, 1935-'43, inclusive, optional Feb. 1, 1939.

American Type Founders.

Investors' Guide: Would appreciate very much information regarding American Type Founders. Thank you in advance.—L. N.

Answer: This 40 year old organization is one of the leading manufacturers of type and printers' equipment, material and supplies. Net income held stable from 1924 through the fiscal year ended Aug. 31, 1930, varying between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000, but dropped to $463,000 in the subsequent year. In the year ended Aug. 31, 1932, a loss of $1,858,000 was sustained.

Current position on Aug. 31, 1932, appeared strained. Although current assets of $7,888,000 were well in excess of current liabilities of $2,751,000, cash was only $416,000, while notes payable were $1,952,000, and currently maturing funded debt was $438,000. Total funded debt, excluding maturing bonds, amounted to $4,000,000.

Preferred dividends were omitted on March 15, 1932, after an unbroken 30 year record of payments.

The decline in activity in the printing business cut off new business and prevented the company from bettering its current position. As a result interest due Oct. 1, 1933, on the 6 per cent debentures, due 1940, was omitted.

On Oct. 5, 1933, two receivers were appointed for the company on a voluntary bankruptcy petition. The management claimed that the company was not insolvent, having assets of $16,000,000 and liabilities of $4,071,000, but lacked liquidity.

It is contemplated that a reorganization plan will be agreed upon between bondholders, stockholders and bank creditors.

Both the preferred and common are purely speculative.

Banking, Not Insurance.

Investors' Guide: Kindly tell me if Pennsylvania Company for Insurance on Lives and Granting Annuities writes annuity contracts the same as other insurance companies?—K. F.

Answer: Pennsylvania Company for Insurance on Lives and Granting Annuities conducts a banking, trust and safe deposit business. On Dec. 30, 1933, it had total assets of $225,689,000. It was trustee for $859,690,000 personal trusts and for 1,816 million 455 thousand dollars of corporate trusts.

Despite its name, it is not an insurance company.

Am. Tel. & Tel. 1932 Low.

Investors' Guide: To settle an argument at home, will you please advise me what the low for American Telephone and Telegraph stock was in 1932? I was told the lowest it was since the 1929 crash was 86, but I am sure it was 70. Who is correct, please?—C. A.

Answer: You're right. The exact figure for the post-1929 low, scored in 1932, was 69¾.

U. S. RESTS CASE AGAINST STEEL CONTROL OF ROAD

Witnesses for Corporation Take Up Defense.

Attorneys for the government yesterday concluded the presentation of evidence in the action before Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward in which the government is endeavoring to bring about a severance of the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern railway—commonly known as the Chicago Outer Belt—from the United States Steel corporation under whose control it is through stock ownership.

The last government witnesses called were Scott H. Rogers, president of the Outer Belt, and T. E. Bond, vice president. The attorneys for the defense stated that their examination of witnesses will require more time and that the hearing will probably run over into next week.

Asserts Railroad Neutral.

Eugene J. Buffington, retired president of the Illinois Steel company—a United States Steel subsidiary—testified on behalf of the defense. His testimony covered the receipt and shipment of supplies at the various plants of the Illinois Steel company, the method of transportation, etc. He insisted that the Belt Line served the various subsidiaries of the Steel corporation and the public in a neutral manner.

Henry Robinson, an employé of the accounting department, followed Mr. Buffington on the stand. He gave testimony with respect to the business handled at the Gary, South Chicago, and Joliet plants of the Illinois Steel company and the number of employés and wages paid at the three plants during the period from 1926 to 1930, inclusive.

Tells of Jobs and Wages.

The company received 58,000,000 tons of material at the Gary plant during the five year period, 39,000,000 tons at the South Chicago plant and 8,000,000 tons at Joliet.

The number of employés at the Gary plant averaged 12,000 during the five year period and a total of $112,000,000 in salaries and wages was paid. The number averaged around 8,500 at South Chicago, and a total of $82,000,000 in wages was paid. The number of employés at Joliet averaged 2,500 and a total of around $20,800,000 was paid out in wages during the five years.

SILVER FUTURES

Silver futures broke sharply in the early trading yesterday, at the inside showing a decline of over ⅝c, weakness in sterling exchange being a factor. Later, however, there was active buying, which brought about a strong rally, more favorable news regarding the situation at Washington being responsible, and the finish was at net losses of 0.10 to 0.15 cents. Total sales were 7,650,000 ounces. January closed at 44.70 cents; March, 44.85 @44.95c; May, 45.35c; July, 45.90c; and September, 46.44c. "Foreign" bar silver in New York was ¼c lower at 44⅝c, and new "domestic" unchanged at 64½c.

PRICES ADVANCE FOR THIRD WEEK, SAYS U. S. BUREAU

Wholesale Index 71.7% of 1926 Average.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—Wholesale commodity prices increased 1 per cent during the week ending Jan. 13, the bureau of labor statistics announced today, marking the third consecutive weekly rise. During the second week of January nine of the ten major groups of commodities covered by the bureau showed increases, with only one group, house furnishing goods, showing no change in average prices.

The index of the general level of wholesale commodity prices for the last week was 71.7 per cent of the 1926 average of 100, as compared with 71.0 for the week ending Jan. 6. Present prices are at the same level that was recorded during the week of Nov. 18, 1933, when the high point for the last three years was reached.

15½ Per Cent Over Year Ago.

Present prices at 15½ per cent over the corresponding week of a year ago, when the general index registered 62.0, as compared with the low point for the year 1933, the week ending March 4, when the index stood at 59.6, the current index is up by 20 per cent. The present level of prices is 25 per cent under the general average for the month of June, 1929, when the wholesale commodity price index number registered 95.2.

Of the ten major groups of commodities the food group showed the largest advance. They rose by 2½ per cent within the week. Meat prices advanced sharply and showed an average increase of 6 per cent. The cereal products group also contributed to the advance by rising 1 per cent.

Farm Products Advance.

Market prices of farm products continued to show recovery and moved upward two per cent over the average for the previous week and seven per cent over the average for the week of Dec. 23, 1933. With the exception of barley and rye, all grains showed a decided steadying of price. Cows, hogs, live poultry, sheep, hay, and flaxseed were among other commodities showing price advances.

A one-half of one per cent rise in the metals and metal products groups was due to recent advances in price of motor vehicles. Further advancing prices for hides and skins and certain leather items caused the hides and leather group to continue their rise. They advanced by two-tenths of one per cent.

WOOL MARKETS

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 18.—Improved demand for territory and Texas wools featured the Boston wool market today. Wool men said that the pickup in business indicated improved conditions in the manufactured field, which would bring about a marked resumption of wool buying if it continues. Prices were stronger to higher, reflecting basic strength all along the line. More and more sellers were demanding advances.

BROKER TELLS OF MILLION PROFIT ON BANK STOCK

Detroit Group Bought Back Own Shares.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—(AP)—How profits of more than $1,000,000 to a New York investment house in a Detroit bank stock transaction eventually resulted in a loss to the Guardian group of Michigan banks was described today to senate investigators.

The witness was Carleton M. Higbie, who was a member of the firm of the Keane-Higbie company, an investment corporation that became a member of the Guardian group.

He told of the sale of 30,000 shares of stock of the Union Commerce Investment corporation, a forerunner of the Guardian Detroit Union Group, Inc., to the firm of Goldman & Sachs of New York in 1929 at $120 a share and the repurchase at $184 a share of 25,000 of them.

Took Over Selling Firm.

Upon close questioning by Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, Higbie agreed that the repurchase was a condition upon which rested culmination of the deal in which the Union Commerce company acquired the Keane-Higbie company.

After the stock was repurchased, Higbie said, a "selling syndicate" was formed to dispose of it. The members of the syndicate he listed as the Guardian Detroit company, the Keane-Higbie company, Clarence Bitting of the Fisher company, and Harry S. Covington, who later became a director of the group board.

Covington previously had testified that he had had a part in the repurchase and that he was to receive a consideration of $25,000. Higbie said Covington was to help dispose of the shares and was to receive 10 per cent.

Market Crashed First.

Only about 7,000 of the shares were sold before the market crash, however, Higbie said, and the market value dropped far below $100. The shares eventually were taken over by the Guardian Detroit company, which became a member of the group, he testified.

The investment banker referred nonchalantly to the $1,000,000 realized by the New York firm in selling the stock back to the Union Commerce company, of which he also was a director.

"O, I was worth between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000 and another million didn't make any difference to me," he told the committee.

HEAVY HEDGING SALES DEPRESS PRICES OF LARD

Specialists in the market report packers and warehousemen are hedging around 500,000 to 750,000 pounds of lard daily, which is absorbed by speculative interests. Eastern traders are credited with being the principal buyers, mostly in May and July.

At the close lard futures were 7½ to 17½ cents net lower, new July leading the decline. Liverpool lard was unchanged for spot and 3d higher for futures.

Prices on bellies were 15 to 27½ cents lower, with cash lots unchanged at 6.50 cents.

Cash lard prices were easier at 5.50 cents for regular, 4.77½ cents for loose, the price being 12½ cents lower than the previous day, and leaf dropped to a level of 4.75 cents. Prices:

COTTON SLIGHTLY LOWER AND TRADE IS LESS ACTIVE

There was less snap to the cotton trade yesterday and while weak spots developed a ready absorption of offerings, there was nothing aggressive in operations by interests on either side. Liverpool cables were 10 points lower early, but the close was at net gains of 4 to 5 cents.

A disturbing feature was the sharp break in English sterling which led to selling by Liverpool operators in New York.

At the close futures in Chicago were 7 to 14 points net lower, and other markets off 2 to 8 points. Spots declined 5 points in New York to 11.50 cents; New Orleans and Houston, 11.10 cents. Galveston was unchanged at 11.15 cents. Prices:

GRAINS RECEDE; STERLING DROP PUZZLES TRADE

Speculators Are Cautious and Take Profits.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

An undertone of uncertainty developed in the grain markets yesterday due to some extent to the unexplained weakness in sterling exchange. There was not the aggressive buying in wheat that was in evidence earlier in the week, and many operators were disposed to act with caution.

Profit taking appeared on all minor upturns and despite reports of a continued liberal business in cash wheat, futures finished within a fraction of the inside figures with net losses of ⅞ to 1 cent. May was 89¼ to 89⅝ cents at the close with July at 87¼ to 87⅜ cents.

Buying of wheat against sales of corn again had a weakening effect on the latter grain with net losses of ⅝ to 1 cent, May being 52¼ to 52⅜ cents at the last. Oats were off ¼ to ½ cent, with May 38½ to 38⅝ cents. Rye lost 1 to 1⅜ cents, May and July closing at 63⅛ cents. Barley lost 1¼ cents.

Cash Wheat in Demand.

Removal of hedges against sales of cash wheat to mills and others, according to trade gossip, has resulted in tightening up the pit situation in the May delivery, and at times the latter future has shown a tendency to gain on the July. Millers and cash interests were buyers of futures again yesterday. It is understood that in the last 10 days a liberal amount of cash wheat has been absorbed by mills.

The federal emergency relief agency was reported in the market for round lots of cash wheat yesterday, but whether it was able to secure grain at the price bid was not disclosed. The third unit of the Pillsbury "A" mill at Minneapolis started grinding yesterday, making the first time in three years, it is claimed, that the mill has been working at capacity.

Switch Rates Change Buying.

Part of the receipts of twenty cars of wheat here yesterday was said to be for filling of contracts with mills which recently bought the grain in the southwest. It is understood it was found more profitable to bring the wheat her from another market than to buy from elevators, as the new switching rate figures out around 2 cents per bushel.

In addition to a large business in cash wheat there has also been considerable cash rye sold.

Export demand for Canadian wheat was much less active and no sales of consequence were reported. Winnipeg wheat closed ⅞ cent lower in Canadian funds. Liverpool was off ½ to 1⅛ cents, the break in sterling being a factor in lowering prices in the English market.

HIDE FUTURES.

A somewhat easier undertone prevailed in hide futures in New York yesterday with prices off 5 points at the last. Sales aggregated 1,020,000 lbs. Closing bids: March, 10.15c; June, 11.10c; September, 11.45c; December, 11.70c.

ALL LIVE STOCK MOVES HIGHER ON GOOD DEMAND

Hogs Advance 10 to 15c; Lambs Go Up 25c.

Hog prices advanced 10 to 15 cents yesterday to the highest level in several days as receipts diminished. The higher position of the cattle and lamb markets contributed to the strength in hogs.

Supplies were sold rapidly and buyers who remained idle early because of the weakness in fresh pork obtained small droves during the later rounds.

Much warmer weather had a depressing effect on demand for pork here, although slight gains at some of the eastern distributing points offset the half cent loss in loins at Chicago.

Top and Average Up 10 Cents.

Both the top and general average prices advanced 10 cents, at $3.65 and $3.45, respectively. Federal buyers obtained about 4,700 head for relief, mostly at $3.60 and $3.65. "House" hogs weighing 220 to 300 pounds sold to packers largely at $3.40 to $3.55. Heavy butchers and packing sows were scarce again and these showed the greatest strength. Offerings of packing sows have been dropping off for some time and now make up a small share of the supply. "Packers" weighing 320 to 600 pounds sold at $2.75 to $3.15.

Large local packers were fairly aggressive again, absorbing about 16,000, including directs, or about 47 per cent of the total receipts.

Steer Prices Advance Again.

Prices advanced again on steers yesterday, despite the weakness in the cow market which has been under pressure of unusually heavy supplies. Prime 1,036 pound steers reached $7.25, the highest paid for cattle since Aug. 24. Medium and weighty steers also strengthened. Prime 1,344 pound averages brought $6.50, while comparatively few sold for less than $4.50.

Packers bought about 600 canners and cutters for the government, but prices for this class of stock show losses of 50 to 75 cents compared with the "out of line" market last week.

Wool Prices Boost Sheep.

The high level of wool prices figured prominently as a factor in yesterday's higher lamb market, particularly in aged sheep. According to packers, the pelt they get from the aged ewes that are selling around $4.00 to $4.10 per cwt alive, is worth more than the mutton.

Lambs advanced mostly 25 cents yesterday to new highs for the last five months. Top wooled lambs to packers and shippers reached $8.65.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Buying in cotton goods continued dull and prices remained firm today. Convertibles were more active. Fine combed materials were featured in fashion shows. Rayon yarns continued in moderate call with fine deniers selling best. Silk gray goods were firmer and recent advances held. Burlaps were firm at Calcutta and steady in spot markets. Wool dress goods sold better than the finer worsteds.

RIDE A HOBBY RIDE A HOBBY RIDE A HOBBY RIDE A HOBBY RIDE A HOBBY RIDE A HOBBY RIDE A HOBBY RIDE A HOBBY

There is nothing like one as a means of forgetting business or personal worries. When you come home at night you can soon shed all care as you putter around absorbed in a hobby.

If you have none, have your doctor recommend one as an outlet for strained nerves, for frustrated ambitions, and as one of the most absorbing sources of entertainment any one could want.

A hobby that requires only as much time as you want to give to it; that costs very little; that you can sell when you want—that's stamp collecting. Our most solid men of business have succumbed to its appeal.

If you know nothing about its fatal fascination read Sandy Cabeen's article next Sunday in the Tribune.

RATE REDUCED ON $300 LOANS

COMMONWEALTH WISHES TO ANNOUNCE a reduction in rate on $300 loans. The new rate is 2½% a month. This will mean a substantial saving to persons who require a $300 loan. Loans of less than $300 will be made at prevailing rates.

You may repay in monthly installments or from one to twenty months. Charges are figured only for the actual time you keep the money. Prompt confidential service for forty-seven years.
